Markham Twp. Said Possible Dumping Ground

Markham Township will become the "dumping ground of Metro" if precautions aren't taken, Councillor Alan Sumner charged at last week's meeting of council.

Mr. Sumner was arguing for a clause in a report of committees, which recommended that all building permit applications be presented to council for consideration, while a zoning bylaw for the rural areas of the township is enacted.

The by-law, covering areas not zoned at present, is to be presented to council within three months.

The clause was termed "grossly unfair" by Councillor Cleary Palmer.

Said Mr. Sumner: "I agree 100 percent, but council should never get to the state where a man can put up some unsightly building by a house."

"Where has that happened?" asked Reeve Charles Hooper.

Mr. Sumner said that a fruit market — "congregation of concrete blocks and flapping canvas" — had been erected in the south-east part of the township near Highway 48.

"Markham will become the dumping ground of Metro as we have no protection in that part of the city," Mr. Sumner said.

Said Reeve Hooper: "Don't you ever stop there for a cold coke, or a banana or something?"

Councillor Palmer termed the proposed zoning by-law as the "first advanced step I've seen to protect the rural areas. . . . But I think paragraph b (the clause in question) is unjust."

Said Deputy-reeve Stewart Rumble: "How are you going to protect us? You are going to limit us, not protect us."

Councillor Charles Hoover said he didn't feel it was worthwhile saying anything, as the majority would just rule otherwise, anyway.

Mr. Rumble said that, if the planning board would allow smaller lots, the "problem of the 10-acre lot" would be solved. Farmers, who wanted to sell some land, would be happy not to have to sell the whole farm.

Council, with Councillors Palmer and Rumble, and Reeve Hooper voting against the controversial clause, will have three months in which to reconsider it if it wishes.

In the same report, council agreed to get the engineer to phone for comparable prices on a Gravelly 30 rotary grass cutter, instead of purchasing the recommended one at a cost of $580.

Other recommendations in the report adopted by council: A request by the engineer for the additional expenditure of approximately $500 on the recently-approved van for the waterworks department in order to change the specifications to heavy duty for use in the cleaning of sewers.

A by-law to regulate the use of sewers, particularly in the matter of discharge of industrial wastes.

Metro Chairman Questions Sale Water To Townships

The sale of water by Metro to outlying communities such as Markham, Vaughan, Pickering and Toronto Townships, which was questioned by Metro Chairman William Allen last week, does not at present affect Markham, Engineer Dusan Miklas told "The Liberal."

The Metropolitan Toronto Works Committee has authorized water to be provided to Pickering Township on an emergency basis until January 1, 1968 because of low-level lake water in the area and technical problems in the township's distribution system.

Mr. Allen said Metro should not spend money to build water plants to serve the emergency or expansion plans of the various nearby townships.

Metro has agreements to build three reservoirs outside its boundaries, including one in Markham at Bayview Avenue and Kenedy Road.

Mr. Miklas said Markham provides all its own water right now and would only need to rely on Metro for help if an emergency arose.

He said the township had purchased several secondary wells at Leslie Street from Metro last year through the OWRC, and hadn't required any water from Metro since.

Mr. Miklas said the reservoirs referred to by Metro would probably not be needed for another four or five years, depending on the present rate of development in the township.

"When we get up to the maximum consumption of water, we'll automatically tap into the Metro reservoir," Mr. Miklas said.

He said he felt the best source was from the central supply in the lake, and a pipeline to carry the water had now reached as far as Finch Avenue at Bayview.

Private Airfield Causes Concern

A proposed airfield has aroused some criticism in Markham Township.

Speaking to a proposed rural zoning by-law for those areas not zoned at present, Councillor Charles Hoover said he had received complaints from people living in the vicinity of the field, which is contemplated at Dickson's Hill.

He said he expected council would be presented with a petition about it.

"What can we do about it?" asked Deputy-reeve Stewart Rumble. "Do you want us to stop it?"

"Would you like it if your people weren't happy?" said Mr. Hoover.

Reeve Charles Hooper said that it was a private field and nothing could be done about it. The Department of Transport had made him cut down some trees on his property to accommodate a similar one.

"People used to be against automobiles too," said the reeve.
