Neighborhood Notes

Last week all roads led to Markham—the old town that is—for its 100th birthday celebrations, and Buttonvillians did their part.

Thursday night at the variety show at Markham District High School, Isabel Hood and Jean Tribbling were among the lady harbershoppers, "The Melody Makers."

Saturday there were a number of localities in the centennial parade. The officer in the lead police car was Deputy-Chief Robert A. Hood of York Regional Police, who lives here.

Parading for Resor's Mar-mill were Sharon and Jerry Resor with their mother Dorothy.

There was Charles Hooper Senior, driving the tractor for the Eastern Star float and his daughter Mary (Mrs. Howard Brumwell) was one of the Eastern Star members aboard the float.

There was the John Brumwell family proudly riding in their antique car, with costumes to match.

There were Town of Markham Council, handsome in their cutaway coats and top hats. And there was Mrs. Elsie Roman, wife of Markham's mayor riding in the ancient Unionville Fire Brigade truck with Chief Myrl Smith.

And then, of course, there was Bobby Gimby, and the bands and majorettes, the horses and the color guard, the 48th Highlanders, one of whom had a long haircut. Then came the bugle and drum corps from Brampton and Bobcaygeon and children singing and dancing. It was a great parade.

Donald Edward Carson, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carson who arrived June 20, made his first sally into the world July 2, when he visited his Carson grandparents at Claremont with his parents and older sister and brother.

Congratulations to Regina Allen who passed her grade 2 music theory exam with honors.

Charles Turner is home again permanently after spending the winter months at Niagara-on-the-lake where he took an audio-visual course.

Friends extend sympathy to Mrs. Jack Gough whose sister died in England last week.

Guests at the Hallett home last weekend were Rev. Allen Hallett's aunt and uncle, the Gormans of Smith Falls, and Mrs. Hallett's sister from the Maritimes.

The Halletts will be on vacation during August, and during that time other ministers have been engaged to conduct services at Brown's Corners United Church.

Sunday, August 6, Rev. Bradley Crupton will be in the pulpit; on August 13 Dr. Douglas Conlon, a full time worker with the Toronto Home Missions Council, will preach; and for two Sundays, August 20 and 27, Rev. David Wilkinson, formerly of Wilson Height United Church and now employed by Manpower, will be the guest.

Mrs. Bert Craigie who underwent surgery at Branson Hospital recently returned home last weekend. We wish her a rapid recovery.
