Teachers Vote This Week On Contract Question

 By that no York County principal had consulted with any teachers prior to the lifting of the moratorium. "As far as York County is concerned, both groups have played it strictly by the book."
 Negotiations between teachers and trustees had broken off completely before the usual March hiring date, and at a board meeting June 8, Whit-church Trustee Arthur Starr, chairman of the board's salary negotiations committee announced that his committee was still waiting to resume salary negotiations with its secondary school teachers.

Agreements with elementary school teachers had been reached, and most teachers hired for the coming year.
 That same evening, when it was learned that Metro teachers had rejected latest salary offer, the OSTC instructed all boards by telegram that it had been agreed to hire College of Education students and teachers not under contract to Ontario boards, but that there would be no extension of the date for teacher resignations.

The York County teachers' salary committee chaired by Richmond Hill High School Teacher John Munro-Cape had a special meeting at 10 a.m. the following morning (June 9), and the board's latest "salary package" was discussed.
 At the same time, a telegram was sent to OSTC from the York County Board urging that resignation date be extended to June 30 on the grounds that this "would be of service to students and teachers". A similar telegram was sent to Mr. Munro-Cape.

As the board had, from the beginning, reserved the right to make its offer known to the teachers before a resignation date was published in newspaper advertisements, the offer was sent to the schools on June 9 with instructions that it be posted.
 A memorandum was also addressed to each teacher from Mr. Starr advising that, while the board considered the offer reasonable, "These figures are not necessarily final and that the trustees are prepared to discuss them whenever your committee wishes to do this."

 Members of the teachers' salary negotiating teams visited the secondary schools June 9 and 10 and teachers voted whether or not to re-open negotiations. The following day a release was received at the board of office from the teachers' negotiating team, indicating that the teachers by a vote of 86 percent had "ordered their representatives to re-open negotiations with the board."
 The 86 percent vote, said Mr. Munro-Cape, also ordered the reversal of some negotiators' objections to the trustee moratorium.

The release, prepared jointly by Mr. Munro-Cape and Lynn Jones, president of the York County District OSTF, stated, "The inclusion of this item in the ballot was largely a gesture of appreciation and goodwill to the York County Board of Education for sending a telegram to the Ontario Trustees Association asking for some modification of the moratorium."
 "The overall 86 percent majority mandate by the teachers is also a tribute to the ceaseless and unselfish diplomatic overtures made behind the scenes by Mr. John MacKay (chairman) of the board and Mr. Jones and his District 11 OSTF executive assistants to bring the teachers back to the negotiating table."

An hour later a telegram was relayed to the board from the OSTC indicating that the Metro "pink listing" by the OSTF had been lifted, that the moratorium on hiring was discontinued, and that, as suggested by the York County board, a teacher may accept a position with another board up until June 30.
 This freed principals and superintendents to begin the actual hiring June 12 and 13 in Toronto.

In reporting on the success of the hiring program, Mr. Chapman paid tribute to the excellent cooperation of staff, principals and superintendents backed up by department heads who interviewed hundreds of people.
 "The results," said Mr. Chapman, "has been remarkable." He credited a large part of the success to the organizational skills of Associate Director Gordon McIntyre and of Lloyd Morrison, administrator of adult education and summer school programs.

 "We were very concerned a week ago," declared Trustee Starr, "You are to be commended."
 Queried after the meeting, Mr. Starr said he is hopeful that full agreement will be reached in the meetings scheduled for this week.
 The teacher spokesmen, however, pointed out that the basic grid currently offered by the board guarantees that while teachers with less than eight years experience will receive as much as their Metro counterparts, some teachers in the over $10,000 salary bracket could expect to receive less.
 "However," said Mr. Munro-Cape, "since we have prestige as a quality teaching board, I feel certain that the board would be willing to negotiate towards a more competitive position."
 A member of his committee is not, however, as well pleased with the turn of events.

Teacher Mark Everard of Bayview Secondary School told "The Liberal" last week that he intended to tender his resignation from the joint negotiations before the committee reconvened.
 "For me to carry my very strong and rebellious attitude into further negotiations would be at odds with the more moderate diplomatic and conciliatory policy of my colleagues. I must confess that carrying my minor disagreements to the press in inflammatory terms was done by me in spite of violent objections from important segments of our membership."
 Mr. Everard explained, "At one time or another every one of our negotiators threatened to resign over issues in which I was implicated, but did not do so in order to present an outwardly unified front. I have no personal rancor with any of the trustees or the administration but the Ontario Trustee Association has in my personal opinion become an arrogant monopolistic dictatorship aimed at the downfall of the teachers' federation."

Dr. Otto Reble, president of the Ecumenical Study Commission on Religion in Education, made up of prominent Roman Catholic and Protestant laymen and clergy, has recommended that the Ontario Government regard as a "debt of honor" the estimated $20 million yearly cost of extending the separate school system through grades 11, 12 and 13. The system now receives grants from kindergarten through grade 10.

Hall-Dennis Report on Education which outlined the importance of a continuing stream throughout the educational years, so the request for extended support was renewed.
 "The attitude of the non-Catholics on the committee has been unanimous and is based on the fact that the separate school system is guaranteed by our constitution. We all believe it is the Christian thing to give them the same rights to a full educational program as is enjoyed by non-Roman Catholics," Mr. McGuire told "The Liberal".
 "Because of the Roman Catholics' religious convictions they want their children given an education with a religious background. We are interested in the best education possible for every Canadian — the better the education the better the citizens. With the new trend in education the Roman Catholic child has been at a disadvantage in having to transfer from a separate school to a public school at the end of grade 10.
 "If parents wish their children to continue in a separate school, they have to pay for the privilege," the local rector continued. "They are being penalized because society is not bearing a share of the cost in the same way as it does for the public school system. I believe they have a right to this help when they feel so strongly."
 A foreword to the report says it was sent for study to the executive committee of the Canadian Council of Churches, but stresses that "neither it nor any of its member bodies has yet approved or repudiated it."
 The report claims the increased costs would not necessarily be the result of a more costly educational program. It would become more costly because a fairer share than at present would be paid into the separate school system.

Metro Police Male Chorus

From the rousing opening notes of their first number to the final harmonious strains of "Bless This House", the 35 members of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Association Male Chorus proved Monday night in the auditorium of Richmond Hill High School that they indeed have "Something To Sing About".
 The musical group were assisting in the celebration of the 154th anniversary of Richmond Hill Presbyterian Church and were sponsored by the choir of that church.

Under the direction of Carl Tapscott, Metro's finest in song as well as on the beat, presented a stirring group of selections to please every listener, including "Something To Sing About" for the Canadians, "Harrigan" for the Irish, "Scotland the Brave" for the Scottish, "Old Pollina" for the Newfoundlanders, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" for the Americans, an Italian marching song, "Shenandoah", "Aura Lee" and "Give Me That Old Time Religion".
 The chorus was organized in 1966 and sang at the first world conference of police associations at Niagara Falls the next year. This October they will be singing at the second world police conference at Miami, Florida, a high and well-deserved honor. These men, all active policemen, from the man on the beat to the desk sergeant, love to sing and place visits to hospitals and to senior citizens homes high on their list of priorities for engagements. To date they have brought pleasure to more than 75,000 people through their performances.

 Preceding the chorus, the Diamond Hand Bell Choir, under the direction of "The Diamond", a former choir leader and organist of the church, returned to the scene of its debut to demonstrate its skill with hand bells. This group was also organized in 1966.
 The bells seem particularly appropriate for playing the old favorite, "The Bells of St. Mary's" and were most effective in "Edelweiss" from "The Sound of Music" and "Variations on a Nursery Rhyme".
 Ken Robbins was the MC for the evening's program with Detective Sergeant Fred Stratton announcing the chorus' number.

Margaret Hodge, Donald Schwab Married In St. Edward's Church

Wrought iron candelabra and two large baskets of spring flowers formed the setting for the wedding mass in St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church, Willowdale, May 15 at 6:30 pm when Margaret Hodge became the bride of Donald Schwab. Father Raymond Switzer heard the young couple exchange their wedding vows and Jim Keele played the wedding music.
 The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hodge, 4 Devonshire Avenue, Willowdale and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Schwab, 307 Kerrybrook Drive, Richmond Hill. The father of the bride is the superintendent of the York County Roman Catholic School system.
 For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white French crepe, fashioned with long sleeves with deep tight cuffs and a large bow at the back to which the lace-trimmed train was attached. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a lace-trimmed coronet and she carried a bouquet of roses and stephanotis. Her only ornament was the groom's gift, silver heart-shaped earrings.

 Her attendants were Mary Haffey as matron of honor, her sister-in-law Sydney Hodge and the groom's sister Dianne Schwab as bridesmaids and Kathie Hodge and Mara Schwab as flower girls. Gordon Barry was the best man and Jerry Hodge, Gordon Schwab and Brian Sompono the ushers.
 The bride's attendants were gowned alike in coral crepe with a lace-trimmed coronet headdress, with the matron of honor having lace and coral velvet ribbon entwined in her hair. All carried nosegays of roses, carnations and cornflowers.
 The 130 guests were received at the Four Winds where dinner was served at tables surrounding the dance floor.
 Following a wedding trip to the Bay of Quinte, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schwab have taken up residence at 71 Talara Drive, Apartment 209, Willowdale.
