Plan Traffic Lights At Keele St. Fire Hall

The Region of York will be asked to investigate installation of manually operated traffic lights on Keele Street, directly in front of the Sherwood Fire Hall, to allow fire trucks immediate access to that regional road in an emergency.

This decision was reached by Vaughan Town Council at its meeting on February 21.

It was reported that there would be two lights, one controlling northbound and one controlling southbound traffic. They would be activated by a button within the fire hall as soon as the fire call is received. Ever increasing traffic volume on Keele Street is causing difficulty and loss of time in the trucks gaining access, it is claimed.

Councillor Robert Kirk quoted Fire Chief James Davidson as saying that in rush hours it is almost impossible for the fire trucks to get out onto Keele Street. "The cars will stop but the trucks go barreling through," added Regional Councillor John Gilbert, who was presiding over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Garnet Williams.

Ratepayers Hit Vaughan Council 'Speculator Put Before Planning'

By MARY DAWSON

Sylvadene Ratepayers' Association members are still unhappy with the plans for the neighboring Vroom plan of subdivision in the Woodbridge area of the Town of Vaughan, it was evident at the February 21 meeting of council.

A letter from the ratepayers, signed by Eugene Jacobs, Anthony Liut and Lyle Greenlaw, charged council was "succumbing to the pressure of a particular speculator" and that it is "more concerned with expediting the approval of an isolated parcel than with guiding the area which currently contains sensible development of an earlier planning of which the community can be proud."

Liut and Greenlaw were present at the meeting to continue the argument with council. Liut appeared to be primarily concerned with objecting to a proposed commercial development on 2.4 acres fronting on Highway 7. On February 8, Vaughan Planning Committee heard representation from the ratepayers as well as from Developer Fred Eisen and Consultant Fred Schaeffer concerning the development.

At that time the ratepayers felt the proposed lots were too small, the commercial area would take away from the commercial core of old Woodbridge and would become a hangout for teenagers. They felt increased traffic would be a nuisance to existing residents.

As a result, the committee agreed the commercial block should be designated "future development," not to be rezoned at the time of plan approval and to develop commercially only when need is shown and, in any event, not until the end of 1974.

Greenlaw stressed the fact that his association felt there was a lack of good planning, when only the one parcel of land is being considered, without consideration of other vacant parcels of land to the east and north. Councillor David Fraser pointed out that the plan agrees with the township tertiary plan which sets population densities.

The Vroom development is located along the westerly boundary of the existing Sylvadene Subdivision in Lots 6 and 7, Concession 7, and provides large lots backing on to the Sylvadene lots, according to the developer.

The closest home would be 325 feet distant and the average separation would be 400 feet, with the new lots averaging 16,000 square feet. The subdivision is planned for a population of 92, in about 92 single family homes and 160 townhouse units.

Developer Eisen described his plan as "part of a composite concept developed by your committee. In essence it is infilling between two developed areas. Our plan complies with the road patterns, etc., as required and I submit our proposal meets all qualities of good planning. It meets with the requirements of your planning committee and of your staff."

"It comes down to a problem of planning," said Councillor Fraser. "Are we planning only for those people there now or for those people who will be there if this plan is approved? If the core of Woodbridge doesn't revitalize (as we hope it will) we may need this commercial development in the future and it will be possible to go ahead if the need is shown. In the meantime, the zoning will not be changed and we will have control of it."

"We can't plan for today, period," said Councillor Robert Kirk. "I think the matter has been handled by the committee in an equitable manner. We can't guarantee that this holding category will last forever, but the committee is continuing to study road patterns to rectify any excessive flow of traffic."

Council accepted the proposed Vroom plan and authorized completion of the required questionnaire from the Department of Municipal Affairs.

Very little news — snow — snow! Everything in our community drifted to a stop during the early hours of Sunday morning due to the very high winds and drifting snow. Church services were cancelled. New Car In Storm Toll Loader 'Unsnows' Auto

The unusually high winds and heavy drifting snow of the past week took a heavy toll according to YRP and OPP, as roads equipment and men were strained to the limit trying to keep highways and streets open. Police were continually on the run, mostly answering calls to minor accidents.

One head-on crash in the storm totally wrecked a brand new car. In another incident snow removal equipment was blamed for damaging a car buried out of sight in eight feet of snow.

The head-on crash was on 17th Avenue at Woodbine (formerly Don Mills Road) on Saturday of last week at 4:40 pm. A 1972 Maverick car driven by Melvin Simmons, 21, of DeMaime Crescent, Richmond Hill apparently was eastbound when it went out of control on ice and slid backwards, hitting the front end of a car driven by John Leggat, 31, of 15 Thornhill Avenue, Thornhill, according to YRP.

The Maverick was considered a $3,500 total wreck while damaged to the Thornhill car was estimated at $800, police said. Richmond Hill driver Simmons was slightly injured but wasn't hospitalized.

A front-end snow loader operated by Larry McKay, 27, of 398 Crosby Avenue, Richmond Hill, about noon February 21 was digging into an eight-foot snowdrift on the Jefferson Sideroad when it came upon a buried abandoned car owned by Paul Richards of 441 North Taylor Mills Drive, Richmond Hill. There was $500 damage to the car, police estimated.

Impaired driving and breathalyzer test failure charges, plus minor injuries for two people, were the result of a 4:51 pm February 13 rear-end crash at Bayview Avenue and Highway 7 East.

With an estimated $300 damage to the front end of his vehicle and impairment charges was Reimer Mohring, 55, of 98 Donegall Drive, Toronto, according to YRP.

bed with back and neck injuries, she is recovering from whiplash. Her car had about $800 damage to the rear end.

A Maple driver, Patrick Grist, 17, of 11 Railway Street, had about $800 damage to his vehicle at 3:05 pm February 19 in a collision at Major Mackenzie Drive and Bathurst Street.

The driver of the other car, Fred Jelfs, 39, of 4750 Bathurst Street, Apartment 112, Willowdale, had damage estimated at $250, according to Richmond Hill Detachment YRP.

11 Months In Arrears

Vaughan Town Gives $3,300 Away Free

David Rosenberg Investments Limited on February 25, 1969, purchased from the Township of Vaughan 5,158 acres of land on which to construct an industrial building. By the terms of the agreement a building having a floor area of not less than 30,000 square feet was to have been erected by July 31, 1970.

By that time the building had not been constructed and further negotiations resulted in an agreement that David Rosenberg Investments would pay the township $300 a month until the building was completed and placed on the assessment roll. This was to be in lieu of the taxes which would have been levied on the building.

By December 1, 1971, the building was partially assessed and on February 1, 1972, it was fully assessed. It is four times the size the company committed itself to build. This will result in a tax yield to the town of approximately $5,000 a year more than if the structure had been of the original size.

However, the monthly payment of $300 was 11 months in arrears (January to November 1971). Council decided at its January 21 meeting to cancel the outstanding $3,300 because of the additional revenue the town will be receiving because of the increased size of the building.

The industrial land lies at the northwest corner of the cul-de-sac on Snidercroft Road, south of Maple. Principals of David Rosenberg Investments are Edward Goldberg and Joseph Frieberg.
