For two years Mr. and Mrs. Eade lived in Orillia. They moved to Vandorf when Mr. Eade was employed by the CNR.

In 1963, after Mr. Eade had completed almost 40 years with the company he retired as section foreman.

For many years they have been members of the Gormley Missionary Church. Here Mrs. Eade has been active in the sewing circles and, in early years, in the Sunday School. # Volunteers Wanted - Grandsons, Sons For Seniors At Union Villa

The men and boys of the community are being offered equal rights at the new Union Villa Home for the Aged in Unionville.

"There is a great need for having the male brawn and brain put to work on behalf of the residents," says Mr. Peppier. "Men and boys are required for the heavier work and to assist with projects using tools and making furniture, especially for outdoors. Then, too, there is a need for men and boys helping to set up programs and relating to the residents."

Mr. Peppier feels the relation of son, grandson and grandfathers will help to cement understanding between the generations, as it has with the girls and women. Boys and men who do not have a grandfather may relate more closely to the residents who do not have children or grandchildren.

"In this way," declares Mr. Peppier, "we will be involving the community in cementing relationships of value to the residents and developing some much needed activities to keep all ages active."

Another phase of life at the Villa that is in the process of development is the musical program. Now that the Villa has an organ and a piano, the search is on for other musical instruments. An accordion would be very helpful immediately, says Mr. Peppier, with band instruments next on the list.

The Villa is also looking for pianists and organists who would like to practice on Villa equipment, and at the same time offering hours of musical entertainment for the residents.

To start the season off well, on Saturday the girls all bundled into Shirley Van Tol's station wagon and took in the Ice Capades. Then back to the Van Tol home for refreshments and to play records, to end a very enjoyable day.

Neighborhood Notes
Gloria Lee and her grandmother, Mrs. McDougall also attended the Ice Capades on Saturday. Mrs. McDougall, who is 70 years old, had never seen the show before, and found it particularly enjoyable.

On Sunday Jean and Cummer Lee spent the day at Mrs. McDougall's home in Grand Valley. While there they showed films of their recent trip to the Scandinavian countries to several members of the family. Mrs. McDougall returned home with Jean and Cummer, to visit them for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee also visited Mrs. John Cruikshank, a former resident of the Headford area, who now lives in Orangeville. Mrs. Cruikshank has recently returned home from hospital, where she was recovering from a heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Langford of Queensville visited George and Harry Burton on Saturday. The Burtons were also pleased that all the members of their family were able to come home during the week.

On Thursday Kathie and Doug Curr from Gravenhurst visited overnight, and Richard and Keith Burton, and Keith's fiancée Charlotte Mustard, who are away at college, came home for the weekend.

The Victoria Square Lions played host to the boys baseball team from Headford, Victoria Square, Buttonville and Oak Ridges on Tuesday evening of last weekend the boys saw a film and enjoyed hot dogs and pop, and the Buttonville team, winner of the playoffs, were presented with a trophy.

Clocks Featured Old English Tea
Handicrafts and hobbies will be an added attraction at the Old English Tea and Bake Sale sponsored annually by the Victoria Square, Headford, Gormley Branch of York Central Hospital Auxiliary.

In addition to paintings, medallions, etc. done by local people, there is to be a display of clocks from the collection of Carl Walker of Victoria Square.

Mr. Walker has long made a hobby of clocks, and some of those to be shown were built by him. Others are very old and have been restored and put in working order. One is made entirely of wood.

Timepieces of all types fascinate Mr. Walker, and he has made an extensive study of sundials, printing descriptive and informative material and creating sundials in various sizes and styles.

The tea will be held in Victoria Square Community Hall from 2 to 5 pm on November 21. Admission is 50 cents for adults, children free. All proceeds will go to the work of the auxiliary. Chairman for the tea is Mrs. Anthony Roman, wife of the new regional mayor.

Century City Lawyer Defends Toronto-Centred Region Plan

The solicitor for Century City Developers, Richard Rohmer of Toronto, has firmly denied allegations that the developers are exerting pressure on the provincial government to gain support for their plan for development east of Stouffville.

RICHARD ROHMER Century City Solicitor

The land for Century City was assembled in 1968, Mr. Rohmer continues, but the Toronto-Centred Region Plan was not released until the summer 1970.

At the same time, he adds the government asked for submissions and representations from interested parties, and a plan for the future orderly development of the Toronto-centred region, which Century City is located, have approved the project. If it does not go ahead it will be because of the new policy of the Ontario government as set out in the Toronto-Centred Region Plan will decree that it shall not.

hundreds of average-wage families who live or work in eastern Metro or Oshawa.

The plan is far outside the jurisdiction of Metro Planning Board, Mr. Rohmer points out, adding, "The council and planning board of Uxbridge, in which Century City is located, have approved the project. If it does not go ahead it will be because of the new policy of the Ontario government as set out in the Toronto-Centred Region Plan will decree that it shall not.

If it does not go ahead it will be because of the new policy of the Ontario government as set out in the Toronto-Centred Region Plan will decree that it shall not.

While maintaining that the loss to Century City owners and to hundreds of members of the public who are shareholders and mortgagees will be enormous if the Toronto-Centred plan is put in effect, Mr. Rohmer conceded, "The government of Ontario has moved ahead far in advance of any comparable jurisdiction on the North American continent with an approach, a concept and a plan for the future orderly development of the Toronto-centred region. The plan limits the growth of Metro for valid economic and land-use reasons, not for the reasons alleged by Mrs. Scrivener, i.e. 'purely to restrain the growth of Toronto's influence and power, of which the province has long been jealous.'"

"The government should be congratulated for this progressive effort rather than criticized," he declares.

Some people will be hurt by the government plan, Mr. Rohmer admits, others will gain: "Whatever the solutions are, it can be expected that they will be in the form of principles which can be applied to the whole of the Toronto-centred plan, rather than piecemeal to one project."

Meanwhile Century City's parent company, Revenue Properties Limited, is in arrears of mortgage payments to many Uxbridge Township residents who sold land to the company for the development, and several of the mortgagees have threatened foreclosure.
