Driver Ditches Ditched Truck

Nobody was around when "The Liberal" photographer came upon this tractor trailer transport spread-eagled across the road on Lawrence Avenue, near Palmer Avenue, Friday night. While the rear wheels of the trailer rested in one ditch, the front wheels of the cab reposed in the other. But not for long. The truck disappeared just as mysteriously as it had arrived and only a few ruts in the road remained a short while afterwards to show that it had even been there at all. Richmond Hill police said they didn't have any report on it.

Century Of Change - Rabbi

By MARGARET McLEAN
"We are the first century to accept innovation as being the norm", stated Rabbi Stuart Rosenberg, addressing the annual meeting of the York County Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association at St. Andrew's United Church February 9.

Dr. Rosenberg noted that in our society a ten-year old building is considered old, and that which is old is no good. "Most peoples of the past assumed the contrary, that change was for the worst and not the best," he stated.

It was this acceptance of change, and worse a directionless change, that Dr. Rosenberg termed the "silent revolution". "We are born without umbilical cords, cut off from any nurture from what has gone before us," he said. This makes it particularly difficult to communicate with children except about contemporary things. If we try to elicit any information or guidance from the past "we are suspect, as being irrelevant anachronisms, a kind of a dinosaur who has survived, but not for long."

At the World's Fair in New York, which he called "a commercial for a commercial", Dr. Rosenberg said he had seen many mechanical, industrial and technological changes for the future. To him they appeared anxiously creating apparatuses, faceless robots which would make man into more of a robot.

to hurt the child, and fear being unpopular, we refuse to vote and thus the parent becomes the child.

We need to become parents again, to become teachers, someone who has done his homework and planned his lessons, said Dr. Rosenberg and warned that this takes discipline, training and constant will. But the glory of being a parent, he said, is in being unforgettable when you aren't around and being worthy of remembrance.

Dr. W. Hughes, director of psychiatric services, York County Hospital, thanked Dr. Rosenberg for his "wholly stimulating and sustaining discourse".

In her report President Mrs. Claire Moore noted that the White Cross Centre had celebrated its first birthday in Oct. 1964. Eighteen referrals from the York County Hospital had begun their social rehabilitation at the centre, she reported. It is planned to extend this service in 1965.

During 1964 the branch had also continued to support an emotionally disturbed child at the Elizabeth Bigelow School, a special care and treatment centre.

The education committee, chaired by Denis Middleton has planned a leadership training course to provide people to conduct marriage counselling courses in their own districts.

The committee had also conducted a one-day seminar for teachers in January, 1964, although this had been planned in 1963. As the elementary teachers of York County had, during the past three years, been exposed to more mental health education than any other comparable group in Ontario, any more teacher activities were left until 1965.

Mrs. Moore reported that the fund-raising campaign in May had raised $12,154. For the year 1964, $4,000 was sent to the Ontario division.

As chairman of the White Cross Volunteers, Mrs. Moore reported that volunteers visited 14 approved homes in York County and three Ontario Hospitals, visiting approximately 400 patients.

In his report on the psychiatric services at the York County Hospital, Social Worker Fred K. Boden noted that since its incorporation into the psychiatric wing of the hospital, there has been no change in the basic policies of the mental health clinic and in addition to its services, there are now 22 in-patient beds in the hospital which have demonstrated their value during the past year.

Convener of the Christmas gift project Mrs. D. J. O'Callaghan reported that 1,600 gifts had been received and had been distributed with the co-operation of 16 people.

The captain of the Richmond Hill area volunteer driving service, Mrs. Karin Lumsden reported that during 1964, 72 trips to the psychiatric department at Newmarket were made by eight volunteer drivers for 27 patients. In addition to the eight who drive regularly, there were a number of others who helped out in emergencies Mrs. Lumsden noted.

The report of the scientific advisory committee noted that Dr. Hughes had requested the branch to contribute funds for an epidemiological study of alcoholism in the county. Since the amount requested, $4,000, amounted to almost half of the working budget of the branch, the request was refused as being beyond the scope of the branch at the local level.

It was suggested that when Dr. Hughes has prepared a more definite brief, it be sent to the Ontario division with the recommendation that it be dealt with on a provincial or national level.

New members of the board of directors for 1965 will be Mrs. J. S. Spillette and D. D. Adams of Newmarket, Mrs. W. Murray and Mrs. K. Lumsden of Richmond Hill and G. Morton of Keswick.

Tribute was paid to board members who will not be on the board again in 1965, Mrs. J. Holborn, Sutton, Mrs. E. McNabb, Newmarket, D. R. MacDonald, Thornhill and D. Middleton and W. S. Cook, Richmond Hill.

Greetings were brought to the meeting from the warden of York County by Mrs. Alma Walker, reeve of Markham Village, Mrs. Judith Sule, field representative of the Ontario division of the CMHA brought greetings from the division and congratulated the York County branch on its year's work.

Master of ceremonies was F. K. Boden. The invocation was given by Rev. Albion Wright.
