"Senior Power" Active In York Plan Ways And Means Of Helping

"Senior Power" has moved into the Region of York. Established recently in Newmarket was the York Region Senior Citizens Conference, an association dedicated to improving conditions and services for the over-65 group.

The group was formed as a result of a conference on the "Quality Of Life For Senior Citizens" held last April in Aurora and sponsored by the York Region 3C Council.

The new name was proposed by William Coleman of Aurora, and adopted by the rest of the meeting, which was chaired by Richard Edmunds of Richmond Hill.

Florence Murray of Aurora, chairman of the 3C committee, said the council would lend support when needed and that she was "extremely pleased" to have been in on the beginning of "senior power" in York Region.

Senior adults in all York areas are "making things happen" she said. Two other committee members, Helen Markham and Ted Martin, attended the meeting with her.

From the "Quality Of Life" Conference, delegates returned to their own areas in the region to plan ways and means to implement their goals which had been decided upon at the conference. For instance, representatives from two Aurora groups, Trinity Golden Age (Mrs. G. McConnell) and Friendship Circle (Berneice Charles), are planning organized friendly visiting for those who cannot attend outings. Mrs. McConnell has also developed one service of great benefit—a chiropodist visits Trinity Church once a month to treat minor foot problems—for a $1 fee and the presentation of an OHIP Card.

Meals On Wheels is now operating in Aurora, Newmarket, Markham, Richmond Hill, Thornhill, Oak Ridges, King and Sutton. The meals are prepared at York Manor for the central area and in Sutton at River Glen Haven Nursing Home. In Thornhill-Richmond Hill area, meals are prepared at Don Head Secondary School and are suspended in the summer, to resume in September. For information in this area phone Mrs. Valerie McKittrick, 884-4270, or Mrs. Fran Wachna, 884-1731.

In Markham Mrs. Ruth Marshall is heading a group aimed at establishing an information service. They have had excellent co-operation from Richmond Hill Library (Joan Fairfield), have visited Scarborough Information Services at the library there, and Ontario Institute For Studies in Education. They anticipate a part-time paid director of information, volunteers to handle fund raising and training, and locating a space for storage of literature and pamphlets.

Mr. Heidi Vockeroth of Thornhill reports that transportation seems to be the number one problem there, and assistance with a survey on this is contemplated. Mr. Edmunds reported that in Richmond Hill, recreational needs were being well met, but that there were so many other things that needed doing. He hopes to get a list of all seniors in the town and seeks consultation and assistance from local council. He reported that the local bus now runs along Dufferin Street and to the senior citizen apartment building. Mr. Edmunds strongly recommends that seniors use their own talents and should be making a contribution to better their own style of living—one specific suggestion was that advisory board for Meals On Wheels should have senior citizens as members. Helen Coleman told the meeting that in King, an information service has been started in a small way, using the facilities of a nursing home near Woodbridge.

In the Sutton area, an energetic group is meeting under the direction of Patricia Kin-sella; this group introduced office her husband created on the ground level of their gracious home — Heather finished her book and mailed it to the publishing house.

It was almost an immediate success — with Heather doing her own "proof-reading". (An envious thing for any writer).

A member of the Curtain Club of Richmond Hill, Heather has a very cool presence in the light of her entrance into the "literary world" of writers and refers to her book, very quietly, as "A small thing in the world of writing".

Possibly this is partly because Heather was born in England, partly because of her background as a teacher — attending Teachers' College as a scholarship winner. She also worked as a physics researcher before coming to Canada. Here she became secretary to the vice-president of Falconbridge Nickle Mines.

But it was not until after her marriage to Walter Smithurst that Heather began her writing career.

"Dark Is My Destiny" is a romance-mystery type novel, and is unusually well written. We look forward to Heather Smith Hurst's next novel, for which the locale will be Cornwall, set in the historical atmosphere of 1830.

But DIMD is modern — except for the 400 year old mystery amid the setting of All Hallows' House, in Wales.
