Socially Speaking in King City

Kingcrafts

The first executive meeting for the New Year was held at Kingcraft House on January 9 and it was unanimous that the recent studio held was a huge success, both financially and work-wise. The art group is pleased with the addition of lessons in pastels, this under the direction of Mrs. R. Case. A rather large feather in the hat of the art group came about with 12 of their oils being displayed in a rotary system, at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch in Downsview.

Members of the hooking group are in the midst of a design contest, and no doubt there will be some very intriguing patterns developed in the area of modern geometric design.

From February 27 until March 3, Kingcrafts will be well represented at the annual Toronto Garden Club Exhibition held at the O'Keefe Centre, as they have been invited to display and demonstrate spinning, weaving, hooking, quilting and needlework. As this is one of the prime functions of the coming spring season, it will afford the people of Toronto the opportunity of seeing first hand, the many artistic skills of our local artisans.

Starting its 18th year, the purpose of Kingcrafts is to raise the standard of and create interest in all handicrafts, not necessarily limiting it to Canadian arts and crafts. Interested persons are invited to enroll and enquiries may be made to Mrs. R. Phillips of King City.

Cancer Society

In spite of the extremely cold weather, 14 members of the King branch of the cancer society met at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Wilson and busied themselves with a new type of dressing for this particular group. The project for the evening was the making of four dozen bed pads. These are the large squares measuring 1 1/2 feet by 1 foot, comprising of three layers of different materials: cellulocotton, plastic and flannelette and which are sewn entirely by hand. In addition to the four dozen finished at the meeting, another four dozen will be completed by the members at home in time for the next meeting.

On Monday, February 5, education night will be held at the home of Mrs. Al Henderson on Concession 6, the purpose being to explain the organization by word and by film. A reminder that the King branch welcomes new members at any time, and a more worthwhile way of helping and feeling useful would be hard to find.

Kings' Kastle

Another Kings' Kastle and again, a very successful one was held at the United Church auditorium on January 6 with some 150 young people in attendance. It was a return engagement for the Mafer Rayfield Quintet who kept things lively from 8 pm until 11.30. Another Kastle is being planned for February (sorry no definite date as yet) and auditions are going on for the best in the current sound.

Mailing Address

On more than one occasion I have received notices too late for the next week's publication. This is probably my fault, as our phone comes under the Oak Ridges exchange, but our mailing address is RR 1 Richmond Hill. I do want to thank the many that take the time and trouble to keep me informed with news regarding themselves and their organizations.

Lake Wilcox Recreation

Members of the Lake Wilcox Recreation Committee are seeking ways of raising funds to pay for and maintain the building on Wildwood Avenue, known as the recreation hall. This is a community hall for use by every resident, but the committee is finding its fundraising activities very poorly attended.

Activities include: Sunday school every Sunday afternoon, Guides every Monday, euche every Tuesday at 8 pm, Brownies every Wednesday after school, bingo every Wednesday at 8 pm. Tonight (Thursday) there will be a tupperware party with everyone welcome to attend. If you cannot attend, but would like to order an article or two, just phone Hilda LaRiviere at 773-5656, Charlotte Brockton at 773-5501 or Lili Atcheson at 773-5479.

If any ladies would be interested in an afternoon euche, they are asked to contact one of the above members of the executive. If you have any fundraising ideas, they will be glad to hear from you, too.

King Council Hears

Oak Ridges Lakes Plan By Metro Conservation

Monday night representatives from Metro Conservation Authority presented a plan for development of the "Meadows" property, now known as the Oak Ridges Conservation Area, to King Township Council for its consideration.

The conservation authority recommends that the seven acres, described as swampy and containing several man-made ponds resulting from peat removal, into recreation area of value to local residents.

The proposals are to fill the two most southerly ponds and the area surrounding them, construct a small playing field and playground; fill the low-lying marshy areas (which would also eliminate many smaller ponds), and retain the large north pond. A portion of it would be filled and it would be made less hazardous by filling in the surrounding area.

Filling the swampy land, besides eliminating a hazardous area would also clear up what is now only a breeding place for flies, mosquitoes and other pests, it is claimed.

Bordering on a well-developed residential area, the hazardous conditions on this property have caused parents in the area deep concern for the safety of their children.

The property was purchased by the authority in 1967 with King Township contributing $5,000 to the purchase. $10,000 came from the Ontario government and the remaining $5,000 from the other municipalities along the Humber watershed. King Council thought its share was for drainage work on the property, but the authority claimed this was incorrect and no provision had been made in its 1967 budget for any improvement of the property.

Although an estimate of $50,000 has been placed on the work, the authority feels that if free fill can be obtained from a major construction site, that amount may be drastically reduced.
