Local Accountant To Study For Ministry David J. Brooman, who has carried on an accountancy practice at 15 Yonge Street North for the past year is leaving the field of accountancy to study for the ministry.

Mr. Brooman is presently the student assistant at Emmanuel Anglican Church in Richvale and is studying theology at Wycliffe College, University of Toronto in preparation for ordination in the Anglican Church of Canada.

Mr. Brooman came to Canada from England seven years ago. He first went to St. Catharines and then was associated with a firm of chartered accountants in Toronto. While he was in Toronto he serviced several clients from Richmond Hill and in November, 1963 moved to the Hill and opened his practice from Donald Plaxton's office.

His practice here will be taken over by Jocelyn Laughlin, Franklin Tucker and McBride, a well-established firm which Mr. Brooman knew when he was in St. Catharines.

Mr. Brooman will still be associated with the firm and as his studies will not occupy him full time, particularly in the summer, will still be able to see his own clients.
