Community Life In King City Area

Norman H. Matthews Study Centre Closes

Sheldon Clark, chairman of the board of management of Strangewood, the study centre operated by The Religious Society of Friends (Quakers), has announced the centre will be closed after one year of operation. The society was using the woodland part of the farm owned by Dorothy Henderson on Concession 6 since May of 1971, and tried a variety of programs until this summer. It was decided at the yearly meeting held in August 1971 to run the study centre for a one-year trial period as a place "where our spiritual growth and vitality can be enriched," it was stated. Friends of the society came from as far away as 250 miles to spend weekends at this King Township Quaker centre. In his closing announcement, Clark said "The board has taken this closing action, recognizing that an experiment has been tried, that Friends have felt a sense of renewal, that ideas for new growth in the society have been raised, that people have been strengthened in their individual outreach by the existence of the centre."

No definite plans were disclosed for future activities by Friends of the Society, but Clark expressed the hope that the yearly meeting, 1972 "will explore ways in which our spiritual growth and vitality can be enriched further."

Church News

Fr. Frederick Brossler, O.S.A., newly appointed priest at Sacred Heart Church, reminds his parishioners that daily mass is held at 8 am Monday to Friday. The ladies of the CWL play bingo every week at King Lodge and would appreciate any donations of ladies beads or costume jewelry, even in need of repair, which could be used as prizes. Persons with something in this line can contact Dorothy Cheyne at 727-3419.

A reminder to Anglican and United Church members alike that services this month are being held jointly at All Saint's Anglican on Keele Street at 10 am. Coffee is served afterwards on the church grounds, giving each person a chance to chat with neighbors.

Book Review

"Ethics in a Permissive Society"; author William Barclay, published by William Collins Sons and Company Limited, St. James Place, London, England, 1971.

A professor of divinity and biblical criticism in Glasgow University, Barclay's book is based on his TV series of lectures called "Jesus Today". He explores the various ways in which Christians can accept the existence of and deal with the problems of the modern world such as sexual permissiveness, drug taking and alcoholism. The opening chapter is called "The Cradle of the Christian Ethic" and states that "ethics is the science of behavior". The author separates theology from ethics and feels that the loss of theology in a society (although not good) is not as serious as a loss of Christian ethics. The basics of Christianity are explained with quotations from the Testaments in the first three chapters, and then the book goes into the problems of today.

An interesting book of 222 pages it is only marred by a lack of any overall moralistic viewpoint with clear cut evaluation of the "sins" of our age. In my opinion, the author's points would have made more of an impact or provide a better guide to Christian living if actual case histories or examples had been used instead of quotations from the Bible, Martin Luther King, Reinhold Niebuhr, and others. The book joined the King library on July 12 1972 under reference 248.4-BAR.

Dining Out

What with summer time barbecues and outdoor picnics, we've ignored our "dining out" portion of the column for some time now. However, with a family of six, we are always looking for places where our gourmet tastes (what ever they be) can be satisfied for the least financial outlay. A new restaurant only 10 minutes away from King certainly has been added to our list of recommended places; namely, the "Ponderosa" on Keele Street just south of Finch Avenue.

Although the self-serve cafeteria type of arrangement gave us some concern on entering the establishment, the low prices and numerous cowgirls dressed in yellow and brown outfits who were only too eager to carry out trays to a table of our choosing, changed our minds pleasantly. I won't go into the various prices or the menu selection, but will say that each of us had a steak dinner to suit our taste and appetite, complete with desserts and drinks for a total bill of just over $11.00. I had a sirloin steak with mushroom sauce, baked potato and salad for $2.56 and it was delicious. No reservations in our recommendation of the Ponderosa and no reservations required for seating.

Donna's Bits and Pieces

Happy birthday to Valerie Pierpoint, daughter of Geoffrey and Pat Pierpoint. Valerie will be 13 years old on August 15. Lisa Lariviere, age 4, had a nasty fall from a stone wall on Keele Street resulting in a broken arm, and now has her right arm in a cast and sling.

Reminder! Progressive Conservative Beef and Oyster Party on September 9. Details in local store windows.

Heather Ann MacDonald, daughter of Brian and Sandy, entertained her friends at a birthday party on August 3. It was her third birthday. After opening her gifts and blowing out her candles, cupcakes, ice cream, and chocolate milk were served while the mothers enjoyed a cup of tea. Musical chairs, ring-a-rosy, and farmer-in-the-dell helped overcome the children's initial shyness and fun was had by all.

Mrs. Evelyn Sorrell, well-known resident of King for the past 18 years is leaving Canada for Sussex, England, August 19. Mrs. Sorrell has had a new home built for her there. Until August 19 Mrs. Sorrell is staying with Harry and Dawn Ballard on Heritage Cres.

Reminder! Meeting of the King City Community Centre Co-ordinating Committee at the King City Fire Hall on Wednesday, August 16 at 8 pm. Purpose: "A" to review proposed fund raising program of group or groups, and "B" to establish participation in Grand Opening.

Sympathy is extended to George Milligan on the death of his father Thomas McGee Milligan July 30 at Newmarket and to Katherine (Mrs. Gordon) Higgs and William Bryson on the death of their father Elmer July 30 at Pinegrove Nursing Home.

Lenneville No-Hitter

Oak Ridges Bantams Win Another Tourney

John Lenneville won three straight games and tossed a no-hitter into the bargain on the weekend as the Oak Ridges Bantams won the Parry Sound Softball Tournament.

Lenneville pitched all three games as Oak Ridges won its second straight tournament. They had won the Ayr tournament a week previously.

Lenneville's no-hitter was a 4-0 winner against Huntsville which saw him strikeout 13 batters in the seven inning game. He was aided by some sharp fielding by his teammates in the infield. Not one ball got out of the infield.

Oak Ridges won the championship game by 6-4 over Parry Sound in the rain. Lenneville was again the winning hurler. He struck out 13 batters in seven innings.

Runs batted in went to Dale Roffey, Paul Smith, Lenneville, Larry Greenslade, Tom Dukelow and Dennis Griffiths.

Oak Ridges opened the tournament with a 4-3 win over Toronto Westend with Lenneville picking up the win. He managed 10 strikeouts.

Greenslade was credited with two RBI's with Lenneville and Dukelow getting the others.

The second game was the no-hitter against Huntsville. Lenneville aided his own cause in this one as he drove in two runs with the others going to Roffey, Dukelow, Paul Smith and Rick Griffiths.

Opponents Get Say Aug. 21 Proposed Power Lane Essential Says Head

The demand for electricity that Ontario Hydro will be called on to meet is expected to reach more than 20 million kilowatts by 1979, Hydro Chairman George Gathercole said last week.

Gathercole was appearing before a provincial inquiry into the proposed 140-mile power corridor that will run from Nanticoke to Pickering through York Region.

He said that last year the primary peak demand for hydro power was just under 12 million kilowatts. This was expected to rise to 13 million by December, and to 14 million a year later.

Ontario could expect "very grave" power shortages if the corridor isn't built, Gathercole said. The inquiry is being chaired by Dr. Omond Solandt, former chairman of the Science Council of Canada, to study the route of the 610-foot-wide corridor that as proposed will cut through King Township and Whitchurch-Stouffville, its effects on the environment and the methods of building the line.

A 5,000-signature petition was presented to the provincial government by various citizen groups, calling for a review of the route and asking that power lines be buried. Hydro officials have since said the latter would be technically difficult and too expensive. Gathercole said Ontario Hydro recognized that the towers, which would reach a height of 120 feet and would be 1,000 feet apart, would be an "artificial intrusion" on the surrounding area. But whereas all trees had to be removed before, 50 to 60 percent of forest cover is now allowed to remain along power line routes.

He said that, for every tree cut, Hydro pledged to plant one.

if the electric power needs of the people of this province are to be met in the years ahead, this corridor is required," Gathercole said.

The hearings will resume August 21 when opponents of the route will get their chance to be heard.
