The Liberal

An Independent Weekly: Established 1878

Subscription Rate $5.00 per year; to United States $6.00: 15c single copy Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

Member Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association Published by Richmond Hill Liberal Publishing Co. Ltd. W. S. COOK, Publisher

"Second class mail, registration number 0190"

Premier Robarts And The Construction Industry

In a brief tabled before the Legislature's Standing Committee on Labor last week Professor John Crispo, director of the University of Toronto's Centre on Labor Relations, has accused the Robarts Government of running scared in the face of strong opposition to its proposed changes in its labor laws by militant factions in the trade union movement. Members of construction unions across the province have been pressuring the government to amend Bill 167 or face a massive anti-government vote in the next provincial election. The industrial relations specialist, who is co-author of the $1 million report by the federal Task Force on Labor Relations, also accused the Ontario Liberal Party and the New Democrats of failing to even recognize that a problem exists in the industry, let alone offer any possible solution. Both opposition parties have been highly critical of the suggested legislation and have joined the unions in presenting a united front against the government.

JOHN CRISPO

Mr. Crispo contends that construction unions have become so powerful and conditions in the industry so chaotic that smaller companies no longer attempt to hold the line on wages. Contract negotiations are a form of collusion by which labor and management agree to pass on wage increases in the form of higher building costs to a helpless public. Mr. Crispo said the results of bargaining in the industry are intolerable. The costs are incalculable, he said. "It is contributing to a rise in construction costs that precludes society's meeting of so many vital unmet needs such as public housing and pollution abatement.

"It is setting impossible wage precedents and unduly upsetting longestablished wage and salary relationships. And in the process of all this, it is aggravating what are already difficult enough bargaining relationships in all sorts of other industries."

It has been estimated that recent one-year settlements in Ontario communities brought wage increases ranging from 29.6% to 40.9%. In his brief Mr. Crispo referred to recent settlements that gave 250 crane operators across the province wages of $8.00 an hour and plumbers more than $7.00 an hour and said he fears these wages will set the pattern in 1971 when about 80% of the construction workers enter bargaining.

Mr. Crispo maintained the province should compel multi-trade, areawide bargaining in the construction industry in the hopes of getting as many people as possible into the act at once.

"The results of the collective bargaining process in the construction industry now are intolerable," he

"There are both protracted legal strikes or lockouts, and short but damaging illegal strikes over everything from recognition to jurisdictional disputes.

The government of Premier John Robarts is to be congratulated in its attempts to bring some semblance of stability into the construction industry. Even these timid attempts at reform have been met by mass rallies and the threat of political pressure by the organized might of the trade union movement. The unions with their active political support of the New Democratic Socialists (the recent Ontario New Democratic Leadership Convention was a good barometer of this support) are lost to the Conservatives in any case. The Robarts Government therefore should think twice before it buckles under to pressure from the unions.

The Nixon Liberals have made their usual negative response to this issue — they have simply followed the lead of Stephen Lewis and the New Democrats. It is becoming increasingly obvious that in the next provincial election the people of Ontario are going to have a clear choice between the Robarts Tories and the Lewis-led Socialists.

Ward System For Vaughan

(including the October 5 regional election) several members of Vaughan Township Council pledged themselves to see that a ward system is set up for future use in township elections.

We believe that they should introduce a bylaw to that effect at the earliest possible moment, so that their intent will not be forgotten and so that there will be plenty of time to do the necessary research and set up a fair and equitable division of population among the wards. Let these election promises become a reality.

This is the democratic way in which to hold elections — the federal government uses it, the provincial government uses it and many municipalities use it. This method ensures representation by population, the basis of our government.

In the past few years and in the coming two years, Vaughan has been fortunate in spreading its representation on council over the whole municipality, and most areas have had direct representation at the

During recent election campaigns council table. But as long as all council members are elected over the whole municipality, the danger is always alarmingly present that one area may dominate council. A concerted effort on behalf of a small section of a municipality and "plunkers" (ballots on which only one name is Xed, instead of five) can make this happen in any election. As preparations for regional government roll into high gear in Richmond Hill, it is becoming quite evident that the three members of the 1971-72 council from the extended areas of the new town will make a great contribution. This contribution will be for the benefit of all people within the new municipality's limits as well as for those living within the added areas.

It is conceivable that if Richmond Hill had not used a ward system for this election, but had decided to elect councillors over the whole municipality that at least two of these men might well have been defeated, since they would not have been known by the great majority of the townspeople — and the whole community would have suffered.

Book Gift Tells About Kinsmen

The story of Kinsmen is contained in a beautifully bound book "The Cross of Square" presented to Richmond Hill Public Library October 21 by the Richmond Hill Kinettes. It is now on the shelf at the library and will prove of interest to readers. In the above photo Mrs. Isabelle Robinson (left) presents the Kinette gift to Chief Librarian Mrs. Patricia

Don Deacon

Reports

Recent research indicates we

Ohio Scientists Plan Single Plant To Handle Garbage And Sewage

Two years ago Metro fought will make it much easier for an unsuccesful and costly bat- Metro to obtain approval to tle to establish a huge garbage dump its tons of excess garbage dump (more politely described on the lands of its neighbors. as a land fill project) near Concurrently, the new Toron-Woodbridge in Vaughan Town- to-Centred Region, Design for ship. The mounting pressure of Development, unveiled a few garbage disposal may result in months ago, will require a a renewal of the battle in the scheme for the economic treatnot too distant future. But, for ment of sewage in the Yonge the next round, Metro has been Street corridor and the southarmed by Queen's Park with a ern portion of the York Regnew piece of legislation which ion without adding to the pollution of the Don and Humber Rivers as they pass through

Children's Variety Metro. Show To Aid Charity may be able to solve both these garbage and sewage problems Several York County women by combining their treatment in are helping to organize the an- a single plant. Two Ohio sciennual children's variety show to tists have announce U.S. federal be presented by Naomi Chapter financing of a pilot project B'nai B'rith Women at Golden based upon studies which indi-Doors of Encore, Yorkdale cate that a combined system can improve recycling possibilities Chapter president is Mrs. of materials, eliminate air pollu-

Elaine Cyna, 62 Shady tion, and produce a much more Lane in North Thornhill, and acceptable liquid effluent at a Fran Cohen, 30 Silver Aspen Iv. Drive, and Mrs. Shirley Worth, It is not enough for the pro-30 Blue Spruce Lane, are past vincial government to merely presidents of the chapter. state to what extent pollution

The variety show is headlin- of our environment is permitted, ing "Mr. Dressup", well known we sorely need to ensure that TV personality, and there will substantial research funds are be clowns - "Mr. Peanut Man", available from government and "Mr. Balloon Man" - and fun corporate sources for a crash, for all with grab bags for the comprehensive approach in finding improved answers to the

There will be three shows, at frightening ecological crisis of 10 am, 1 pm and 3:30 pm, with our times. Perhaps in that way proceeds going to further the we shall stop creating even many services and philanthro- more serious problem each time pies, both local and interna- we find an apparent solution to tional, that are supported by some aspects of the pollution of he B'nai B'rith Women.

These include Meals on Wheels and Sunnybrook Hos-OSHAWA - The introduction pital, the canteen at Queen of regional government will re Street Mental Health Centre, sult in a "normal" increase tax and provision of hampers for rate for Oshawa residents preneedy families at Christmas dicts Mayor Bruce Mackey.

time and Chunukah.

The women also canvass for government the mayor told numerous community cam- Oshawa Chamber of Commerce paigns and sponsor blood donor regional government would clinics, as well as planning pro- cause a "normally expected ingrams for the Hebrew Club for creased rates of taxes". He the Blind and for the Vanier added, however, that the city Reform Institute for Women. can not count on either a great For tickets for the show call increase or reduction in its tax Mrs. Evelyn Feldman, 223-8574 rate. or Mrs. Sylvia Kirshner, 635- "What we can expect is tax re-'form," said Mayor Mackey.

our enviroment.

Favor Marxist Line

at Kingcraft on October 26.

but as a conflict between classes.

between sexes but between classes.

people in Quebec are oppressed.

she is 27, that she came from Florida with her draft-doger husband three years ago, but is now separated and works at the

She described a day care center operating on the university campus staffed largely by volunteers and serving women of the university community. It was her work at the centre, she said, the centres now available.

tions regarding qualified super- parents.

University of Toronto Library.

Mrs. Marks told the audience

In The Tradition of RA

From the archeological discovery of Tut's sar- every ten families, declared Mrs. Another of the university wocophagus at the turn of the century, to the amusing Marks, is headed by a woman, men suggested that education Friday night fright shows "Curse of the Mummy's Tomb" or "Tales of Count Dracula"; man's imagination has been stirred. There is something about the preservation of things dead that fascinate us. Perhaps the association with horror movies is absurd, but this week's spotlight is on Taxidermy ... and, after all, Hallowe'en has just passed ...

Steve Wright is an enterprising young man from Oak Ridges who has recently made taxidermy his career (not your every day career decision, you'll admit). As a man who appreciates the beauty of nature, he enjoys saving some of the grandeur she has created . . . the magnificent rack of a stag, the quiet grace of a pheasant and even the minute miracle called the humming bird. It is apparent from his mounts that he understands the animals he works with. Steve doesn't contort the faces or bodies into aggressive or unnatural poses, but arranges them as naturally as possible. The gentility of one display singularly impressed me. It was a pair of Woodcocks, one at the base of a grotesquely shaped piece of wood and its mate very beautifully, carnival chairman is Mrs. Faye cost well below current costs of at the lowest point of its wing movement, returning Novak, 65 Shady Lane. Mrs. handling these wastes separated to her. The display was very natural and showed left the college without completo me the understanding and tenderness of the man. ed she shares an apartment with Somehow, taxidermy has always repelled me, three other girls and only one Newport just a little. The killing of any animal simply for the sake of a handsome trophy is unspeakable. My mind sees a thoughtless idiot swooping down in a plane shooting wolves with a high powered weapon and calling it sport. Naturally then, I wondered about this man. Steve Wright who is in the business of creating trophies for these people. But he too, has a distaste for butchers of this type and has turned away clients if he thought they fell into this

As I stepped into his workroom, I was overcome by the odour of tanning solution and various other chemicals. A huge freezer stood in one corner, for obvious reasons, and stacks of reference books in another. Biological supplies crowed one workbench while still another bench was ringed with the tools of the trade . . . knives, pliers, oil, paints and water colours. Near the centre of the room stood At a recent meeting on regional the partially finished form of a jaguar. Steve had built it himself from wire supports and excelsior to the polyfilla shaping, it was at once accurate and quite nicely done. It is Steve's project of nearly a Of Kleinburg Film year now and in his spare time he works on it, making sure each ripple of a muscle in the cat's stride is just so. It strikes me that putting the hide of the dead animal over this just isn't necessary. From the time Steve Wright was thirteen, he

(Continued on Page 14)

Driving To Drugs Covered In York County School Research Program Experimental studies in- burg.

logical field studies, nonmedical use of drugs, the effects of biculturalism on Canadian unity are among numerous experimental and research programs undertaken by staff of York County Board of Education and the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education in York County since the county board took office in January fects have been collected and published in book form, interest to parents. "Growth Points 70" ready for distribution to teachers, study them.

Some of the papers, such on October 21. as "Socio-Economic Background, Ability and Achieve- board's division of planning rowing Habits of Senior Pub- by Superintendent Stephen

Teacher-Librarian Erna Fynbo of George Bailey Senior School in Maple, are aimed chiefly at the professionals. Others, like "Recreation Night, An Evaluation" by Teacher James Albery of Roselawn Senior School, Richvale, and "Co-curricular 'Interest Group' Activities Conducted by Adult Volunteers and Staff" by Principal John Hincks of McConaghy School, is formerly at Plea-Reports of 17 of these pro- santville School, Richmond Hill, will be of considerable

The authors and researchers were introduced to trustrustees, and to those of the tees and press at a reception public that would like to at Aurora Highlands Golf and Country Club, Aurora,

The book, published by the ment Related to Book Bor- and development, directed lic School Students" by Bacsalmasi, and edited by Research Officer, Brian Burnham, was officially launched at the reception.

"This yearbook provides a means whereby teachers and others who participated in research or development projects in York County schools in 1969 and early 1970 may make their efforts and findings known," said Mr. Burnham in the introduction to the publication.

"Growth Points 70" is organized around three major themes, (1) planning and building for change, (2) programs to develop new skills and attitudes, (3) using community resources."

Teacher Phillip Randell of Don Head Secondary in Richmond Hill describes the county's first in-school driver education program, and Teacher Marie Johnston of Bayview Secondary School, also in Richmond Hill, explains the process of reorganization as the school moved from structured to unstructured programs, with students proceeding on credit basis rather in the locked-in system of grade by grade promotion.

Also teachers at Bayview, Joel Klein and Robert Laxer describe attempts to remedy inadequate self-images held by many young teenagers in their project, "Helping the Student Overcome Fear of Public Speaking." Parental and community involvement as described by Mr. Albrey and Mr. Hincks moved into the day-time routine of the school in use of adult volunteers in monitoring lunch hours and as teachers aides in a program at Sharon School described by Principal John McLachlan. Teacher John Dear of Sutinto the community by using the archaeologically rich terrain bordering on Lake Simcoe for field studies in arch-

"One of the many intriguing attributes of such a venture is the search into the unknown, the not knowing from one minute to the next what valuable artifact is just awaiting the excavators's trowel to bring it into view," explains Mr. Dear, "One may often find traces of Indian fires as indicated by charcoal deposits often surrounded by hearth stones."

Mr. Dear believes that many communities in York County hold such treasures and insists that archeological finds should be kept in a community museum in the area in which they are discover, not transported to diston District High School, on tant points where they be-

A comparative study of York County's open plan elementary schools by Mr. Burnham is essentially an introduction to the study, furnishing a solid base for more intensive studies now underway at both elementary and secondary school levels. * * * *

Some of the projects are largely local, like "Planning Newmarket's Educational Future" by Newmarket Teacher Ron Pegg, although its findings may be applied to other growing communities in the county.

Aimed at the educator are studies by Dr. Sar Khan of OISE in "The Curriculum and Development of Mental Abilities" and Mr. Bacsalmasi's analysis of "The Place of Curriculum Committees in the York County School System".

volving student include an perimental social studies which began Monday. course for grade 6 on the history and geography of Eurasia as described by in the Town of Markham. representative selection of Sue Petrie. the more than three dozen explains Mr Burnham.

that research or develop- predicts Mr. Taylor. orded in "Growth Points 70". ories.

is delayed for so long that major surgery is required, "And doc-Contrary to public opinion, the Women's Libertors hate that."

ation Movement does not look upon women as the only opposed sector of society, as man as the enemy, declared representatives of Metro Women's Lib at to get abortion laws that are a meeting of York County Women's University Club

Women's Lib Class War - Speaker

Questioned by members of the audience, she seemed unaware of the courses available for child care workers and early childhood education supervisors.

Nor was she familiar with the type of financial assistance available from various levels of government and day care facilities in York

County.

away from home.

By MARGARET LADE

The leader of the panel of three, Alma Marks,

Her group, said Mrs. Marks, is Marxist oriented, explained that society is geared for the comfortable,

there are too many "losers" in the system, that she

see Women's Lib not as a conflict between sexes, representative of the Women's Working Collective and the Quebec Collective for the liberation of all women. They realize, however, that there are other oppressed groups, that the major conflict is not

She spoke contemptuously of If a woman wants to work the Jean Drapeau victory in charged Mrs. Marks, she usually just women, but the majority of looking after the children."

more realistic.

Reference was made to the importance of women in politics in Asia, but the panellists discounted Israeli President Golda Meir and Indian's Prime Minister Indhira Ghandi as women working for women, declaring, Montreal's recent municipal "ends up depending on another "You can be a traitor to your elections and charge that not woman doing the menial task of class." Mrs. Marks pointed out that Mrs. Meir's government has "kicked people out of Palestine who have lived there for years." adding, "Women in India are > subservient to men." The panellists charged that girls are conditioned from in-member of the audience.

that brought her to Women's test from the audience when enjoyed being a girl, she had Mrs. Marks said children are never wanted to be a boy, but There are too few day care better off with volunteers in a she would like to be able to do centres, and government regula- day care centre than with their the things that boys do, like taking shop in school instead of vision are so rigid that most Referring to the speaker's home economics. She would like working women cannot afford earlier comments about Mar- to hitch-hike across the country, xism, a member of the audience she said, but this would be too asked if she would like to see a dangerous for a girl.

sion program, a society where to a family background that women are expected to work says they have to take care of children and the home, do "If I have to work I am not housework and do it well. She liberated," declared the ques- had come to Women's Lib, she said, because of the attitude of Another commented, "I am a men in student organizations.

ing in my kitchen." that she and her husband work-A third agreed, "If you are ed together as a team that she going to liberate women, you worked while he was a student have to free them to do what and he did the housework. Now they want to do, to spend all he works and she stays home. their time in the kitchen if they "Women around here work The university women agreed the panellists, adding, "I real-that in some areas day care ize it is middle class." centres are essential for women "That is middle class", agwho are forced to work. One in reed Mrs. Marks.

Society as a whole does not makes a big difference in the recognize this, she charged. It man-woman relationship. is harder for a woman to find "Many of the husbands I a job, and most jobs for women know treat us as equals and pay much less than jobs for think of us as equals", she demen. The economy, she said, is clared. based on the assumption that a About the only support the woman lives through a man, speakers received came from "We want an equal chance for one of the UCW who pointed equal work . . . but the cards out that very few women in the stacked against us."

22, told the meeting that in her for prejudice against women? high school days it depressed They work just as hard." her that she could not compete Mrs. Marks blamed "the in dress and dates because she press" for misinterpreting the could not afford the things that aims of the women's liberation daughters of doctors and law- movement, and at the conclus-about dress.

Dressed in slacks and baggy sweater with a bandana hiding her hair, she said she owed $1,200 in student loans. She ting her course. Now unemployof them has a job. The women's collective with which she is associated, said Miss Shaw, is concerned about birth control and abortion, "Up to a year ago it was illegal to give out information on birth Even though laws concerning abortion have been broadend, she continued, the procedure is so complex many women are forced to go to the United States for abortions. "First you see a doctor, and from there you go to a psychiatrist. You have to prove you are crazy because of the beauro-Often, she said, the abortion

Reincarnation Theme

Do people return to this earth for a second time, and a third, and more on the rocky road to eternal life? This is a question that has challenged mankind since the dawning of recorded history, and Meridian Films Limited of Toronto is taking up the challenge with the filming of "The Reincarnate" which began this week at Studio City in Klein-

Meridian President Nat Tay-OISE project, "Ten years in lor reports that a full year of a Box" covering the years preparation and considerable from 1929 to 1939 and an ex- research preceded the filming,

The story was written by Seeleg Lester, who is also its producer It is being directed by Principal Gordon Maunder Don Haldane, and the all-Canof William Armstrong School adian cast includes Jack Creley, Jay Reynolds, Hugh Webster, "These 17 "points" are a Colin Fox, Terry Tweed and

"Since there is world-wide projects reported to the re- interest in the subject of the search office between April occult, and particularly reincar-1969 and September 1970," nation, this film is one of great timeliness and should provoke "These 17 differ mainly in both curiosity and controversy", ment had been concluded or The drama concerns an aging reached a major milestone. death, must choose the man to Other projects not so far reincarnate who, before his along promise, judging by death, must choose the man to their interim reports, to sus- inherit and preserve his own tain the good beginning rec- mind and 8,000 years of mem-

Their aim, Miss Shaw continued, is to use political means

> Asked about supporting women candidates for election, the third member of the panel, Caroline Coughey, a secretary, commented scornfully that most women in politics are "token women", toeing the male line in all they do for wo-fancy to accept an inferior role, forced to wear dresses and "Do you think everyone should be neuter?" snapped a There was a murmur of pro-Miss Coughey replied that she

Russian-type of child supervi- Girls, she continued, are tied married woman, and I enjoy be-One of the audience replied because they want to", she told departments or principals and Another speaker, Karen Shaw, asked, "Why is this if it is not ion of the meeting refused to When she went to college, talk to "the press", saying she she said, she stopped worrying preferred to talk to "people".

An Easy 2-Day Drive DAYTONA BEACH AREA 295 S. Atlantic Ormond Beach

Florida 32074

All Units Ocean Fronts

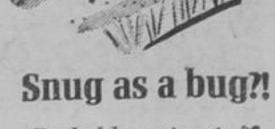

All Major Credit

Cards Honored

Apartments * Efficiencies Rooms Managed by Roy Rickard Ex-Richmond Hill Resident For Info. call 884-4292

LOW WINTER RATES

Probably not yet, if you've just moved

Perhaps your Welcome Wagon hostess can help to ease the confusion. Call her today!

Mrs. Owen Trunk Richmond Hill - 884-4690

