

Flintstone Const. Co. Gets Refusal Reasons

E. Miller of Flintstone Construction Company of Downsview has again asked Richmond Hill Planning Board at last Thursday's meeting why his application for residential development in the Crosby Avenue-Neal Drive area is considered premature.

At a previous meeting of planning board Mr. Miller has been taken to task for shouting, so at this meeting his solicitor Irving Aiken acted as his spokesman and the questioning was carried out in a quiet manner.

Chairman Howard Whillans told Mr. Aiken the board had received from council a statement of policy that that body did not want to entertain any plans for residential subdivision at this time. When asked if the plan would be considered suitable when residential development is again considered timely, the chairman said that the planning board has no way of knowing the thinking of council on the subject in the next six months or the next year, so it would be useless to discuss or process the plans at this time.

Finally, with the approval of members of the board, Secretary Harry Sayers read the letter which had been sent to the Department of Municipal Affairs on July 16 which set forth planning board's reasons for considering the application premature.

These included the fact that the town is engaged in formulating a new official plan to chart the future growth of Richmond Hill, with special consideration being given to correcting the imbalance of residential and commercial-industrial assessment. It was agreed that there is a storm drainage problem in the area, which fact had been noted in the department's letter, although it has been somewhat alleviated, sanitary sewers also have been a problem in the area, the board noted in its letter. Corrective measures have been undertaken but will require lengthy testing to determine if they are effective.

The board's letter also noted that part of the land included in the plan is owned by the town and has not been purchased by the developer.

Reading Is Theme Of Pleasantville H & S

Everyone interested in books and library services is invited to next Monday evening's meeting of Pleasantville Home and School Association.

Marking the beginning of National Book Week, an informative and interesting program has been planned by Mrs. Iris Pratt of the school's staff, who has just finished cataloguing the school's library.

The program will have three features centred on the theme. Library Supervisor Jack Nemchin of Markham Township School Areas 1 and 2 will give an address; a film on libraries titled, "Carpet Under Every Classroom", will be shown and a display of books will be set up with the co-operation of Richmond Hill Public Library. The book display will be divided into 13 areas with mimeographed lists available to parents on which they may vote those books in which they are interested.

Purpose of the evening's program is to let parents know what can be done with a good library and to seek their support in arousing the children's enthusiasm about making good use of the school and public libraries.

Coffee will be served at the close of the meeting which begins at 8:15 p.m.

Pleasantville School Principal Denis Middleton told "The Liberal" that every child attending his school is a member of Richmond Hill Public Library, emphasizing the awareness of the enjoyment and knowledge which may be obtained from books.
