Can't Convict Dumpers

Whitchurch By-law Difficult To Enforce

In spite of four appearances in court, Whitchurch Township Police Department has been unable to secure a conviction against those using a dump on the CFRB Sideroad contrary to the township zoning by-law. Owing to the wording of the township dump by-law, it is not possible to charge the owner of the property, the lessee or the company dumping the refuse (Tasco Disposal Company) but individual truckers must be charged. Four charges were laid recently but when these came up in Newmarket Magistrate's Court last Thursday, it was revealed that service had not been effected on three individuals as they could not be located at the address given. One of the accused did appear but at his request, the case was postponed until next January. The site being used for the dump, on the CFRB Sideroad between Bayview and Leslie Ave. (Concession 3) is zoned agricultural. It is leased to a George White as a gravel pit and is still being used as such, as well as for a dump. Reeve Ross Farquharson advised "The Liberal" that the township had been offered a per load fee to permit dumping on the property but had refused it. Mr. Farquharson stated that both municipal and industrial wastes are being dumped at the site. Although the area is swampy he did not think the dumping would pollute any neighboring water supplies. The closest home using well water is about a quarter of a mile distant and the site of the municipal well which supplies Oak Ridges is approximately two miles distant. Mr. Farquharson noted also that there are two other dump sites nearby which the firm could use. The township operates a municipal dump on the east side of Highway 48 approximately one and a half miles south of Ballantrae where loads may be dumped for a small fee. York Sanitation Company also operates a dump on parts of Lots 10 and 11 east of Bayview only half a mile north of the CFRB Sideroad. This firm, based in Newmarket, dumps municipal garbage from Newmarket, Aurora and Richmond Hill. The township has had few complaints about the operation of this dump. The garbage is well covered with fill. There have been some fires but none serious enough to require fire fighting services.

JOHN ADDISON REPORTS

In this the final week of the election campaign, I would like to report to the voters of York North my views on effective representation for this area.

I have tried my best to be a good member of parliament since first elected in 1962. I promised then, and I intend to continue it if re-elected on November 8th, that I would represent all York North constituents regardless of political affiliation. I said that I would be available to my constituents weekends at my home in King Township or at my office in Ottawa. Both these promises still stand.

I have maintained an office at 40 Yonge Street South in Richmond Hill since first elected. My office and my home phone numbers are 884-1351 and 773-5193, respectively. A legitimate request for assistance has never been turned away or brushed aside. Your problems are my problems. As your MP, I have tried to be always accessible. I do not intend to change that.

I believe a rail commuter service for York North residents will be a distinct asset. My survey in 1963 proved there was a need. Now, it is nearing reality. Experimental runs of commuter-style trains were made on October 31st and November 1st, 1965, to Newmarket. I will be presenting a brief in support of a commuter service to a meeting of the Metro Toronto and Region Transportation Study committee on November 18th in the Richmond Hill council chambers. Your active support will add considerably to its weight.

Throughout my term of office as your MP, I have reported to you regularly. My weekly newspaper report from Ottawa, my Sunday radio broadcasts over CFGM, and my monthly letter from Ottawa to 1600 residents are the means used to keep you informed.

On major issues, I have mailed to every home in York North reports of my activities. In these, I have asked for your opinions on important matters such as commuter service and capital punishment. Your response has permitted me to represent your views accurately. On the matter of capital punishment, you have indicated that a majority favours retention. If re-elected, I shall carry that view to Ottawa.

In this election, I stand for continuance for another five years of the high level of progress and prosperity Canadians everywhere have enjoyed for the last 2 1/2 years of Liberal government. The Liberal Party's platform for the future will ensure a higher standard of living, greater social security, more and better jobs, and educational aid for all Canadians.

I have always done my best to think and act as a Canadian for the national good. My viewpoint is not tainted by narrow regionalism. In Ottawa, where we are concerned with employment, foreign affairs, national defence, external trade, banking and commerce, transportation policies and social security, MPs like myself must think in terms of a Canadian approach to a problem, not a provincial viewpoint.

If re-elected, I intend to work diligently at Ottawa, in the House, in caucus and on committees, as well as here in York North as your MP. I intend to contribute and be a part of a Liberal team that will ensure five more years of prosperity and unparalleled growth.

I ask for your vote on November 8th in order to continue as a strong voice representing your interests and the interests of all Canadians.

Sincerely,

Liberal Candidate in York North
