Stop Being A Loser

Who said losing was a lonely game? Why you've got lots of company. In fact it's so crowded around here I can't get any elbow room to move about. The last time I won it was a mistake. And I'll never forgive the rotton so-and-so who discovered the mistake.

Which brings us around to the subject of today Nats which is, yes, losing.

The world's falling around me. Everywhere I look I see losers. Woe is. First you have the fledgling Richmond Hill Junior "B" Rams and then come the fledgling Richmond Hill Senior "B" Inn-

Crowd. And I'm in there somewhere, too. It's a terrible thing, this losing. You can't do anything right. It seems to follow a pattern. Everyone is conspiring to bring you down. Even people who don't know you, who couldn't care less.

Every morning for every day of your life you've had coffee with sugar and brown toast. Now all of a sudden they start giving you coffee with cream only and white toast. It's no use you telling them. ing on both counters. They get it right one day and then it's back to the coffee with cream only and white toast the next. It's no use screaming. They think you're temperamental, you're nasty. He used to be a nice guy, they

That's the way I see it, anyway. For the past two or three weeks I've sat here before the typewriter and have burst into tears before writing up the Richmond Hill Rams and/or Richmond Hill Inn hockey stories. I can't help it, I'm emotional.

The Rams have lost something like 10 games, the Inn-Crowd five or six. All in a row. It's very difficult to be an optimistic reporter under such conditions.

SUFFERING

After awhile you're bound to get morbid, get a defeatist attitude yourself. You start thinking back about all the defeats you've suffered yourself, are suffering. That's when you're finished, they've NOVICES got you.

But you can't give in, you musn't. You've got to go on. And I'm talking about those poor beleagured coaches, Scotty Watson of The Rams, Dave Hopper of The Inn-Crowd.

They're both proud men. I think they're still proud. And it's very hard to be proud slinking in back doors, ignoring the all-telling look in the eyes of fans. Why don't they come out and say it, yell it, not just stare. There was a time you'd sneer at pity, now you're pleading for it. They don't call you Scotty or Dave anymore. Now it's Mr. Watson, Mr. Hopper. And that's from your children, too.

That is, when you get to see your children. Your wife is trying to keep them away from you as much as possible. She doesn't want them to become
