More Members Metro Planning Bd.

 Planning Board has been very sympathetic toward the fringe areas. I can't recall ever being outvoted on a proposal. They seem almost over-eager to see that they are not taking unfair advantage of us."
 Mr. Kirk also reminded the fringe municipalities that the City of Toronto contributes a half million dollars to the board's operation and still has only one representative.
 "The fringe municipalities do not contribute a cent," he said, "so we have to take all this into consideration."
 A regional planning board, which would eliminate individual municipal boards, would be more effective in Mr. Broadhurst's eyes and achieve a clearer understanding and picture of a wider area as well as a more united front.
 "I'd prefer to see either a joint planning board formed," he said, "or have these committees draw up a basis for such a formation."
 Mayor Broadhurst said Richmond Hill Council "has the same sort of view but it involves political problems as well as financial in setting up a staff. All this has to be gone into thoroughly and would take some time."
 He added that the revamped Metro scheme was still on an experimental basis and could be changed at a later date. "I would go with it as it is at the moment," he said.
 Mr. Wronski agreed saying a joint planning area board "is an ideal toward which we are working. But time is of the essence and we must get going as soon as possible."
 "It would take a lot of time to set up a joint area board as well as investigate its financing. But I feel we are working toward such a goal and this is the beginning."
 Members comprising the new board must be approved by joint planning board formed, Metro Council and sent on to the province for final sanction.
