Carnival Photo Contest

The Richmond Hill Winter Carnival Photography Contest Committee is disappointed at the small number of entries that have been received.

The judging committee has $60 and 18 ribbons to be awarded.

Conditions for unusual photos were excellent, they point out. The committee envisioned pictures of a 40 mile an hour wind over a vacant Hill Pond, a merry-go-round stuck in driving snow, and several shots of a blown down tent with Shaun Beggs peeking out from the flap.

If not these, they claim, surely there are pictures of the Sunday activities when the weather was fairly normal.

The committee has, therefore, decided to accept entries to the extended deadline of March 15.

There are three categories for both color slides and black and white photos. The slides should be in see-through mounts, and the black and white photos no smaller than four or five inches and no larger than eight by ten inches unmounted.

There are classes for seniors (20 years and older as of March 5), Juniors (not old enough for seniors), and for the camera club members from elementary and secondary schools in Richmond Hill area.

Entries should be sent or delivered to Donald Fleming, 51 Wright Street, Richmond Hill.

Rats And Deep Fryer Accidents, Bed Smoking To Blame For Fires Without 1971 Plates, 18 York Drivers Pay

Accidents with deep fat fryers and smoking in bed caused some minor fires in Markham and Vaughan last week.

2 Local Drivers Face Impairment Charges

A Richmond Hill driver and a Langstaff driver were arrested on impairment charges Saturday, according to Richmond Hill Detachment of York Regional Police.

Three out-of-town drivers were also charged.

Robert Stanley Porter, 39, of 85 Cartier Crescent, Richmond Hill, was charged with impaired care and control of a motor vehicle at 11:25 pm on Rockport Crescent.

Paul Stewart Irving, 29, of 17 Ruggles Avenue, Langstaff, was stopped at 1 am on Church Street near Markham Road.

Besides a charge of impaired driving, Irving faces a charge for failing a breathalyzer test and a charge for driving while disqualified.

In impairment cases, police are still laying charges both under the new breath test law and the old impaired driving regulations, in order to assure a conviction.

If a conviction is obtained on one charge, then the other is dropped. So far the controversial breath test law has held up in spite of the number of adverse lower court decisions in various parts of the country.

on the evening of February 24, causing some momentary consternation for the residents.

Richmond Hill Firemen had a resuscitator call on February 26. They put out a fire in the back seat of a traveller's car in the Richmond Hill Inn parking lot February 27.

Rats building a nest under a water heater were blamed for a small fire in a house on Leslie Street in Markham at 10:29 am February 28, Vaughan Fire Department said.

The fire started in the nest and went up through the floor, causing about $60 damage.

The house was the first one north of Steeles Avenue and is owned by All Provincial Services Limited, 890 Yonge Street.

The occupant is Mrs. Barbara Sparling.

There was an estimated $75 damage at 9 pm February 24 in a mattress fire blamed on careless smoking by the occupant of a house in Vaughan.

Gary Woodcock of Lot 3, Islington Avenue North, escaped injury, according to Vaughan Fire Chief Jim Davidson.

A telephone line short circuit set off a fire alarm at 2:25 am at Shouldice Surgery, 7750 Bayview Avenue, Thornhill.

On Sunday and Monday York Regional Police and Ontario Provincial Police at Oak Ridges reported only 18 drivers tagged for having old 1970 plates still on their cars.

In Metro 527 drivers were reported caught without new license plates, and paying $20 fines.

Six drivers were tagged by YRP Richmond Hill Detachment, two by YRP King Detachment, and 10 by OPP in York.

There were no tickets reported issued to unlicensed cars by a Vaughan YRP Detachment, Vandorf YRP Detachment or Buttonville YRP Detachment.

Most Southern York Region drivers had purchased their 1971 license plates by the Saturday night deadline. Or else they stayed at home on Sunday.

Vaughan Town Burglar Is Armed With Pistol

Burglars recently active in Vaughan Town now are armed with a target pistol.

The pistol, transistor radio and some money were stolen February 28 from Sinclair Radio Limited, Rayette Road.

Burglars ransacked the offices.

The same night burglars entered the Richvale Beauty Salon, 9106 Yonge Street, Vaughan Town, and stole a cash register valued at $100.

Entry was gained by smashing a plate glass window in the front door.

Burglars failed to get anything March 1 when they forced open a door to gain entry at Connie Steel Limited, Bowes Road, in Vaughan.
