Dales Seeks Meeting With Spooner

Wants County Control Of Planning

York County Warden Joseph Dales has been trying to get a hearing with Municipal Affairs Minister J. W. Spooner for nine months but has just been getting the brush-off for his efforts. Reason: To inform him that York County feels the planning problems of the southern municipalities of the county — including Richmond Hill, should be under its jurisdiction and not that of Metro.

The Metro planning area covers 720 miles and includes the 13 municipalities within the Metro federation plus the 13 fringe municipalities, which span three counties — Peel, York and Ontario.

Six of these fringe municipalities are in York County. Besides Richmond Hill they include Markham and Vaughan Townships, Woodbridge, Markham Village and Stouffville.

Planning in the eight northern municipalities is under jurisdiction of the York County Planning Board. Several years ago county council hired Conroy Dowson as planning director for these northern municipalities.

"We were invited by the minister," Mr. Dales said, "to express our feelings, talk to him, when we applied we got no answer. We just want to talk but it seems this is impossible".

Mr. Dales said it was his feeling that "we should be left alone so that we can function as a complete county and thereby sow the seeds for a regional county planning area."

"Such a function," he continued, "would help everyone and particularly take the financial and administrative pressures off individual municipalities."

Until both the planning and political jurisdiction over these six southern municipalities is settled the future of York County will remain clouded, Mr. Dales said.

"We are the third largest county administration in the province economically and geographically and yet we are not allowed to manage our own destiny."

The draft Metro official plan to guide development of the Metro municipalities and 13 surrounding municipalities would apply to the southern half of York County.

The official plan has been approved by Metro Planning Board and has reached the committee stage of Metro Council. Planners hoped to have the plan, in preparation since 1956, to council before the end of this year.

The plan prescribes the general type, amount and location of land needed for urban purposes and outlines the population limit for various districts as well as the parks, road and transit facilities for the next 20 years.

Mr. Dales said the county's position is that the official plan and any general planning policies should not include lands within the county boundary.

"No control of any sort should be imposed or permitted without parallel political responsibility," he contended.

Under the proposed official plan 64 per cent of the land in the three counties would be held for agricultural use.

More than 75 per cent of the land in the three counties is currently vacant or used for farming.

OWRC Advises Sewage Plant For Shoreline

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has advised the Township of North Gwillimbury to give consideration to the installation of sewage works along the shoreline to service that highly-developed area.

The OWRC, which made a survey of the district last year, also pointed out that, although present methods to prevent water curtailment seemed effective, it would be necessary to have pollution control facilities in the future to protect the waters.

The report also recommended that the water in Miami Beach well in the Clark Water Works system be chlorinated for disinfection purposes.

Big Attendance Jump At Provincial Parks

Attendance at the eight district provincial parks in the Lake Simcoe District this summer, went over the million mark, up 13 percent from last year's 869,000 visitors, according to the weekly report of the District of Lake Simcoe, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

At the end of July, 1,280,000 had visited the parks and the number of camp permits issued had increased by 19 percent to 1,000.

Biggest jump was reported at Mara Provincial Park, near Atherley on Lake Simcoe, with a 67 percent increase, while Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay, reported nearly 700,000 visitors.

The report said also that the general showers of August 2 had brought temporary relief from the extreme fire conditions, which prevailed throughout July.

So far there have been 31 fires since the season started April 1.

The Flip Side

Radio Station CHIC in Brampton says it is happy with its new all-girl announcing staff and, it says, the listeners are happy . . . and, we suppose, the girls are happy too — doing what comes naturally and getting paid for it!

A description of the ballet Rose Latulippe, which premiered at Stratford last week, explains: The fable of Rose Latulippe, a girl who danced her way to insanity, is indigenous to Canada . . . Yes, we've seen some of the other ones, who also made it, on those TV dance-party shows.

Saw an advertisement recently for a golf tournament at BIGWIG INN . . . Funny, that's always the way we figured Bigwin Inn SHOULD be spelled.

The railway workers are demanding a 90c-per-hour increase . . . which would make their salary something akin to the racetrack expression: "box-car figures".

That story of the Montreal man who claims to have crossed the Atlantic to France in a home-made submarine at 300 mph sounds like a lot of Vichy water . . . (Well, anyway, it's a fishy water-story).

Question Of The Week —
Now that Markham Township has joined North York and Richmond Hill in banning the Good Humor man, does the Good Humor man have anything much left to be good humored about?

CAST OF RAVENS
By Beatrice White
The death of Overbury, man of letters, courtier, and aspiring politician, passed almost unnoticed when it occurred in the Tower of London in 1614. Nearly two years later the Earl and Countess of Somerset were tried for his murder, the one his intimate friend and the King's favourite, the other his implacable enemy.

The revelation of an intricate plot to poison a defenceless prisoner involved many people, some powerful, some insignificant, and brought most of them to disaster. The trials provide example not only of forensic eloquence but of forensic ruthlessness, remarkable even in the context of the time. The character of the count of James I, the curious contradictions in the King's nature, the intrigues and struggles surrounding him, the tumult of life at various levels in an age of transition are illuminated.

THIS IS RUSSIA
by Colin Simpson
Colin Simpson is one of Australia's most famous and successful writers. 'This is Russia' is his newest and biggest book. What he writes of the changing Communist society is up-to-date and he has read widely to give background and perspective to personal impressions.

This is a fascinating and richly informative book. For the growing number of intending tourists to Russia it is invaluable. The style is lucid and vivid, the handsome format delights the eye and the book is lavishly illustrated with photographs, many in colour, and maps. A special section provides practical travel information, costs, and vocabulary.
