Century Of Beautiful Hats At Valentine Luncheon

During the last century women's hats have been of all shapes and sizes, but always have been works of art designed to enhance the beauty of the wearer. This was vividly portrayed at the Valentine's Day Luncheon sponsored by the UCW in Richmond Hill United Church Hall, when the complicated concoctions of former years vied with cleverly and simply made hats of 1967.

In the above photo (left to right) Mrs. Scott Ferguson, wearing a hat made from a "hood" and Mrs. Harry Lecuyer, wearing one made from two 18 inch circles of straw cloth draped in the modern manner, admire an 1885 bonnet which came from a Thornhill millinery store, being adjusted by Mrs. William Babcock.

In front of Mrs. Ferguson may also be seen an airy 1967 creation of tulle, as well as hats of various periods of "the good old days".
