Along with many other pioneer articles made by pupils of Oak Ridges Public School's kindergarten, grade 1, 2 and 3 and special education class during an immersion study of "Pioneer Life" recently were this log cabin and covered wagon. Caroline Watt, 8, (left) built the realistic home and Paul Seymour, 8, constructed a popsicle stick covered wagon. Both are in room 4, grade 2.

Oak Ridges Pupils Study Pioneer Days

A few weeks ago the junior grades at Oak Ridges Public School were involved in an "Immersion Study of Canada 1971." To involve the primary grades in a similar project the principal and teachers planned a "Pioneer Study" for them. This study was a month in the planning stages and included kindergarten, grades 1, 2 and some grade 3's with junior special education children.

The program began with a visit to Black Creek Pioneer Village on the morning of April 28. The children showed such great interest and so many projects were undertaken that the program was continued over the following week.

Response from the parents was very good. Mothers accompanied the children to Pioneer Village and sent period costumes, books and other items to the school. The Maple audio-visual resource centre also provided many books and materials and the children held a fashion show wearing the old-time clothes.

One mother made a plaster doll in complete pioneer costume and Mrs. Muriel Jenner brought a number of antique articles and books dating back to 1814 which she showed and explained to the children.

Miss Ruth Harper's kindergarten class made miniature log cabins out of popsicle sticks and paper pasted to a large sheet of paper and did paper weaving. In that classroom a woman's pioneer dress and bonnet were on display.

Mrs. Catherine Fee's grade 1 class also made miniature houses. At the start of the study the children prepared a list of questions and each day some answers were added to the list.

Mrs. Cora Crawford displayed for her grades 1 and 2 a woman's black wedding dress and a petticoat from England, dating back to 1876. Also on display was an old school desk, slate and slate pencil. A student made a covered wagon from popsicle sticks.

The grade 2 and 3 students in Mrs. Debbie Saraga's class made bread with each child shaping his own piece of dough. This class enjoyed making models of pioneer life. They also made a comparison chart of life in pioneer days and at present.

Mrs. Nancy King's junior special education class made soup on the staffroom stove. They also enjoyed making three dimensional buildings from boxes.

Other student projects were writing stories, drawing and painting pioneer scenes, reading stories, singing songs, learning words as symbols of the pioneer environment, puppet plays, comparisons of dried fruit with canned fruit and viewing films.

The children were given a pioneer life booklet containing pictures, questions and answers about pioneer living.

One question, for example, was: "Did children have to worry about table manners?" and the answer was, "Yes, they had to stand while eating. You could not say a word at the table. There was a book of manners and you had to know every one of them."

The teachers felt the children received a glimpse into pioneer life and a real feeling of pioneer living at Pioneer Village which was very helpful to them in their projects.

"The Ant and the Grasshopper" on tape was played for the children, noting how the ant worked to store food just as the pioneers did.

It was apparent that the children enjoyed this program very much. Principal Ed Burlew feels much was learned about history and pioneer living and is extremely pleased at the great success of the program.

King City Social Notes

Congratulations to
Miss Marianne Ham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ham of Melrose Avenue, who celebrated her 13th birthday May 10. A small family party at their home fitted the occasion.

Miss Brenda Hobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton

Hobson, whose 18th birthday was on May 11.

Miss Suzanne Fidler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fidler of Springhill Road, who celebrated her 16th birthday May 16.

Good Luck to
Mike Finnegan, grade 13, and Chris Castel, grade 12 of King

City Secondary School who are competing in the Canada-Wide Science Fair in Edmonton, Alberta this week. Teacher Keith Carson, will be accompanying the boys.

United Church
The Laskay Unit of the UCW met on May 5 at 1:30 pm in the home of Mrs. John Manson. The meeting began with the serving of dessert and coffee.

Sunday will be the celebration of the church's anniversary, with the new Moderator Dr. Arthur Moore B.A., B.D., D.D., L.L.D. as the pulpit guest.

After the service, a birthday cake will be served at a short reception giving members of the congregation an opportunity to meet and talk with Dr. Moore. On the same day, a noon luncheon will be held for the boards of both King City United and All Saints Anglican, with Dr. Moore as the guest. Dr. Moore is apparently in favor of the proposed church union. The Centennial 1871-1971 bulletin being used by King City United gives a very good history of the church and the area, dating back to 1836 in Laskay.

Tax Credit on Machinery Purchases To Stimulate Economic Growth

Highlights of the first budget presented by the new Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough, recently, included:

- A 5% tax credit for job-creating investment in machinery and equipment by Ontario companies.
- Nursing home and home care services to be included in the province's health insurance program starting April 1, with a fee of $3.50 per day for those who can afford to pay.
- Provision of $73 million in increased property tax relief to give Ontarians more spending income, including an increase in provincial support to school-boards of 55% from 51%.
- A revised system of unconditional grants to municipalities to be introduced next year, at an estimated additional cost of $16 million annually.
- Corporations may deduct interest on money borrowed to purchase shares in other companies in order to reduce the tax disadvantage in bidding against American firms.
- A 5% guideline on wage increases for civil servants, with staff reductions in four departments.
- A further $45 million for increased subsidies and lending programs to encourage house construction and associated employment.
- Fishing licences no longer will be required.
- Additional staff for hospitals for mentally retarded children at an added cost of $20 million.
- Further large cuts in successions duties, with exemptions for widows and widowers raised for $250,000 from $125,000, free estates increased to $100,000 from $50,000 and surtaxes eliminated for preferred beneficiaries such as children and grandchildren.

Extension of the monthly comfort allowance for needy residents in chronic hospitals, nursing homes and homes for the aged and retarded will cover approximately 18,000 persons. The allowance will be increased from $15 to $25 per month.

Social and Family Services Minister Tom Wells says his department will also subsidize any additional funds needed by a home for the aged for the care of residents receiving the federal government's guaranteed income supplement. In addition it will pay for dental services, dentures, artificial limbs, glasses and clothing of needy persons in chronic hospitals.

Complaints In King Re Wrecked Cars Will Receive Study By Town Council

Just when does a person become classified as a wrecker or salvager of old cars? King Town Mayor Ken Mactaggart states that you're a wrecker or salvager of old cars "just as soon as you take a wheel or a door off a car."

He was commenting on a report by Councillor Jack Van Luyk of numerous complaints of residences being used as sites for wrecking and salvaging cars on the third concession.

Mr. Van Luyk termed the usages as "eyesores" and added that police efforts to combat such "usages have, in my humble opinion, been to no avail.

"When the police advise these residents to clean up their cars they just place them out of sight for awhile and then within three months the same situation occurs again."

Mayor Mactaggart said the municipality has a bylaw which forbids the storing of any junk or wrecked cars in view of the general public and figures it is just a matter of enforcing it.

He said such operations should be within an enclosed building and hidden from view by a fence.

Mr. Van Luyk still worried about just "what constitutes a wrecker or salvager. Someone may be just fixing his own car."

Mr. Mactaggart said "we already have the authority to handle the situation now."

Councillor Murray Sheardown suggested council should contact the Department of Transport and request "guidelines on just what constitutes a wreck."

"Storage and wrecking operators have to have a licence from the province as well as the municipality."

Council decided to look further into the matter.

King City, Hamilton Youths Had Car Stolen From Girl's Mother

King City and Hamilton youths in Richmond Hill Provincial Court last Thursday admitted having possession of a car stolen from a girl friend's mother.

Gerald Eaton, 19, of 113 Dew Street and George Nossi, 17, of Hamilton were each sentenced to nine months jail definite and 12 months indefinite.

Provincial Judge Russell Pearce also ordered that the pair be kept separate and that they serve two months on probation after completing their jail sentences.

Both had criminal records. Eaton, since 1968, had convictions at Richmond Hill, Newmarket and Sault Ste. Marie involving a break-in, wilful damage, stolen property and a weapon. Crown Attorney Frank Hoffman told the court.

The stolen car possession offence took place in Vaughan around midnight Sunday, November 29, and the car belonged to the mother of Nossi's girlfriend. It had been taken from an apartment building parking lot the Crown Attorney said.

Nossi was convicted in 1970 in Hamilton for a break-in and possession, plus possession of stolen property in Sault Ste. Marie in 1971.

Gerald Meachern, a youth from 7 Park Drive, Woodbridge, in local court Thursday admitted being caught having liquor illegally in his car on the Maple Road in Vaughan April 17.

He was accompanied by several other youths, the court was told.

Provincial Judge Pearce warned the youth the offence could mean a maximum fine of $2,000, but fined him $15 or three days in jail.
