

Elgin Park Body Is Turned Down By School Board

A request from Elgin Park Ratepayers' Association to have notices of an upcoming meeting distributed through the pupils of Beverley Acres School, was turned down by Richmond Hill Public School Board at its meeting Thursday evening of last week.

A similar request by Richmond Hill Fair Board was approved by the board. Trustee Jack Knott said the Elgin request was not in the interest of the board's main concern — the pupils. He said they could probably advertise their meeting, which is to deal with the condition of ditches in the area, in a better manner.

Said Trustee David Stephenson: "Ninety per cent of these (the notices) will end up in the ditch, anyway."

Approval of the Richmond Hill request was granted by the board because the pamphlets to be distributed through the schools dealt with competitions for students in writing and art to be held in conjunction with the fair.

The board also agreed to send Business Administrator Kenneth Turton to the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of School Business Officials of Niagara Falls, May 2-5. Registration fee is $30.

The board approved the expenditure of $132.25 incurred by Safety Director Doug Young of the Richmond Hill Police to take 41 school patrol members to the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto, March 15.

Perfect In Every Detail

An ingenious lighthouse made from several sizes of tin cans and carefully fashioned into a realistic model is admired by Paul O'Brien, Senior Scouts 5th Richmond Hill (left), John Harvey 6th Thornhill (centre) and Peter Van Leeuwen, 6th Thornhill (right) who helped with the recent Scout and Cub hobby show, sponsored by York-Summit.

In the background may be seen several examples of Scouts and Cubs art, a model of the Flintstones jalopy may be seen on the table and Paul holds a model car in his hand. These are only a small sampling of the hundreds of displays of handicrafts admired by those who visited the show at Bayview Secondary School on March 20.

Bayview Secondary School was a busy place March 20 as York Summit District Cubs and Scouts held their sixth annual handicraft and hobby show.

More than 1150 entries were received and the calibre of the entries served to amaze the several thousand visitors to the show. As an indication of the popularity of the hobby show with the area Scouts and Cubs, the number of entries this year was more than double that of three years ago.

Among the more unusual entries which received considerable comment were such novelties as a birdhouse with a battery operated outside light, a bird feeding station that also served as a weather vane, a display using peanuts to portray scouts, a man in space display complete with a realistic papier mache moon, and a cake shaped as a shoe complete with a butterscotch drop roof, licorice shoe laces, lifesaver eyelets and a chocolate bar door, birds made from milkweed pods at a feeding station.

The exhibits were judged according to classification for Scouts in one group, and Cubs were judged in two groups, boys 8 to 9½ and boys over 9½. The Scout exhibits were grouped into 52 classifications and the Cub exhibits were grouped into 46 classifications for each age group.

For the Cubs, baking attracted the largest number of entries, followed closely by birdhouse, art and cubcraft. The most popular Scout classifications were coin collections and stamp collections.

Points were awarded on a 25-20-15-10 basis for first, second, third, and good effort respectively, and in addition each entry received one point. The total points for each group was averaged with the number of boys registered for each group to ensure that each pack and troop had an equal chance of winning regardless of size.

Top five Scout troops were 5th Richmond Hill Senior Troop, 1st Richmond Hill, 5th Richmond Hill Junior Troop, Jefferson, and the 2nd Richmond Hill Troop.

Top five Cub packs were 1st Richmond Hill "B" Pack 5th Richmond Hill Mang Pack, 1st Thornhill "A" Pack, Oak Ridges, and the 3rd Richmond Hill "B" Pack.

The group with the highest overall average for troops and Cub packs was the 1st Richmond Hill and they will be awarded the George Harvey Memorial Trophy.

Winners of first place ribbons in the Cub section were S. Burnfield (3), D. Burnfield (2), S. Clark (2), C. Brown (2), D. Godfrey (2), K. Graham (2), N. Hewitt (2), J. Klingenstein (2), N. Barten, M. Bulova, W. Bell, R. Boyer, R. Boardman, B. Coe, D. Collier, R. Collins, M. Cook, K. Fraser, T. Finley, S. Gentes, G. Johnson, G. King, B. King, B. LaFrance, R. Long, F. Lynn, M. Maier, R. Winner of the patrol entry was the 4th Thornhill. During the afternoon various exhibits were displayed in the auditorium. A model Scout camp was set up, adult exhibits were shown to help encourage the boys, and the district badge committee had a display of badges, and conducted a survey as to the popularity of the various proficiency badges.

Many area residents gave time and experience to help make this show the most successful to date and the committee voices appreciation to the judges (in excess of 50) to the 125 Scouts who acted as guides, runners and guards, and to the members of the York Summit executive and staff who assisted in making this show the largest and best in its six year history. Hobby show chairman was Don Davidson.

STOUFFVILLE: Stouffville Village Council last week commissioned Charles W. Jones, a local draftsman to prepare plans for the new town firehall to be located on Main Street next to the bowling alley. The building is expected to cost $20,000.
