Obituary

Bev Charbanick Gave Her Talents From Wheelchair

Funeral services were held Tuesday for one of the community's most active and dedicated young people, Beverly Charbanick, who died suddenly on her 26th birthday, Saturday, July 11.

Although she spent most of her life in a wheelchair, Miss Charbanick was an active member of Richmond Hill and District Social Planning Council, organized an amateur musical group, and was interested in painting, writing and drama.

Crippled with muscular dystrophy since childhood, she spent several years at Blooviver Children's Hospital, and in 1960, at the age of 16, she moved to the Villa Private Hospital on Bathurst Street in Thornhill.

While she was at Blooviver she began her singing and acting career, and in 1961 she formed a group, "The Villanovans" at the Villa with Kevin Mahar and Douglas Knight.

From 1961 to 1968 her group travelled to many towns in Ontario to entertain. They did several television shows at Wingham, Ontario, and composed a song, "Symphony Of Spring", which they later recorded.

After the death of Kevin and Douglas, Beverly continued to sing. She also became involved in community affairs around Richmond Hill, undertaking speaking engagements for young people's groups in churches and other organizations.

As a member of the social planning council, she played a major role in developing the Helmpate volunteer service, and spent two afternoons a week at the Helmpate office which opened in St. John's Baptist Church early in May.

A special telephone was installed so that Beverly could assist other volunteers in taking calls and referring people in need of assistance to appropriate individuals and agencies.

Mainly because of her drive and ambition to get out into the community, the need for transportation for young people in wheelchairs at the Villa was recognized, and a specially equipped van was donated to the hospital by the Lions' Club of Richmond Hill.

Beverly was then able to function not only as an organizer, but also as an active participant in the affairs of the world around her.

During her years at the Villa, she was also quietly developing her other talents. She wrote short stories and painted, and nearly this year she began a course in theatre arts at Humber Community College, hoping to become a director of stage plays.

"Probably one of her greatest contributions, and it was a subtle one, was her work with the young and old with whom she lived at the Villa," said a friend.

"She was, because of her great love of life, a constant inspiration to all around her. Beverly, who was almost totally handicapped physically, believed in life and the beauty and goodness of people. Her long and endless fight for fuller, more meaningful lives for handicapped people will be carried on by those whose lives she touched and inspired."

The funeral mass was celebrated at St. Mary Immaculate Roman Catholic Church in Richmond Hill with interment at Holy Cross Cemetery at Langstaff and memorial donations were forwarded, at Beverly's request, to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charbanick of Brantford, she is survived by her parents, sisters Christine and Lyn and brothers Don and Kenny.

The information needed to determine the course to be taken wasn't ready yet, but was being prepared by Township Treasurer Barton, he said. Mr. Jongeneel presented a motion calling on council to agree to act under one of the new provisions or the other, as soon as the treasurer's report was ready, in order to provide the maximum benefit both to the township and to its ratepayers.

Councillor Eldred King said he was worried about the possibility that 4,000 taxpayers may be called upon to "pick up the tab" for 400 taxpayers. It appeared that the cost of providing relief wouldn't be picked up by the whole municipality. "These people will object to paying extra money," he said.

Councillor Jongeneel said he thought it would mostly be commerce and industry that would have to pay the cost of tax relief.

Treasurer Barton said he was hoping to be able to arrange with the township's computer service to have the whole problem worked out so the costs and the number of taxpayers could be known.

Mr. Barton told "The Liberal" that generally people will have to have a tax bill that is at least 21% higher before they can hope to qualify for relief under the provincial legislation.

He pointed out that under the old area boards, teachers in Sutton at the northern fringe of the county received the same pay as Metro teachers, and so did those of York Central District High School Board which served the Southern Six municipalities.

When the county board came into being in January, 1969, there were many adjustments to be made, and in some areas teachers got no increase in salary at all when the 1969-70 schedule was approved.

"York Central felt they were one of the top boards in the province, now the teachers do not like to feel they are only second rate. It is pretty hard to take."

He added that only one-third of the increase would come out of the board's budget for 1970, that the remaining two-thirds would be for pay received in 1971.

"The teachers want to be reasonable, but the economy is spiralling despite the federal government's urging to hold the line, and a slow spiral is good," All the teachers want, he said, is to maintain the status quo in income as compared to output.

"We are not trying to reduce our work load, most of us put in many hours of overtime through the year — enough to make up for the two months the schools are closed in the summer."

Another bone of contention, said Mr. Booth, is the pay received by teachers in special schools and special classes. There is a special differential for Metro teachers in these areas, he said. A fully qualified tradesman who has gone to teachers' college and is teaching shop could make more working in industry, he added.

The fact that the teachers had rejected the package did not mean that they had rejected everything the board was offering, he declared. "Most York County teachers are very proud of their system and want to maintain it as one of the best."

Mr. Booth said the teachers had been prepared to discuss a two year agreement but the trustees seemed to feel this was premature. Although contracts would still be drawn up on a yearly basis, said Mr. Booth, a two year agreement would reduce the time consuming dickering over salaries and working conditions which usually begin about the end of October and are concluded early in March.

Mr. Jolliffe feels this is probably what will happen in the fall, however. Trustees will have to start in September to prepare for the regional elections on October 5 if they intend to stand for a second term in office, and there will be a great deal of routine board business to attend to when schools open in the fall. There will be little time for meeting to discuss salaries.

At a meeting on July 6, Whitechurch Trustee Arthur Starr, chairman of the York County Board of Education's salary negotiating committee, announced that, since payrolls must be made up in July for September, the teachers' first pay check will be geared to the board on June 8.

Teacher representatives have indicated a willingness to meet again with the trustees, said Mr. Starr, but no date has yet been set for such a meeting.

Because of vacation schedules, he added, it is unlikely that an agreement will be reached before the board next meets on August 4.

Explaining the teachers' position, Douglas Booth, a teacher at Richmond Hill High School and chairman of their salary committee said there are basically two or three points of difference.

Many of the York County teachers, he said, live in Metro or on its fringes and their cost of living is just as high as that of Metro teachers. "We would like to be paid on the same basis."

Barking Dog Annoys Neighbors Noisy PA's Also Under Fire

Responsibility for enforcement of town bylaws belongs to the Richmond Hill Police Department was the unanimous decision of Richmond Hill Town Council at its meeting Monday evening. A motion by Reeve Donald Plaxton, seconded by Councillor Shaun Beggs, received the support of all members present. Deputy-reeve Ivan Mansbridge was away on holidays.

The motion was read that "The mayor request the police commission to investigate the town's bylaws covering noise, littering, nuisance, trespass and regulation of parks and to direct our police force to enforce such bylaws and advise them that responsibility for enforcement of such bylaws is that of the Richmond Hill Police Force."

The motion was brought about by the receipt of a petition, bearing signatures of 12 residents of North Taylor Mills Drive asking council to take some action against the owner of a dog "which barks incessantly" in that neighborhood. The petition stated the dog's owner had been approached and the police had been summoned without results to date.

"It is most unfortunate that these people have had to go to this length," commented Mayor William Lazebny, when he had read the petition to council. "This council passed a bylaw last year for the protection of our residents. If the police go out and there are people ready to lay a complaint, then the complaint should be laid."

Commenting that the police appear to be "reluctant to become involved in municipal by-law enforcement," Reeve Plaxton stated, "For the amount of money being spent on our police force, the people of this town have the right to expect better action than this."

"It's difficult to determine how much barking is unnecessary," Councillor Eric George pointed out.

"But they could have been advised to lay a charge," added the mayor.

Parks and Recreation Committee Chairman Shaun Beggs was asked to request that the volume on the PA system used in the town park during ball games be reduced somewhat, because of complaints from residents in a large area to the south and east of the ball diamond. He will also investigate complaints about the volume of a PA system used by an unnamed local car dealer.

The 21% figure isn't an absolute rule, since payment of other items is often included in the total tax bill.

It also still must be determined if the whole "can of worms" that the tax situation now presents under the new provincial legislation can be handled by the staff available to the municipality.

Deputy-reeve Roman also pointed out July 6 that he understands the province is considering a new formula for determining the equalization factor that determines the amount of provincial grants each municipality is to receive. The formula also could change because of the establishment of the new York Regional government January 1, he said.

"The whole business ought to be reviewed. There is also the moral aspect to the whole thing," said Mr. Roman.

Councillor William Masters indicated he favored giving tax relief where it was due. He also pointed out that one of the biggest complaints he has received was from people who have been unable to receive replies to their assessment appeal applications. The people had a right to have their appeals heard before they had to pay their taxes, he said. It wasn't good enough for them to be told they would get their money back if the court eventually advised their assessments downward.

Reeve Rumble said council members weren't experts on assessment and couldn't be expected to establish each of the township's 11,000 property assessments. This job could only be handled by expert assessors and the courts, he said. He opposed the new provincial legislation on the grounds it put the council in a role it wasn't equipped to perform.

Radio, Golf Equipment Valued At $700 Stolen

Close to $300 worth of radios and radio kits were stolen in a weekend burglary at W and P Motors Ltd., 178 Yonge Street North, say Richmond Hill Police.

Included were four radios altogether valued at $230.

Further north on Yonge Street Saturday Vaughan Township Police arrested three youths regarding a case of theft of tires from Greenwood's BP Station. One of the youths admitted two previous thefts in the area, police said.

Tuesday, July 7 Vaughan Township Police charged five juveniles with two wallet thefts at Boyd Park Conservation Area. There were several instances of theft of wallets from cars in the park in recent weeks.

In the second major theft from a local golf club in as many weeks, $400 worth of equipment was taken from the Kleinburg Golf Club during a break-in July 11.

There was considerable vandalism in Vaughan Township again last week, with a report of sugar being poured into the engine of a Corvette automobile July 11 while it was parked at a home on Yongehurst Road, south of Richmond Hill.

Sunday someone damaged the carburetor and fuel system of the carousel at the Dufferin Street Drive-in. Previously $300 worth of damage was done to horses on the carousel, Vaughan Police said.

Saturday numerous mailboxes were knocked over on Fine Valley Drive and Clubhouse Road in Western Vaughan Township.

On Sunday Ronald Nokes of 162 Sussex Avenue, Richmond Hill, was in a collision on West-on Road South of Highway 7. He had an estimated $300 damage and there was about $150 damage to the other car driven by Alvin Venerus of Downsview, police said.

Teachers Reject "Final" Board Offer

The trustees for justifying greater increases than those already offered.

Since the teachers have turned down its latest offer, the board schedule will for the present remain at the level set in June 8 and which has been used in advertising for new teachers.

"We are very happy with the teachers we are getting on the offer we have published, and the few we have not got are in short supply everywhere," said Mr. Jolliffe.

A board official reported June 30 that only about four full time and two part time teachers were still needed.

Tuesday, June 30 was the final date upon which teachers might legally resign, under OSSTF regulations and the rules of the Ontario School Trustees' association. Up to noon of that date about 13 resignations had been received.

"Well under what might be expected in other years," said the board spokesman.

The normal deadline for resignations is May 31, but because so many boards were still in the process of negotiating agreements, it was agreed that for this year the deadline would be extended.

A report received at the June 22 meeting of the board showed that 123 new openings were available, including replacements for those who had resigned and new openings created through expansion of existing schools.

The trustees agreed that an advertisement might be placed in "The Times" in London, England for teachers in mathematics and girls' physical education.

After the election, he pointed out, the new board will not officially be in office until January, and sitting trustees could not legitimately commit the new board to agreements which would have a large impact on the budget for 1971.

Meanwhile all teachers would be paid on the basis of the offer published early in June, and any changes would be retroactive to September 1, 1970.

In the "package" presented to the teachers June 22, the board listed the schedule for the school year just past, the Metro offer for 1970-71 and the schedule approved by teachers and Board of Education of Simcoe County for 1970-71.

In every category and at just about every level, the Simcoe settlement was $100 less than the York County offer, and in some of the higher levels the Simcoe settlement is from $200 to $400 below the York County offer.

Increases offered over last year ranged from $400 a year for most teachers in the lower levels of each category up to $1,200 a year for some teachers with several years of experience.

Throughout negotiations the teachers have been insistent that the grid should provide a percentage increase rather than an equal amount of cash increase for all levels.

In a few instances the York County offer was $100 higher than the Metro offer, but in most instances it was the same up to the level of teachers with eight years' experience or more. From this level on, the York County offer was lower and this is where the teachers take exception to the "package".

Teachers in category 1 must have an ordinary bachelor of arts degree or (in the case of shop and certain commercial areas) equivalent qualifications in their subject area plus one year at a college of education. As things now stand, they are being offered a starting salary of $7,200 and at the end of 12 years of teaching get $11,800. During the year just past the rate was $6,800 minimum and a maximum of $11,200 for the teacher with 13 years' experience.

As teachers earn additional credits and degrees through successfully completing courses at recognized universities, Ontario Institute of Studies in Education and other institutions, they may earn a place in category 2, 3 or 4.

Under the schedule published by the board, teachers in category 2 will get a minimum of $7,600 and maximum of $12,500 compared with $7,200 and $12,000 last year.

Figures for category 3 are minimum $8,400 and maximum $14,100. The range this past year was from $8,000 to $13,500.

In category 4 the minimum being offered is $8,900 and maximum $15,100 compared with $8,600 and $14,400 for 1969-70. The offer also provides allowances of $1,850 for major department heads and $1,150 for minor department heads.

Principals were offered an increase of $1,000 over last year's schedule. Principals in "A" schools — fully composite with at least 3 commercial rooms and five shops — are getting a minimum of $20,000 and maximum of $22,000.

Principals of "B" schools — composite schools which do not qualify as "A" schools but have an enrolment over 900 and special vocation schools with an enrolment over 450 — are getting a minimum of $18,500 and maximum of $20,500.

Principals of "C" schools with an enrolment of less than 900 and special vocational schools with an enrolment of less than 450 are getting $17,500 to a maximum of $19,500.

The offer rejected by the teachers included a principals' increment of $500 up to the maximum and other improvements, as well as substantial increases for vice-principals who are paid on a category plus basis, depending on the type of school they are assigned to.

A breakdown of the vote taken by the teachers showed overwhelming rejection of the board offer in some schools, and equally strong votes in favor in a few others.

At Richmond Hill High School 25 voted to reject the offer, four were in favor of accepting it. At King City it was 55 no, six yes; Markham 56 no, eight yes; Dr. G. W. Williams in Aurora 26 no, 35 yes.

Don Head Secondary voted

21 no and 9 yes; Bayview 45 no and ten yes; Thornlea 17 no and 23 yes; Thornhill 29 no and 12 yes; Langstaff 26 no and 6 yes; and Woodbridge 9 no and 7 yes.

Sutton was strongly opposed to accepting the proposed schedule, with 29 voting to reject it and 11 supporting it. At Stouffville it was 29 no and 9 yes.

Both Newmarket schools, on the other hand, were in favor of the offer. At Huron Heights 11 voted no and 21 yes, and at Newmarket High School it was nine no and 37 yes.

Trustee Starr, the board's negotiating committee chairman, is on vacation, the teachers' Negotiating Committee Chairman John Munro-Cape is taking a course at OISE, and other trustees and teachers interviewed seem resigned to shelving the whole matter until the schools re-open in September.

NEWMARKET: Former Newmarket Police Chief Byron Burbridge died July 13 in Toronto Western Hospital. He was rushed there July 5 with what doctors described as a major artery leak in his heart. He was 66 years old and retired in 1967 after being chief for 20 years. He was stricken at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Staff Sergeant David Fellows of the Whitechurch Police and Mrs. Fellows, who were attending the funeral of their daughter. Six-year-old Barbara Ann died when she fell against a storm door and a piece of glass punctured her heart.

Teachers in category 1 must have an ordinary bachelor of arts degree or (in the case of shop and certain commercial areas) equivalent qualifications in their subject area plus one year at a college of education. As things now stand, they are being offered a starting salary of $7,200 and at the end of 12 years of teaching get $11,800. Figures for category 3 are minimum $8,400 and maximum $14,100. The range this past year was from $8,000 to $13,500.

In category 4 the minimum being offered is $8,900 and maximum $15,100 compared with $8,600 and $14,400 for 1969-70. The offer also provides allowances of $1,850 for major department heads and $1,150 for minor department heads.

Principals were offered an increase of $1,000 over last year's schedule. Principals in "A" schools — fully composite with at least 3 commercial rooms and five shops — are getting a minimum of $20,000 and maximum of $22,000.

Principals of "B" schools — composite schools which do not qualify as "A" schools but have an enrolment over 900 and special vocation schools with an enrolment over 450 — are getting a minimum of $18,500 and maximum of $20,500.

Principals of "C" schools with an enrolment of less than 900 and special vocational schools with an enrolment of less than 450 are getting $17,500 to a maximum of $19,500.

The offer rejected by the teachers included a principals' increment of $500 up to the maximum and other improvements, as well as substantial increases for vice-principals who are paid on a category plus basis, depending on the type of school they are assigned to.

A breakdown of the vote taken by the teachers showed overwhelming rejection of the board offer in some schools, and equally strong votes in favor in a few others.

At Richmond Hill High School 25 voted to reject the offer, four were in favor of accepting it. At King City it was 55 no, six yes; Markham 56 no, eight yes; Dr. G. W. Williams in Aurora 26 no, 35 yes.

21 no and 9 yes; Bayview 45 no and ten yes; Thornlea 17 no and 23 yes; Thornhill 29 no and 12 yes; Langstaff 26 no and 6 yes; and Woodbridge 9 no and 7 yes.

Sutton was strongly opposed to accepting the proposed schedule, with 29 voting to reject it and 11 supporting it. At Stouffville it was 29 no and 9 yes.

Both Newmarket schools, on the other hand, were in favor of the offer. At Huron Heights 11 voted no and 21 yes, and at Newmarket High School it was nine no and 37 yes.

Trustee Starr, the board's negotiating committee chairman, is on vacation, the teachers' Negotiating Committee Chairman John Munro-Cape is taking a course at OISE, and other trustees and teachers interviewed seem resigned to shelving the whole matter until the schools re-open in September.

NEWMARKET: Former Newmarket Police Chief Byron Burbridge died July 13 in Toronto Western Hospital. He was rushed there July 5 with what doctors described as a major artery leak in his heart. He was 66 years old and retired in 1967 after being chief for 20 years. He was stricken at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Staff Sergeant David Fellows of the Whitechurch Police and Mrs. Fellows, who were attending the funeral of their daughter. Six-year-old Barbara Ann died when she fell against a storm door and a piece of glass punctured her heart.

Teachers in category 1 must have an ordinary bachelor of arts degree or (in the case of shop and certain commercial areas) equivalent qualifications in their subject area plus one year at a college of education. As things now stand, they are being offered a starting salary of $7,200 and at the end of 12 years of teaching get $11,800. During the year just past the rate was $6,800 minimum and a maximum of $11,200 for the teacher with 13 years' experience.

As teachers earn additional credits and degrees through successfully completing courses at recognized universities, Ontario Institute of Studies in Education and other institutions, they may earn a place in category 2, 3 or 4.

Under the schedule published by the board, teachers in category 2 will get a minimum of $7,600 and maximum of $12,500 compared with $7,200 and $12,000 last year.

Figures for category 3 are minimum $8,400 and maximum $14,100. The range this past year was from $8,000 to $13,500.

In category 4 the minimum being offered is $8,900 and maximum $15,100 compared with $8,600 and $14,400 for 1969-70. The offer also provides allowances of $1,850 for major department heads and $1,150 for minor department heads.
