$10 Bogus Bills Flood Area

Bogus United States $20 bills have been added to the counterfeit Canadian $10 bills turning up in Southern York Region in recent days.

Markham Township and Richmond Hill Police Departments both issued warnings to the public this week.

Several of the bills were passed during the shopping rush hour Friday night, and were traced to King City, Unionville and Richmond Hill businesses.

Only once was a description of the bill passed available. The person who passed a bogus $10 at the Kresge Company Limited store at the Richmond Heights Shopping Centre is described as a white female, aged about 30, of medium build and almost 5 feet 7 inches tall, with dark hair and fair complexion.

Most often the bills are passed on Friday and are discovered when night cash deposits are handled by the banks Monday morning.

Mississauga storekeepers were warned today to be wary of counterfeit $10 bills.

At least a dozen have been reported to police since the weekend from scattered points in the town just west of Metro.

Many of the bills carry the same serial number: RE4716499. Their quality is mediocre. The printing appears fuzzy on close inspection and the platelets — small green dots impressed in the paper — are missing.

The serial number of the two bogus U.S. $20 bills passed at the Tamblin Limited drug store and Coles Book Store in the Richmond Heights Shopping Centre was B78530037A. The bills are of inferior color and brightness, town police point out. The bills were identified at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at the shopping centre.

Another bogus $10 bill turned up at the same bank, but its origin is unknown.

A bogus Canadian $10 apparently was passed Friday at the Richmond Inn Motor Hotel, 69 Yonge Street South, and identified Monday at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, 57 Yonge Street South.

Another bogus $10 bill turned up in the deposit from the Maple Egg Grading Station, King Sideroad, King City.

Town police say a flood of the bogus bills is reported in the Windsor area.

The serial numbers of the bogus Canadian $10 bills that have turned up so far locally are P/T 5134768, T/E 1726811 and T/E 8621081. These bills are inferior in color and brightness. In the bogus bills the "Y" in the signature "Rasminsky" touches the border of the bill, when it shouldn't. The green spots aren't removable from the bogus bills, as they should be from a genuine bill.

The first of these recently passed bogus bills turned up a week ago at a Thornhill bank.

Lightning Hit Homestead House

Lightning struck an occupied Richvale home last week to cause the worst of many fire accidents in Southern York Region during the past week.

Stan Wood, 75, a well known local native, miraculously escaped his burning homestead residence through a window, barefoot in his shirttail.

Damage to the building at 528 Carrville Road West was estimated by Vaughan Fire Chief James Davidson at $1,150.

Apparently the fire had been smouldering in the Wood residence for about 1 1/2 hours. Mr. Wood went to bed about 9 o'clock September 24. He didn't waken when the lightning hit.

His daughter, Mrs. Frances Purves, lives next door and heard the lightning at about 10:30 pm. She went outside and walked around her own home and her father's home, and could see no sign the lightning had hit.

Her husband Frank Purves, a North York Fireman, was at work. Mrs. Purves went to sleep and was awakened when her father arrived at the door in his night clothes.

Another son, Andrew also lives in the fire damaged house, but was at work during the fire. The house was insured and is being repaired. Since last year it has belonged to BAIF Associates, Suite 604, 3500 Dufferin Street, Downsview.

The property is known as the site of the old blacksmith shop and the home is believed to be over 150 years old.

Mr. Wood's family moved to the homestead 71 years ago from the Carrville Mill.

The fire burned most of the occupants' clothing and damaged three rooms. The lightning came through the attic and down copper pipes in the hallway. The hallway was gutted.

The plastic on an electric clock in the kitchen wall melted away. The clock fell, but was still running and had the right time. Ceilings, walls and furniture were burned.

It wasn't the smell of smoke that awakened Mr. Wood. He had a stroke last year and couldn't smell anything. He was awakened by the intense heat.

Mr. Wood was able to jump safely from the bedroom window of the one-storey brick and stucco building.

Mrs. Purves called firemen at 12:11 am after making sure her father was all right.

A New York woman was lucky to escape without serious injury at 5:06 am September 26 when smoking in bed started a fire at the Twin Elms Motel, Highway 27 south of Kleinburg.

Mrs. Janet Witcome was taken to York Central Hospital and released.

Damage to the motel building was estimated at $100, with $200 damage to the contents.

A car burned and a garage was damaged at 1:35 am September 22 at the home of Dalton Runney on Don Mills Road, north of Victoria Square.

Richmond Hill Fire Chief Alfred Stong said the fire was blamed on a short circuit in the car's wiring. Damage was estimated at $1,100.

Richmond Hill Firemen were called twice to the end of Kerrybrook Drive September 22, once at 6:55 pm and again at 11 pm. It appeared a grass fire had been set twice in a field at this location.

The pollution control officer September 26 at 2:33 pm sent Vaughan Firemen to Ryan Brothers Contractors Limited, Woodbine Avenue, Buttonville. Firemen hosed down a load of smouldering hot rubbish that had been dumped there.

Vaughan Firemen rushed a resuscitator to Acme Paper Products Company Limited, 7700 Keele Street, September 21 at 5:22 pm.

Valentine Westzine of 765 Steeles Avenue West, Apartment 4, was suspected of having a heart attack. A company spokesman said the emergency had proven to be a false alarm.

A stolen car owned by a Toronto resident was found burning September 23 at 12:12 am on Jane Street, half a mile north of Maple Road. The 1966 Pontiac was without a motor before being set on fire.

Lint in the filter of a clothes dryer in the basement of the home of Robert Macfarlane, 17 Weller Crescent, Maple, was blamed for a small fire and smoke at 11:50 am September 25. Vaughan Firemen said there was little damage.

Vaughan Firemen at 1:17 pm September 25 were called to Highway 7 West, near Pine Valley Drive, to wash gasoline from the pavement after a collision. They did the same thing
