hair on Japanese males makes it very difficult to become a hippie!

Finally, it is not uncommon for a train to be invaded by a horde of school children wearing uniforms which are frequently ill fitting and bearing knapsacks containing books and lunches on their backs. And if one travels between towns on the local trains, as my friend and I do, one may be thoroughly entertained when it is time to feed the baby who is carried papoose style on the mother's back, or when a small child cannot decide what strange sort of creature a foreigner is and whether he is friendly or not. If one is lucky, he eventually may be honored with a smile and a little wave of goodbye. And so I too must depart.

Please don't be discouraged with all this, for despite the hardships of public transportation, the majority of Japanese people are helpful, polite, and tremendously patient. Not only will they make sure that an elderly man or woman has a place to sit, but I have even witnessed two people politely arguing which one should take a vacant seat (they both got off before the matter was settled!). In any case, I must gather my courage to board the next train. Sayonara!

fee automatically registers the student with Trainco. The winter course will open on October 5 at Wrixon Hall for the Richmond Hill students and will be extended to ten lessons at the same hourly rate.

The courses include the usual basic tuition of breathing control, tongue exercises, concentration, improvisation and facial exercises. The students are given passages to study and memorize, and have an opportunity to present them before the class and the instructor for criticism and suggestions for improving their performances. I watched selections from such varied works as "Ondine", "A Midsummer Night's Dream", "Dad Poor Dad", "Marat-Sade" and "The Importance of Being Ernest". Some of the performers showed very obvious talent, and their instructor was quick to encourage them and to offer advice. Some had memorized commercials or written their own, and the results were sometimes convincing.

At the conclusion of their training the young hopefuls are auditioned at Trainco, and their performances video-taped to give an idea of their potential as television performers. The successful ones, of course, become part of the pool of talent from which the agency can draw.

The director of these courses is Tony Maffat-Lynch, an actor and dancer who trained at the famous Italia Conte School in London, England, followed by extensive experience in repertory theatre. On coming to Canada five years ago, he worked with George Luscombe's Workshop Productions in Toronto for three years before returning to England for a further tour in repertory.

For the past two years Tony has been acting in Montreal, Edmonton, (in "The Fantasticks" at the Citadel), "Marat-Sade" with Trio Productions in Toronto, and in a number of television productions such as the "Quentin Durgens" and "Toby" series, and as a variety of characters in ETV dramas. He recently played a lead role in the movie "Flick", made by Agincourt Productions.

Tony has directed two dance shows for the Three Schools of Art in Toronto, and has just completed the direction of a show (compiled by himself) to go on tour shortly. It is based on the life of the Spanish poet Garcia Lorca.

Talent Unlimited is planning a picnic for the students to be held in one of the Toronto Parks at the end of August, and one of the cable television companies will televise the "star" students in their audition pieces.

Those interested in registering for the winter course should contact Dale Sittig, the course manager, at 923-1108.

York County Teachers At Family Life Course

(Writers of the following article are on the teaching staffs of separate schools in this area. Miss Lillian MacDougall teaches at St. Luke's School on Dudley Avenue, Thornhill and Miss Anne Hefferman is on the staff of St. Mary Immaculate School, Trayborn Drive, Richmond Hill. The two young teachers were among the 17 from York County separate schools who have been attending a "Family Life" course in Thunder Bay since July 1.)

The first "Family Life" course taught in Canada was held in Thunder Bay in the summer of 1968. It was a fantastic success, so a second course was held in the summer of 1969.

Participating this summer of 1970 were 150 teachers. They came from all parts of Canada - the Maritimes, Ontario, Alberta, Manitoba; two were from the USA and another came from Ceylon. Seventeen elementary school teachers from York County Roman Catholic Separate Schools were in attendance.

Participants receive credits towards a BA or an MEd. degree. Affiliation is with the University of Ottawa.

The success of the Family Life Institute in Thunder Bay where the course was held is largely due to a sincere and enthusiastic leader, Rev. Father Leo J. Lafreniere.

The Family Life Institute is unique in Canada. Internationally known experts in psychology, anthropology and sociology lead the sessions, and come from all persuasions and religious backgrounds. Classes were held each day from 8.15 am to 3.15 pm. Films, filmstrips, lectures, group dynamics and curriculum guide planning formed the core of the program. A required reading list of books and materials was appraised by participants.

One of the main benefits of a family life education course taught in schools is to train children to take part in social life and participate actively in community organizations, be open to discourse with others and be willing to promote the common good. This is what family life education is all about.

Time Running Out, Mayor Warns As Council Approves County Move

Richmond Hill Council, meeting on the afternoon of August 4, agreed to support York County Council's recommendation to reject both Bills 142 and 143, passed in June by the Ontario Legislature. These were designed to provide some means of alleviating hardship cases of increased tax bills brought about by reassessment on market value. The county also recommended that if a special bill is not forthcoming, all municipalities adopt Bill 143, an amendment to the Assessment Act which will enable them to write off the increase over $50 next year.

Council also agreed it would support the county's recommendation for a special bill for York County, although Councilor Lois Hancey, who opposed both resolutions, expressed the opinion there was no possible chance of such special legislation being passed.

"York and Peel Counties and Pickering Township are the only Ontario areas where reassessment has been done on market value," Mrs. Hancey pointed out. "The problems here are no different than in Peel and Pickering. So to ask for a special bill for York is ill-advised. The only alternative that I can see is for all municipalities to appeal the entire assessment roll and urge every person whose taxes have risen because of reassessment to go before the assessment review board to see if that yardstick is valid. But this will not provide relief for our people this year. I think we have a responsibility to them."

"I'm extremely disappointed in the provincial government and the type of legislation they have provided, to put it mildly," stated the only woman councillor. "I am still very anxious that cases of hardship and the people who require relief get it this year. I'm aware of the many problems involved. But I need some answers before we reach a conclusion on what action to take. I want to know, if Bill 142 (The Municipal Act) is applied, if there are any residential properties which have decreased enough that they would be involved in industrial - commercial assessment? (Bill 142 provides that increases in 1970 taxation because of reassessment may be limited to 10% or $50 and decreases to the same amount). In speaking to officials of the Department of Municipal Affairs, I believe I was told there are 5,000 properties (both up and down) affected in this town.

Markham Twp. Hires Management Advisors

The Toronto management consulting firm Stevenson and Kellogg Limited has been hired by Markham Township Council to develop a job evaluation program for employees covered under the new contract with the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Council members August 4 agreed the fee should not exceed $2,900.

It was noted by members of council that this firm did a similar study for the former York-Oshawa District Health Unit.

The firm was hired after proposals were submitted by several firms and representatives were interviewed by council.

Reeve Stewart Rumble noted that doing the job evaluation now would be dollars down the drain to some extent. This was because the whole job situation will change when Markham and Markham Township are amalgamated January 1.

But Reeve Rumble said he agreed it was necessary to undertake job evaluation under the agreement with the union, and that the firm of Stevenson and Kellogg was certainly capable.

Councillor William Masters said the township should only do the minimum necessary this year, and leave it up to the new larger town to do a more extensive job next year.
