GO IT ALONE

And that's the best reason I've never belonged to any clubs or groups. Have preferred to go it alone. I know I could be criticized for it but that's me. The more people you're around the more bickering you get involved with.

* * * * SNOWMOBILE DEATHS

And so people continue to maim and kill themselves in the name of fun as represented by the snowmobile craze. I suppose it amounts to just one more way people manage to do themselves in but you still have to be amazed at the ages of some of those who fall victims to their own carelessness.

A number of teenagers are killing themselves but its amazing how many people in their 40's and 50's are doing it, who, as we say, should know better.

I noticed in the dailies a few quotes from Richmond Hill stockcar driver Jack Cook, who also races snowmobiles, on the rising toll. I'll repeat it here snowmobiles, on the rising ton. In repeat it lief Lewis and Hamday, then it was hoping people will take heed but I'm afraid it's the Lewis from Philip Wood and lor with two goals. Mr. Cook was quoted as stating that:

"Snowmobiles bring out the animal instinct in a lot of people. Snowmobiles are much more difficult to drive than stock cars. I operated a snowmobile for one whole winter before I considered myself of a goal and two assists, and a goal and two assists, but the Lions edged Camp Borden one assist, Kim Mables of the Lions edged Camp Borden one assist, Kim Mables of the Lions edged Camp Borden one assist, Kim Mables of the Lions edged Camp Borden one assist, Dennis of the Lions edged Camp Borden one assist, qualified to drive one."

He said drivers often take their snowmobiles where they don't have the necessary skills to operate them. It's harder to steer a snowmobile on a packed road than in an open field - and it's on roads that most snowmobile deaths occur."

I can only concur and pass on a bit of philosophy of my own. Just living is flirting with death but, as I always say, they're going to have to come after me. I'm not going to them. Drive carefully, use your head. You get used to living. It has its bad points but it's more fun than being dead. Of course, that's just my opinion.

* * * * ENTER HUMAN NATURE

This is turning out to be a rather gloom-nik effort this week but so it goes. Received a phone call from Mrs. Maureen Lee of 496 Lynett Crescent who was very upset over an incident that occurred on the Mill Pond skating rink Sunday in connection with her five-year-old son Michael.

It seems that Mrs. Lee dropped Michael and his 10-year-old brother, Chris, off at the rink to do some skating. There were some 100 adults using the rink with their children.

Tiny Michael skated with his older brother and on one sequence fell and hurt his leg. It turned out to be fractured. Michael's brother helped him crawl to the side of the rink where he lay for 50 minutes in pain while the adults (sounds beautiful, doesn't it) ignored Chris' pleas for help.

One adult paused long enough to advise Chris that he should "go call a doctor, kid," and then continued on with his Sunday skating. Chris asked another adult for help. He mumbled something about being "sorry, but I'm skating over here with my own children.'

This went on for 50 minutes as Michael lay in a lied on a wicked shot. Roy's snowbank. There were undoubtedly numerous adults on the ice who would have assisted the youngster and perhaps were unaware of his plight. Let's hope so, anyway. But what about the ones that were asked and just didn't have time, didn't care, or more likely, didn't want to become involved? You answer that one. I don't know the answer to that one. IMPORT Auto TALK

-IAN NEILL

"With a little help from our friends . . .' Wayne Harrison, Al Lemoine Here we are with a brand new year, and it is customary to review the past year. 1970 was a most difficult year for all automobile dealers. I don't want to make a big thing of it but we did fairly well. We sold cars when other people couldn't sell cars because we sell Datsuns. During 1970 (9 month period) we sold over 250 new cars and expect to sell 500 this year. We are proud to say that people bought Datsuns because they believe Datsuns were simply more car for the money. That's why Datsun's slogan is "DATSUN THE MORE FOR YOUR MONEY CAR". These people have been telling their friends about their Datsun - and influencing them to buy Datsuns. Word of mouth advertising is the best there is. So! want to thank all of you who have dealt with us, we look forward to serving you during 1971. Datsun 240-Z is Sports Car of the year! ROAD TEST

"The winning sports car of the year evolves from parameters rather different than those from which the import car of the year was judged last month in ROAD TEST Magazine. For one, the home-bred Corvette is always a contender here. Then, though not always, a sports car is most usually a two-seater and as such, its performance and handling rank higher in importance than do comfort and versatility. Finally, its success in serious competition weighs heavily because that obviously distinguishes the real thing from a boulevardier. "Our own road tests of the candidates are evaluated and we must consider price, comfort and vertsatility within limits as well as performance, proved or otherwise. Among the newcomers to the market two cars emerged as finalists, one being the Porsche 914/4 and the other, of course, the 240-Z. "What at first appeared to us to be a difficult choice gradually evolved into a technical knock-out once every factor involved was evaluated. And once again, we find that demand exceeding supply supports our case for both of the finalists. We apologize for embarrassing Nissan but the 240-Z was our only possible choice."
