CGIT Doings
 By JANET GRADEEN
 Richmond Hill United Church
 CGIT has started a new year
 once again. This year the girls, an approximate number of 25
 to 25, started the season off with a fun and very successful wiener roast on September 16.
 The wiener roast was held at the home of Mrs. Eileen Gradeen on Bayview Avenue North.
 The leaders are Mrs. Eve
 Barron, Mrs. Eileen Gradeen and former Guide leader of Barrie, Mrs. Gwen Wilkinson.
 The CGIT would like to extend their thanks to Marion Babcock and Elizabeth Miller for the rousing sing-song that they directed at the wiener roast.

About 150 people turned out to Maple Community Centre Monday night for nominations of candidates for municipal and regional elections October 5.

There will be no election in Vaughan for mayor or school trustees however, as all of these offices have been filled by acclamation.

Vaughan Township Reeve Garnet Williams was the only nominee for the office of Mayor of the new Town of Vaughan, which will include the present Village of Woodbridge.

Woodbridge Reeve John McLean was chairman of the meeting, and in congratulating Mr. Williams he said he had intended to seek the post too, but felt that the job would be too time-consuming, as the new mayor will sit on the regional council as well as heading the local council.

Mr. Williams, a retired Nashville farmer, will have the time said Mr. McLean, "I bow out confident that he will do the job and do it well."

Vaughan will have two trustees on the York County Board of Education and two on the York County Roman Catholic Board. Trustees Ross Joffe and Morley Kinnee were the only nominees to the board of education.

Eugene Jacobs and Mrs. Noreen Lee, also sitting trustees were the only nominees to the Catholic Board.

REGIONAL COUNCIL
 Vaughan will have one representative to regional council in addition to the mayor and this representative will also sit on the town council.

Nominatees were Albert Hollingshead, deputy-reeve of Woodbridge, and Albert Rutherford, deputy-reeve of Vaughan.

Five will be elected to the town council, and six were nominated. All are experienced councillors who have held office in either Vaughan or Woodbridge.

First nominated was Fred Armstrong, a contractor who has served for 15 years on Woodbridge Council, nine of them as reeve. He is a former warden of the County of York.

Present Vaughan Township Councillors nominated were Concord Lawyer David Fraser, Woodbridge Contractor John Gilbert, Maple Businessman Dalton McArthur, and Maple Business Executive Gordon Risk.

Also nominated was Woodbridge Merchant Fred Dobson, a member of Woodbridge Council for the past two years.

In his nominations address, Mr. Hollingshead commented on the poor turnout at the meeting.

"This is an important election, an election that should be of great concern to everyone in Vaughan," said Mr. Hollingshead. "The creation of a new town is an exciting and challenging project."

He criticized the new provincial assessment formula, referring to the government's tax-relief Bills 142 and 143 as "time capsule bills" giving only temporary relief to overburdened taxpayers.

"Vaughan is one of the richest and most powerful municipalities in York Region, but reassessment has shifted a desirable situation to an undesirable situation... I have never seen so much confusion, so much buck-passing. How long are we going to go along with this?"

Speaking of hazards of pollution, Mr. Hollingshead declared, "If we must legislate to buy back our natural heritage, we must do so."

As a representative to the Metro and Region Conservation Authority, he said this authority has done more in the last 20 years than any other agency in helping to restore the delicate ecological balance.

Questions of local and regional concern include planning for gradual growth in Vaughan, restoration of the Toronto and York Roads Commission, establishment of a solid financial base for municipal administration, and resolving of the "southern boundary debate".

If Metro is allowed to annex the southern part of Vaughan, Mr. Hollingshead charged, 50 square miles of the most valuable area in the county will be lost.

WANT REASSESSMENT
 Mr. Rutherford also stressed assessment and the southern boundary as the most pressing problems confronting the region. He recommended a five-year plan for residential and industrial development. Other priorities, he said, included the need for improved education, pollution control, roads, services, and a ward system of municipal representation.

Speaking as chairman of Vaughan Township Hydro, he told the meeting that in 1968 a five year program for lighting all intersections was introduced, and the program is running a year ahead of schedule.

Mr. Rutherford admitted that Vaughan Hydro has increased rates since 1968, "But they are still lower than they would have been under Ontario Hydro."

"If elected, he declared, he will insist that Vaughan be reassessed in 1971, that there is fair distribution of taxes between residential, farm and industrial properties.

Loss of the area to the south, said Mr. Rutherford, would mean a $60 million loss to Vaughan in assessment.

Mr. Armstrong termed property taxes "very unfair," adding "The whole County of York should appeal."

Home and farm owners, he said, are subsidizing industry under the new tax structure. One industry, for example, is paying $1,000 less in taxes since reassessment.

"If I am elected, I will do my best to persuade Queen's Park to roll back taxes," Mr. Armstrong concluded.

SHUN METRO
 Mr. Dobson, who filed his nomination papers just a minute before nominations closed, at Central Baptist Seminary in Toronto.

The four men share the belief that the church will lose its remaining nominal support and that members will be more committed.

"In recent times the world has found it popular to lend passing support to Christianity and every politician had to involve God's name," said Mr. Tarr. "In an emerging time of more honesty they won't feel obligated to do that."

Christians will have power beyond their numbers as they will be more outward-looking than they are today, said Dr. Peters.

They will be concerned about the suffering and pain that they see around them. They will offer help and a healing faith to those that are beaten down by "depersonalizing forces."

Mr. Roxburgh said Christians will be more involved in the community, prompting people to ask what makes them whole in a "broken world."

This will be partly because they are no longer bound to church buildings and organizations.

Dr. Peters said property will come to mean less in the future. Some groups will not worship in regular church buildings at all.

And many clergymen will be unsalaried, as they will have other jobs.

This is true already of Dr. Peters, who shares with three other clergymen the ministry of a Mennonite Church in Peterboro. All four have other jobs and are not paid for their work in the church.

But Dr. Peters said his congregation still has a church building.

Ministers themselves are not likely to have the same role as today.

Mr. Roxburgh sees the clergyman becoming a "minister-coach" — someone who trains other Christians to do many of the things done now by ministers.

Churches will no longer be run by one man, but people with different abilities will do different church tasks.

Christian Church Year 2,000 AD
Seen As Vastly Changed Body

There are 10 persons in the living room, talking about Christ.

The minister is absent. He is a medical doctor and has been called to the hospital.

It is the Christian church in the year 2000.

Small groups no longer meeting in large church buildings and depending on strong lay participation may well be the church of the future.

This is largely the vision shared by four Protestant evangelical leaders from different walks of life who attended the recent Canadian Congress on Evangelism in Ottawa.

They are Robert Thompson, 56 Conservative MP for Red Deer and one-time missionary; Rev. Robert Roxburgh, 32, a Calgary Baptist minister; Dr. Peter Peters, 53, president of Waterloo Lutheran University and a Mennonite minister; and Rev. Leslie Tarr, 41, a professor
