Briefs Urge Rapid Transit Railway

for first-class residential development".
In answer to a question by a committee member, Mrs. Hancey said there is a "need for better transportation to the south and until that happens we would not like to see any future development until this problem is solved."
"When it is solved and it is economically feasible", she said, "to expand residential development we could extend our water and sewer services".
She added that if there was any large residential increase outside the borders of the municipality "there would be some concern about sanitary and water facilities. We've not got the facilities at the present time to accept any large residential growth".
Mrs. Hancey said any reasonable projects in the municipality could be handled but the town is presently discouraging some growth while waiting for its official plan which will be brought forth this year.
Councillor Hancey stated that "we have accepted the fact we are a dormitory town but are trying to obtain industry to give some relief to the residential taxpayer. We feel we need assistance to provide transportation for our people".
The municipality, she said, would be willing to co-operate in establishing a rapid transit system "in any way economically possible for us at the present time".
The Hill brief also called for the surfacing of Bathurst Street to Richmond Hill to provide a solution in company with the railway innovation plus widening of Bayview Avenue and establishment of a non-stop express bus service between Richmond Hill and Eglinton.
The brief stressed, however, that without the railway system the above aids would only be a partial answer to the transportation problem.
It suggests a monorail rapid transit system from Eglinton Avenue north to Steeles Avenue rather than a subway which has been discussed in the past to avoid the heavier cost of underground excavation.
If the system were extended beyond Steeles Avenue planning could provide for the widening of Yonge Street to facilitate a central monorail system reaching points to the far north of York County.
The brief was prepared by the transportation committee of council under the chairmanship of Councillor Eric Handbury.

Rapid population expansion in the Richmond Hill - Aurora - Newmarket area north of Metro calls for an immediate rapid transit system in the form of existing railway facilities.
Calling for quick action was Liberal MP for York North John Addison who presented a brief to the initial hearings Thursday of last week of the Metro Toronto and Region Transportation Study in Richmond Hill.
He also recommended:
That a commuter rail service on a limited basis running through Maple, King City, Newmarket and Aurora be immediately incorporated and be commenced at the same time and in conjunction with the Toronto - Burlington - Dunbarton rapid transit service. This service is expected to get underway early in 1967.
That an independent provincial authority be given full and sole responsibility for the "investigation, study and planning of the transportation development in the province with special emphasis on commuter services. In my view in this way the problems will be dealt with intelligently and with foresight."
That the federal government should help purchase north-south commuter trains for Metro Toronto, and Ontario and the municipalities should subsidize operating costs.
He told Ontario Transport Minister Irwin Haskett, chairman of the hearing, that "cost is a factor but I don't think it can be an over-riding principle when it takes millions of dollars a mile to construct super highways to handle the commuting population."
Mr. Addison said the service would be strictly a service and couldn't be expected to be a profit-making operation.
"It won't pay, but the service must be provided. You must decide whether to build more highways or do this."
He said the Newmarket to Toronto service should be introduced on an experimental basis for a possible duration of one to two years.
"Six commuter trains, three in each direction," he said, "be operated during hours of peak movement of traffic on week days."
Addison said Aurora's population had risen 300 percent in the last 10 years and Richmond Hill and Newmarket were also growing at a comparable rate.
"One can envisage," he continued, "that one connecting urban line of population running from Richmond Hill through to Newmarket is not too far in the distant future."
Mr. Addison stated he had conducted a questionnaire survey among 27,000 persons in his riding and 2,334 — those in close proximity to the proposed commuter service — had replied.
Of those responding, 87 percent said they were in favor of a rail commuter service and 98 percent of those favoring it said they would use it daily.
"This service," he said, "would relieve growing congestion on the highways and limit the need for provincial expropriation of land to build new ones."
Such service would allow all communities to expand their residential areas and put dormant land to use in commercial ventures.
"The commuting of people," he said, "would not simply be in the direction of the metropolitan area for it is highly possible that people would be transported from Metro to newly expanding and growing commercial establishments in the area serviced by the commuter."
This residential and commercial land use will directly benefit the communities involved by tax assessment.

Tossing Mail Box At Freight Brings Fine

Three Willowdale youths, who threw a rural mail box at a passing freight train for "no apparent reason", September 15, were fined $100 each and costs by Magistrate Russell Pearce, Tuesday in Magistrate's Court and placed on $500 bond to keep the peace for a year.
"These are crimes," Magistrate Pearce told Gregory Kamm, 17; Charles Brindley and Robert Baldwin, both 16, who pleaded guilty to creating wilful damage by removing the box from its post in front of a home in Gormley, and then smashing it against the train.
"... A criminal record at 16."
Speaking through their lawyer, the youths, all grade 11 students, said they didn't know what had prompted them to do what they had done. They had also since made restitution.
Magistrate Pearce said it had been a serious offence and hoped the fine would be a deterrent to other youths considering vandalism in any form.

IN WARD 2

LEONARD PUGH

VOTE

Leonard Pugh, his wife and three children have lived in Ward 2 for the past seven years. Through his active involvement in both Community and Civic affairs, he is continually aware of the needs and requirements of fellow residents in the Community of Richmond Hill.

Born in Lindsay, Ontario, raised and educated in North Toronto, and is now, at the age of 35, President of his own firm, LENO PUGH REAL ESTATE LIMITED. He has had extensive experience in working with the Municipalities in the initial analysis, planning and development of residential, industrial and commercial expansion programmes.

As is evident because of our population explosion not only within the Town limits, but also in surrounding communities, it is imperative that Municipal Government be fully aware of trends and changes taking place in surrounding communities that will ultimately affect this community's population and economic growth pattern.

In order to facilitate proper community growth we must first assess and analyze Richmond Hill's requirements:

1. To encourage and assist in the expansion of established local industries.
2. To develop a sound and factual program in order to stimulate the establishment of new industries in this community.
3. To make Richmond Hill a more attractive location for present residents, and to foster and encourage the settlement of new people in our community.

The goal of creating an aesthetically pleasing and economically satisfying environment for both residential and industrial development of this municipality can only be attained by far sighted guidance and leadership from civic officials working in harmony with the citizens of this community and responsible representatives of free enterprise.

Leonard Pugh has the qualifications and experience necessary to overcome the challenges that will face the councillor you elect to office.

If you want personal representation in town council - In ward 2, vote Leonard Pugh.
