

Only 11 Attend Maple Nomination Acclaim Bruce Thurston New Trustee

Although an innocent bystander had to be coaxed into filling one of them, all three seats as Maple Village Trustees were filled at the nomination meeting held at Maple Public Library November 19.

Receiving an acclamation were this year's chairman, Fred W. Young and Trustee Frank Robson. Newcomer to the board is Bruce Thurston, a resident of the village for nine years.

Audience at the meeting numbered 11. A statement of expenditures for the year, up to October 31, was provided and explained by Mr. Young. It showed revenues of $21,970 from taxes and $1,133 from a highway subsidy, for a total of $23,104.

Expenditures totalled $13,437, leaving a balance on hand of $9,667. However, Mr. Young explained that this amount was already committed and it was expected that the village budget would just about break even by the end of the year.

Largest item of expenditure was a voluntary contribution of $5,000 to the township for its roads program. The trustees had felt it wise to advance this sum, Mr. Young said, because the township had been pressing for abolition of the police village entirely, pointing out that residents of the village used township roads but paid only for roads within the confines of the village.

In past years, this had meant that village residents paid considerably less for roads than did other residents of the township. However, with the $5,000 contribution, the village road rates were brought on a level, Mr. Young said.

An additional $2,267 has been spent on village roads during the year.

Public works accounted for $3,534 of the expenditures. This included construction of sidewalks, improvements to the park and planting of maple trees throughout the village to mark Centennial year.

Mr. Young also noted that the village had started off the year with a debt of $1,552 owing to the township but that this had been paid and no deficit is expected for 1968.

The trustees had also contributed $500 to the Maple Area Recreation Committee, Mr. Young noted and this was spent largely on financing the summer program conducted in the park for children, which the trustees had felt was a most worthwhile endeavor.

Mr. Robson thanked the meeting for giving him an acclamation as trustee, noting that he has been on the board for eight years. He recalled that his political career had begun eight years ago when the nomination meeting had been unable to find a third trustee and had come downstairs to the bowling alley in the community centre looking for someone to run. As luck would have it, he was bowling that night and was talked into the job.

Mr. Thurston commented that he had had no intention of running as a trustee but had always had a keen interest in what is going on in Maple. "I have a considerable amount to learn", he said.

The third member of this year's board of trustees, Peter Angus, moved away from Maple earlier this year.

Chief Stong Reports

Fireman Inspected 633 Homes

That Richmond Hill's Fire Department's program of voluntary home inspections carried out this summer was well received was evident in Fire Chief Alf Stong's report to council received November 25. Six hundred and thirty-three residents availed themselves of the opportunity of having their homes checked for fire hazards.

The department also carried out 84 inspections of stores, 328 of commercial establishments, 11 of schools, six of nursery schools, (three inspections and three callbacks) 19 of apartment buildings (14 inspections and five callbacks), 17 of garages and service stations and 51 bonfire complaints, for a grand total of 1,157.

In Richmond Hill from January 1 to November 9, the department answered 136 alarms. These included three calls for the resuscitator; one accident; two for leaking gas (one propane, one natural), and seven to rescue people trapped in stalled elevators. Masks were used at 17 fires.

Firemen also helped move equipment into the Lions Hall for Red Cross Blood Donors Clinics.
