INFLATED EGOS

Which brought us around to parents, the immature types who all too often want to see the fulfilment of their own blunted egos thrust upon their children.

"I've found that the majority of parents are fine but there are still too many who take things too seriously, much more seriously than the kids. It's the parents who give the trouble."

Sil explained that he personally has had little trouble as a coach but noted that some other coaches have been treated as "whipping boys" by some parents.

"These people don't realize the hours a coach gives up for these kids, time in work, health and unfortunately in abuse from inconsiderate parents. All to help his kids."

Sil (who estimates he spends $500 a year himself to coach ball and hockey in gas, time off his job, clothing, etc.) would like to see more parents understand the problems coaches face.

"He's just trying to do a job and if he doesn't rounds as near as possible, in runs across the plate on three a 10-6 score. Both their opget encouragement what does he get? Not money. He might decide to forget about it, let the critical parents try their luck."

But this is not the reason Sil is retiring: "I've been very fortunate", he said, "I've enjoyed working with the youngsters and their par- the club house. ents. But I feel it's time I spent more time with my family, concentrated to a greater extent on my job (he's an insurance investigator) and so on. events. Give someone else a chance."

Sil — who is the father of three, Val 12, Laurie 10, and Christopher 2, and wife Vivian - has been a big winner with the teams he's coached in both minor ball and hockey. Val has played under his father for the past few years in softball and ment. hockey.

In hockey it was with the Wilson-Niblett Stingray Novices for two years and now the Revnolds Shoe King Peewees; in hockey one year as assistant coach with Ray Brooks of the CFGM Country Gentlemen, and the past two years as head coach.

PLAYED WITH DYNES

And, of course, Sil has been well-known as a ballplayer in The Hill and with the Dynes Jewellers since about 1956. Up until he retired after the 1966 season (he also sat out 1965) Sil was the last Steffan even though they man- nine hits. of the original Dynesmen.

"In my opinion we've never seen Judd throw hard as he was capable of doing. He was the type of pitcher who only threw hard enough to win."

He's only two now and when he gets to the ball playing age, well, who knows, Sil might come out of retirement again.

HARD-HITTING FOOTBALL

Was quite impressed by the Suburba Knights-Weston game Saturday at St. Andrew's College. Phew. Hard-hitting. A fair crowd turned out but it should get better if this type of action goes on all the time.

Don't be fooled by the lop-sided score. It was Interesting to watch all the way and would advise you to drop around Labor Day to take a look for yourself.

These juniors are out there to win. A lot of them would just love to play professional some day and they play it hard right now.

Think Curtis and company will surprise a few teams before the season is too much further along.

WANTED: TIME CLOCK

Now for a note on the still burgeoning new arena which seems to be going along at a fairly good clip.

Arena President Elgin Barrow informs us that the arena-powers-that-be are on the lookout for anyone interested in supplying a timer's clock for the new arena.

The firm supplying the clock would be able to display his advertising call-letters, etc. Elgin reports that a couple of offers have been received from out-of-town businesses but the executive feels a local business should get first chance.

If you're interested, call Tom Graham, 884-2437.
