"Casey" Cripps Gets The Needle

There's more than one way of getting the "needle" when you're Russell "Casey" Cripps of 328 Boisdale Avenue, Richmond Hill, manager of the Manila-bound Richmond Hill Dynes Jeweller softball team, and advertising veteran with "The Liberal". This particular needle, being applied by Dr. Victor Zuck, was the last of a series of shots received by the management and players before they leave late in February for the Philippines and the World Softball Championships. The Jewellers are getting in shape for the tournament by working out in high school gyms and armouries.

Lower Delegates Voting Age To 17

By FRED SIMPSON
Members of the York Simcoe Federal Progressive Conservative Association have agreed to lower the voting age of their delegates from 18 to 17 years. But it took the urging of a veteran politician to turn the tide in favor of youth.

Some 100 members of the association were divided on the subject when William Hodgson York North MLA got to his feet and told them they had better start recognizing the potential of young people in Conservative ranks "because the Liberals certainly recognize them."

The occasion was the annual meeting of the association held Wednesday night of last week at the Bradford Community Centre.

WANTS VOTES AT 16
Hodgson went one step further by suggesting the voting age for convention delegates be 16.

"If you want to get this riding moving... beat the Liberals in the next election... you're going to have to get the young people working for you. The Liberals have youngsters 15, 16, and 17 working for them even though they have no official vote in elections. You know the success they've had."

He went on to urge the association to "recognize your young people even though they aren't able to vote in elections. They have a tremendous contribution to make to the party."

YOUTHFUL ENERGY
"They have the youth and energy to get out and plug for your candidates. If a youngster is interested enough in your association to pay out $2 to become a member it shouldn't matter whether he's 16 or 18. You're association needs him."

The matter arose as members worked on some amendments to the association's constitution.

A section of the audience felt earlier that it wouldn't be fair to a member of the association if he was allowed to vote at 17 and then couldn't register his vote at an election two months from then.

"I think the association would be leaving itself open to a lot of criticism," said one member of the audience.

Another politician Art Evans, Conservative MLA Simcoe Centre, sided with Hodgson.

PRETTY GIRL NOMINATES
"A 17-year-old girl nominated me for the provincial riding the last time," he said. "A very pretty girl it was, too," chimed in a voice from the audience.

That did it. Members voted to lower the age to 17 at the forthcoming leadership convention to be held February 8 in Newmarket.

Another amendment to the constitution to shorten the deadline for being eligible to vote — from 48 hours before the nomination convention to 30 minutes — was defeated.

MEMBERSHIP DEADLINE
It was decided that allowing persons to purchase voting membership tickets 30 minutes before a nomination meeting would be unfair to regular members.

One member of the audience suggested that "anyone could bring busloads in at the last minute and have his candidate win. Then you might not see those people again."

Still others felt that "if someone is interested enough to bring busloads in, it should be allowed."

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT
The annual meeting also saw the re-election of President Sam Nielly of Gilford.

Back again as secretary is Sinclair Stevens of RR 3, King, who is presently the only announced Conservative candidate for York Simcoe in the next federal election. The seat is currently held by Liberal John Roberts.

Other members of the executive are: First Vice - President Ernest Crossland, Newmarket; Second Vice - President Ted Rowe, Oak Ridges; Third Vice - President Ivor Rogers, Lefroy; Fourth Vice - President Don Tedford, King; Adrian Van Luyk of Newmarket is the treasurer.

GUEST SPEAKER
Guest speaker for the night was 27-year-old Radio Station CFGM News Commentator Barrie Bailey of Richmond Hill. Bailey has announced his intentions of being a candidate for North York at the forthcoming nomination meeting. The riding is now held by Liberal Barney Danson.

He replaced regular scheduled speaker Eldon Wooliams, MP, Calgary North, who was grounded by the air passenger strike.

Bailey flailed the Liberal Party in general and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau in particular, terming him a self-styled "messiah who spends most of his time looking down on the average individual. We don't need a star or a messiah," he said.

He said Trudeau "does not deal with people as individuals. He deals with them as numbers. I don't want to be thought of as a number and I don't think you want to be either. It's not unfair, it's not right."

Nielly chaired the meeting. Also in attendance was Elwood Madill, RR 2, Newmarket, who was nominated as the Conservative representative for Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe. He's a former MP.

Barrie Bailey Says He Seeks PC Nomination Here In York North

Radio Station CFGM news commentator Barrie Bailey hopes to be the Conservative nominee for York North in the next federal election. But its not stopping him from giving a party for Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau January 28 in Richmond Hill.

What? It's not what it seems to be. It's not a contradiction. Bailey told an audience of 100 Wednesday night of last week at Bradford that his party for "Pierre is a farewell party."

He was speaking at the annual meeting of the York Simcoe Progressive Conservative Association.

Bailey, who was substituting for scheduled speaker Eldon Wooliams MP Calgary North, said this:

"We're going to invite Mr. Trudeau in honor of the occasion and present him with a gold watch which is traditional when a person is retiring."

"We're going to invite other members of the Liberal Party who also won't be with us after the next election. I mean Mr. Danson and Mr. Roberts." (Barney Danson is the Liberal incumbent for York North federal riding and John Roberts his Liberal counterpart in York Simcoe).

Bailey was selling tickets for the party. He was getting a lot of buyers.
