Vaughan Adopts Metro Style Street Numbering

Many residents of Vaughan Township will get new addresses although they will continue to live in the same house on the same site, following a decision by township council May 28 to bring street numbering into line with Metro's.

Concession roads numbering will start at 7001 at Steeles Avenue. Approximately one number per 20 feet of frontage will be given.

Sideroad numbering starts at 1 at Yonge Street and approximately one number per 20 feet of frontage will be allotted.

On internal streets a number will be assigned to each 20 feet of frontage in preparation for changing styles of residential development which will include town houses and garden court housing.

Even numbering will be placed on the north and west sides of the street and odd numbering on the south and east sides generally. Odd and even numbering will not be transposed along the length of a street or crescent regardless of change in direction. Some numbers will be deleted on the inside of curved streets to keep the numbers matching.

All streets will be numbered from their south or east entrance.

Small cul-de-sac streets will be numbered clockwise from the entrance, using even numbers. Long cul-de-sacs will have the even numbering on the north and west and the odd on the south and east, with the change from even to odd occurring at the limit of the turning circle.

At least one number will be left for each intersection road allowance.

A house centrally located on a lot to which two numbers are assigned will be given the higher number and number 13 will not be used.

Buildings on lots within a registered plan which have frontage on a concession road or sideroad will be allocated a number as above.

Reeve Brian Bailey warned that "We may get into a fair amount of controversy over this on streets that are already numbered. For instance on Islington Avenue, where the numbers are now in the 2000's people are apt to object when these numbers suddenly jump into the 7000's. This system merely extends the numbering system in Metro."

Councillor Charles Birkett felt that only people's natural resistance to change.

"In the long haul, they will accept it as they become accustomed to the new numbers."

Deputy-reeve Garnet Williams added that, "It's about time we had a consistent policy. Because councils 15 years ago failed to adopt such a policy is no reason for us to go along in the same old rut."

In the past, council passed a bylaw each time an area of development required street numbering. This bylaw provided for a method of street numbering and had attached a plan on which the allotted street numbers were shown.

In 1958, at the request of council, Duncan Hopper & Associated Limited prepared street numbering plans for Lots 26-45, Concession 1, adopted by Bylaw 2269 and are now regarded as official street numbering sheets for the area. These plans and others have been revised periodically, as new street numbers were issued, but not consistently.

Some street numbers have not been recorded on the plans when issued and errors in allocating street numbers have arisen due to technical mistakes in scaling.

The new bylaw which will implement the above recommendations should, it is felt, clear up these omissions and errors.

A recommendation that the street numbering system in the Village of Maple be amended to agree with the system, with regard to Keele Street, Maple Sideroad and Richmond Street numbering, is left in abeyance until further development takes place in or adjacent to the police village.

The Voice of Concord

Many parents and children in Concord will be sad to learn that we are losing Mrs. Phyllis Elfan, formerly Miss Gall, grade 1 teacher at Concord School. After four years of creatively teaching our youngsters, Mrs. Elfan is leaving at the end of the current term.

It is difficult to express our appreciation for outstanding efforts. The first year in school is a source of trepidation for both children and parents.

The warmth and understanding Mrs. Elfan gave to her pupils did much to prepare them for the rigors of higher grades. Perhaps the highest tribute we can pay to her is to acknowledge that her pupils, almost without exception, enjoyed and looked forward to each day in her class.

Although we do not know what your future plans are, Mrs. Elfan, we wish you the very best success and happiness. Thank you most sincerely for the outstanding contribution you made to the education of our children.

Best wishes and happy birthday to seven year old Adriana Tocconig of Hillside Avenue, who celebrated her birthday with a party of friends last week.

A happy ending to the item about Karen Cross's graduation from Centennial College reported in last week's column; Karen was accepted in a position
