Congratulations are extended to Charles Girdler, of the Willows Nursing Home, Yonge Street North, who will be celebrating his 90th birthday July 2 with his family.

Mr. Girdler arrived in Canada in May 1896 from London, England, and went to work for Jeremiah Duck on his farm on Concession 9, Vaughan Township. His wages were $5 per month plus clothes.

From the farm, Mr. Girdler moved to Toronto where he eventually located in the clothing trade and founded the Sovereign Dress Company which was, during World War I, one of the largest producers of ladies dresses in the country.

After a long career in the garment industry, Mr. Girdler retired in 1955.

He has two children, S. F. Girdler of Toronto and Eric Girdler of Richmond Hill and five grandchildren.

Thirty grade 4 pupils from Beverley Acres Public School met after school on Friday at the home of Bobbie Steel on Bayview Avenue North to make a presentation to their teacher, Miss Janet Thomson, whose marriage to Brian Thomas takes place this Saturday at St. Mary's Anglican Church Chapel.

This was a spontaneous gesture by the entire class, who collected the money, bought the gift — two pieces of Blue Mountain Pottery — and proudly made the presentation. It was a great tribute to Miss Thomson, who was delighted with the gift, a tangible reminder of her happy association with the grade 4 class at Beverley Acres.

Miss Pamela A'Court Cheliew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A'Court, received her Honors Bachelor of Arts Degree on June 4 from Trinity College, University of Toronto.

Dr. Hugh Davidson, secretary of the board of stewardship and budget, Presbyterian Church in Canada, will be the guest preacher at the Presbyterian Church for the next two Sundays.

President Gladys McLatchey thanked the delegates for their excellent reports.

At the convention, Robert Keith was given an award for his many years of service to horticulture. But he was unable

TUNA AND CHIP BAKE
1 small bag of potato chips (about 5 oz.)

1/2 cup of condensed cream of chicken soup
3/4 cup milk
2 cans (6 1/2 oz.) light tuna
2 cups frozen peas

Crush potato chips in the bag. Sprinkle about 1/2 cup on the bottom of a greased 2-quart casserole dish.
Mix together the soup and milk. Add tuna, peas and crushed chips, reserving about 1/2 cup for the top.
Gently stir together and spread in the casserole. Sprinkle top with reserved crushed chips. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Garnish with parsley or celery greens and sliced tomatoes. Makes 8 servings.

NOTE: This casserole may be made well ahead of the party and popped into the oven one-half hour before serving time.

Although skies were overcast, members of the Curtain Club were in great form for their annual end-of-season picnic held last Friday at the charming country home of Lyn and Dean Hughes in Unionville.

It was a very colorful gathering with fashions ranging from caftans to hot pants for the girls and a predominance of wild print gypsy shirts and bright pants for the men.

Following excellent picnic fare convened by Dorothy Painter and Roz Anderson, entertainment was provided in the barn by Madge and Ron Scott, Geri and Gordon Diver, Barbara McGuire, Trevor Stanley, Audrey Rowlands and Gerry Crack, who presented four very slick well executed, uproariously funny skits on last season's plays. The audience and actors alike thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and later continued the festivities in the Dean's garden until the early hours of the morning.

Richmond Hill's sign bylaw, which has been in the works since 1955, and has been shelved and dusted off and revised on several occasions, is nearing final approval, it appeared at the June 21 meeting of town council. Council's bylaw committee, chaired by Councillor Stewart Bell, brought in recommendations for several changes in the bylaw, which were approved individually by a majority of council.

Sign manufacturers and associations as well as local businesses and residents and Planning Consultant Max Bacon have had a hand in preparing the bylaw as it stands today.

Preparation of a final draft was authorized by council. The bylaw was given two readings in June 1970, so final third reading is all that remains to implement its regulations.

These will control the size, shape, location and materials of all signs in the municipality, and there will be an installation permit fee.

Regional Councillor Gordon Rowe objected to the complete ban on rooftop signs. "In my area where traffic speeds by at 50 miles per hour I need every sign in every location I can get," he stated. Mr. Rowe manages the Cashway Lumber outlet on Yonge Street North in Oak Ridges.

Councillor Lois Hancey and Mayor William Lazenby took exception to the elimination of Mr. Porter advised that the Help-Mate Clothing Centre, located on Henderson Avenue, Thornhill, is being renovated and providing service in emergency situations.

Emphasis in the coming year will be on involvement of members, not solely the board of directors, in planning the social programs now in the community. The board reconvenes in the fall, but any problems encountered during the summer months should be expressed to individual members.

Social planning thought for this month — there is no emergency shelter or housing in existence in the area yet the community must provide shelter to those in need.

Couples Club Raised $1,900 Family Services

Richmond Hill and Thornhill Family Services, a social service agency dealing with family ills, which is proving most successful, received a helping hand from the Richmond Hill United Church Couples Club, which staged a mammoth auction sale May 8. Proceeds of this event amounted to $1,900 and in the above picture (left to right) Presidents Mr. and Mrs. Ray Armstrong are seen as they turn a cheque in that amount over to President William Dods and Vice-President Dr. Robert Alexander of Family Services.
