c2w51 NEWMARKET: The town has had to pay $25 for fixing the police station door kicked in last March. A man walked into the police station and remanded to be arrested. When he was told he couldn't be because he had done nothing wrong, he walked outside and kicked in the door. When the case comes up in court and if the man chooses to pay a fine and costs instead of going to jail the repair bill will be part of the costs, council was told.
