

ELGIN MILLS AND JEFFERSON NEWS

Evening Branch St. John's Anglican Church 884-3008

Chitter - Chatter
 Birthday greetings to Cathy Ratchford for November 9 and to Ross Hazelhurst for November 12.

We are pleased to report that George Patton is making good progress in York Central Hospital where he underwent surgery last week.

Mrs. Giles Kerswill spent a very pleasant few days last week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rumble in Toronto.

Our community was saddened to learn of the passing last Saturday of one of its long-time residents, Albert Jones of Leonard Avenue. Our sincere sympathy is extended to his family.

Our sincere sympathy also to Mr. and Mrs. George Patton on the passing of her brother-in-law, Melville Mitchell of Holland Landing.

Hospital Auxiliary

A meeting was held October 27 at the home of Mrs. E. Gamble, Yonge Street, with approximately 15 members present. Anyone wishing to pay their dues or to join the auxiliary is asked to contact Mrs. Terry at 884-3008. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. Carson, Yonge Street, on January 19.

Community Club

At the meeting last Wednesday evening, final plans were discussed for the annual bazaar and bake sale at the school November 13. Tickets are now on sale by all members of the club.

Mrs. W. Gardiner of Willowdale was the guest for the evening and gave a most interesting demonstration on the art of making jewellery from copper wire. All ladies present were given two pieces of copper wire and with wire cutters followed Mrs. Gardiner's instructions step by step and were able to take home a pair of earrings.

HONOUR THEIR MEMORY WITH A POPPY

Rev. Dr. A. B. Arnot, BA, BD, FRGS, minister of Richmond Hill Baptist Church, Wright Street, will give the address at Richmond Hill's Service of Remembrance at the Cenotaph on November 7, it was announced by the committee in charge this week.

Dr. Arnot has first hand knowledge of the meaning of Remembrance Day since he served in World War 2 as chaplain of the forces of the 2nd South African Division, attached to the British 8th Army under Alexander and Auchinleck, in Egypt and Libya, and participated in many engagements, particularly the battles of Bardia, Sollum and Hafra. Throughout the battle of Bardia he was in charge of the ambulance corps due to the absence of the medical officer.

The chaplain often conducted services with small groups, accompanying the singing on his violin. On one occasion the scene of such a service was a precipice just before zero hour signalled the beginning of combat. He also served in Tobruk before his fall to Rommel's forces. Besides the service medals, Dr. Arnot was awarded two battle stars.

Your Legion Reports
 Branch 375, Royal Canadian Legion
 By Eric Chapman - 884-0045

Tomorrow, November 5, is marked throughout Canada as the beginning of Remembrance Week.

It is fitting then at this time to draw your attention to the Legion emblem which appears at the top of this column, and to quote the following, written by Judge Redmond Roche, Dominion poppy chairman and president of the Legion's Quebec command.

"Memoriam Eorum Retinebimus" (we will remember them). The emblem of our great organization and the motto it bears were wisely chosen to represent the "Raison d'Etre" of the Royal Canadian Legion. They typify the idea of REMEMBRANCE. They are the "trade mark" of the character and creed of our fellow members. Those of us who display this truly Canadian symbol, showing the maple leaf associated with the poppy, make known to all who behold it that they keep in mind with affection those thousands of gallant fallen comrades now resting in distant lands.

Legion members have pledged themselves to honor their departed brothers and also to remember their living comrades who were tragically broken by the conflict and who are not easily employable in the exacting conditions of our modern way of life. This is a sacred task. The poppy campaign provides us with the occasion to raise funds for a great service which is by far the most important endeavor of the Legion. Let us not forget that the poppy is the focal point of Remembrance. It is Remembrance itself.

Every member of the Legion and its ladies' auxiliaries must grasp this unique way of participating in a great venture and of ensuring that money will be available for all those who need our aid.

It must be well known from coast to coast that the making of the poppy replicas is entrusted to disabled and necessitous veterans who fought and gave their best when Canada's freedom was at stake. Let us note that the poppy supplies are of no use if they remain in the veteran's shops.

Let us all continue to regard the poppy campaign as the highest service we can give the Legion, and may our own dedication and devotion inspire those who work for the same ends, to make a greater effort, and provide all the people of Canada with a wonderful opportunity to share, this year, in the act of REMEMBRANCE."

Poppy Day in Richmond Hill and the surrounding area covered by Branch 375 will be this Saturday.

The poppy trust fund is separated from other Legion accounts which provide funds for scholarships, bursaries, sponsoring of midget hockey teams, children's Christmas parties, donations to local charitable organizations and the like. The community is reminded that by wearing a poppy we honor the war dead and also help the living. About 70% of the money raised through the campaign remains in the community, with the rest going to Legion service bureaus across the country. All funds are held in trust. Any veteran or dependent may appeal to the fund for aid, such as food, shelter or medical expenses in emergencies which a pension does not cover. Seventy-five percent of all cases helped by the Poppy Fund involve veterans who are not Legion members. We suggest you give according to the dictates of your conscience.

This Sunday at 3 pm a remembrance service will be held in Richmond Hill to honor those who gave their lives in the service of their country. Preceding the service, a parade of veterans will form up at the Richmond Heights Centre at 2.15 pm and march to the Cenotaph at 2.30. Veterans who are not members of the Legion are invited to participate in the parade. It is expected that all Legion members will be attending for the parade and that most will bring their families to participate in the ensuing service.

The proposed charter flight to the United Kingdom next September was discussed at the last Legion zone meeting. Seventy-nine persons have thus far entered their name in the scheme. The flight requires a minimum of 133 passengers and it was decided to make no definite arrangements until December 1. If at that time the minimum figure has not been reached the option will be cancelled. Details of the scheme are available at Legion Court.

At the last general meeting nine new members were initiated into the Legion three of them from Kettleby. Russell Power, one of the Kettleby commuters, became the winner of the attendance draw prize and therefore must certainly be glad he joined.

The hospital chairman reported that Comrade Frances Beaulieu was now at home recovering from a recent knee injury, which was not suffered while watching hockey, but rather from working around the house.
