LOOKING AROUND

Sincere get well wishes to all those around the Maple area who have been under the weather during the last couple of weeks with sore throats, colds and flu. Having experienced all three, we can sympathize with everyone who has succumbed to these maladies.
Get well wishes also are sent to Mrs. Eva Line who has been in York Central Hospital.

Our apologies for an error in our column last week giving the impression that the $50 Christmas certificate from the Maple Plaza was associated entirely with the Maple IGA. Although the IGA certainly is participating in the lucky draw each week, it is sponsored by several Maple Plaza stores.

The first lucky winner, who received our congratulations last week, was Mrs. Pat Kantaroff.

Winner for the November 27 draw was Tom Carrick of Lancer Drive. His ticket was drawn by Susan McArthur.

This is the last call for local residents to add their gift to the boxes placed in Perry's Pharmacy, European Delicatessen and Yake's Dry Goods for the patients in Ontario mental hospitals. Nothing can give a greater lift to someone who feels alone and forgotten at Christmas than a gift from someone who cares.

We know from past appeals that residents of Maple and area are particularly generous people, and at this time of year, we like to remember those who are less fortunate. The Canadian Mental Health Association distributes these gifts in December and boxes will be picked up this weekend, so that the wrapping and distribution can be done in time for Christmas.

The Maple senior citizens had a busy week, beginning with their mystery trip on November 23 to Dundas to visit the Ben Velduis greenhouse. The specialty there is cactus of every imaginable kind as well as African violets of almost as many varieties.

After more than an hour in the greenhouses, they enjoyed a delicious smorgasbord lunch at the Collins Motor Hotel in Dundas.

From Dundas they headed for Brantford for an afternoon tour of the Johnson's Wax Company plant, which was enjoyed by all. Following the tour through the factory and office, everyone was served coffee, tea and cookies while being given a brief history of the firm.

The visitors were most impressed with the atmosphere of friendliness and concern for the employees, as well as the number of products produced by the one firm.

As our folk left, they were presented with a gift of useful products.
From Johnson's Wax, they made a brief stop at the Mohawk Chapel, also near Brantford, and then headed home for supper at the Howard Johnson's Restaurant on Keele street, south of Finch in Toronto, and arrived home well before 7 pm.
