Curtain Club Garden Party Gives New Theatre Boost

By JIM IRVING
 Richmond Hill Curtain Club added a couple of more doors and a few more windows to its new theatre last week when it held a garden party at the home of Bridget and Daniel Douglas-Crampton of the Town of Vaughan.
 More than 500 people attended and contributed some $1,000 to the affair, which included several names from the entertainment world, as well as a sparkling sun in the afternoon and even part of an orange moon at night.
 The party was the first of several fund-raising ventures planned by The Curtain Club to meet the costs of its new $42,000 theatre at Elgin Mills East and Newkirk Roads, which is scheduled to open December 1 with East Lynne, "the daddy of all old-fashioned melodramas."
 Planned for the future is an old-costume sale, which is hoped to add a few more dollars toward the cost of the theatre.
 Except for the site, which was donated by the town, the theatre is being built from funds raised entirely by its members.
 The latter are also going to construct the interior of the new building themselves, the same as they did with the old theatre 16 years ago.
 Building the new theatre, which will seat 125, was prompted by the fact that the club has been sold out every year since its inception. The theatre will feature a new sound system, improved facilities for patrons and performers, as well as a parking lot.
 Classes will also be held in acting, directing and stage management in conjunction with the Central Ontario Drama League.
 The lobby of the theatre will feature a running show of new art work.
 Saturday's party started early and finished late, with a steady stream of people coming in and out, their cars at one point lining up both sides of Elgin Mills Road for practically the complete length between Dufferin and Bathurst Streets.
 CBC-TV Producer Norman Campbell, active in television in both Canada and the United States, was among the celebrities in attendance, as was CBC colleague Andrew Allen.
 Kay Turner, hostess of CTV's Pig and Whistle show was there with her daughter Susan; and Alan Raeburn, CODL award-winning director of the East Side Players production of Delicate Balance, was also on hand.
 Political figures included Barney Danson MP, York North and Mrs. Danson, and Richmond Hill Mayor William Lazenby and his wife and daughters, and Councillor Shaun and Mrs. Beggs.
 Besides meeting and mingling with others, guests were able to have their pictures sketched by caricaturist Ents Vomm, dance with Dime-A-Dance girls Judy Bunker, Judy Swift and Brenda Shearing in the afternoon, and Dime-A-Dance boys Brian Moore, Paul Sutton and Ron Scott in the evening.
 View and purchase paintings and sculptures by local artists, sample some of the home-baked goods provided by members and friends, and carry off some of the first-rate bargains from the various white elephant sales. The latter two were the most successful of the mini-fund-raising ventures on the grounds.
 They also had a chance to win one of 35 prizes donated by area merchants, which were raffled off every half hour, or whenever there was a momentary lull in the proceedings.
 Longtime member, Gerry Crack was the dispenser of this largesse, as well as emcee for the entire affair.
 Later in the evening, just before the dancing began in earnest, a fashion show, featuring costumes worn by members in club productions throughout the years, was held around the swimming pool, with the guests sitting on the grassed banks of the amphitheatre-like setting, while spotlights followed the path of the models around the rim of the pool, as well as the subsequent course of one playful fan right into the pool, where he had been dispatched by an equally playful model.
 Music was provided by "Olivus," the smooth and talented trio from Richmond Hill, who also donated their services. The members are Mark and Miles Crawford and Steve Sexton.
 Mrs. Madge Scott and Mrs. Gerry Diver chaired the event.

Had an unsuspecting outsider chanced to stroll the halls of RHHS Friday, he would probably have experienced deep shock and amazement at the overwhelming number of young transvestites residing therein. And later, after observing these same souls waddling in a straight line under the strict guidance of an older student, he might seriously begin to doubt his senses. But eventually, following closer scrutiny, he would find that what he had mistaken for an asylum was merely a normal high school conducting its annual Initiation Day procedures.
 This year's grade 9 boys were instructed to wear curlers, a skirt, lipstick preferably scarlet in tone, earrings, a purse, one cowboy boot, and a sign indicating, "I am a lowly grade 9."
 The girls donned bathing caps, sunglasses, nighties, scarlet lipstick, a sign clarifying front and back, and of course the inevitable "I am a lowly grade 9."
 All were compelled to memorize and dutifully repeat under grade 13 command, the grade 9 pledge, which reads "On my honor I promise to look up to the magnificent grade 13's and continually look upon myself as inferior."
 Some of the duties I personally observed, although doubtless there were countless others, involved rolling an egg (hard boiled?) down the hall by means of pushing it with the nose, singing "Jingle Bells", cleaning unspeakably dirty grade 13 running shoes, and standing on a cafeteria table either singing, dancing, or reciting.
 All this is performed between classes, or more probably, during lunch, and any grade 9 who dares to defy his elder's rule must pay for this insubordination in the Kangaroo Court, which makes up part of the programme for the 9-13 Dance.
 This year's offenders were called onto the stage by MC Mark Hiscox. Here a group of five grade 13 'executioners', armed with axes and wearing black hoods, delivered the sentences.
 A few culprits were instructed to dip their hands into a bowl of macaroni which they were led to believe was a collection of worms from the biology dept. Others were tied together and left struggling to loosen themselves.
 At another point later on, three grade 13 'greasers' known as the 'Muskteaters' arrived on the scene. One, Peter Evans, was, as a result of his friends' (Ross Cameron and Steve Cook) devices, called on stage where he stood while the audience sang 'happy birthday' to him.
 If all the dressing up and embarrassment sounds a little extreme, almost cruel, it is balanced by the fact that it's taken very lightly.
 I took the liberty of asking some grade 9's whether or not they objected to such an ordeal, and their answers were invariably the same: "Well, it's embarrassing, but its fun."
 Earlier in the week an assembly was held in which representatives from the various school-sponsored clubs introduced and outlined their club's activities.
 The speakers were without exception, amusing and persuasive, and deserve congratulations just for having the nerve to address an auditorium full of people. The list of student-sponsored clubs available to the students includes the outdoor club, athletic council, cycling club, science club, drama club, library club, orienteering, history club, and last but not least the chess club.

Drivers Arrested, One Was Wanted

One of several drivers stopped and arrested in Richmond Hill last week was one who was found to have three committal warrants for a total of $325 against him in Metro.
 William Hunt, 29, of 60 Laverock Avenue, Apartment 311, Richmond Hill was charged by York Region Police with impaired driving and failing a breathalyzer test. Then he was turned over to Metro Police.
 Hunt was stopped for erratic driving on Church Street at 6:40 pm Thursday.
 Another vehicle seen swaying on Church Street was followed by YRP to Lorne Avenue at 11:15 pm Sunday of last week and Otto Mitchell, 55, of 53-A Yonge Street South, Richmond Hill was arrested.
BREATHALYZER TEST
 He was charged with impaired driving and later with failing a breathalyzer test.
 A car seen being driven erratically on Dufferin Lane at 12:30 am Tuesday of last week was stopped by YRP.
IMPAIRED DRIVING
 Aldo Buffon, 35, of 160 Essex Avenue, Apartment 412, Richmond Hill was charged with impaired driving and failing a breathalyzer test.

DANGEROUS DRIVING
 Arrested for dangerous driving was George Czar, 23, of 42 Elgin Mills Road, Richmond Hill.
 Another car was stopped for alleged erratic driving on Yonge Street in Richmond Hill at 12:30 am Thursday of last week.
REFUSES BREATH TEST
 Russell Bursay, 233, of 254 Axminster Drive, Richmond Hill was charged with impaired driving and refusing a breathalyzer test.

King Campus Course Designed For Women

"Life Style 72" is the name of the 1972 course for women being offered at Seneca College King Campus. Mrs. Ruth Urquhart of King (formerly of Richmond Hill) is moderator of the program.
 This program is designed to assist women of all ages and backgrounds to gain knowledge, confidence and awareness of themselves in the world around them. It also gives the participants information on the services available to them regarding education, re-education, employment opportunities and community services.
 Speakers have been engaged who are very active in their particular life style and specialists on the Seneca staff will be invited to give leadership. The only qualification for a woman who wishes to register in this course is that she has been a homemaker, and now has time to look for new interests.
 The course runs every Wednesday morning from 9:15 to 11:45 am starting October 4. It will run for 10 weeks and the fee is $25.
 For further information call 884-9901.

Thief Likes Omelettes

Local thieves seem to like old Buicks, king-size omelettes, color television and recorded music. Or so the thefts reported to York Region Police would indicate.
 About $125 worth of eggs in 18 large cases were stolen from the farm of Richard Preston, Lot 13 Concession 4, RR 1, Gormley September 10-11.
$800 COLOR TV
 A Colonial style Zenith color television set valued at $800 was stolen from the Walker residence, 28 Elgin Mills Road, Richmond Hill during broad daylight on the afternoon of September 14. Means of entry wasn't immediately determined, police said.
 At Clearview Motors, 225 Keele Street South, King City on Saturday evening of last week there was a break-in. From a cash register $245 in cash was taken. Keys for a 1965 Buick car were removed and the car stolen from the car lot.
 In Thornhill at an underground apartment garage, 190 Dudley Avenue, three cars were broken into. About $250 worth of property was stolen, mostly tape player equipment and some clothing.
CAR OWNERS
 The cars belonged to George Rachkovsky of Apartment 501, Jack Goren of Apartment 303 and Brian Near of Apartment 219, according to York Region Police.

UCW "Banner Day" Next Tuesday

Banners which are symbolic of the group's place in the community will be displayed at St. Matthew's United Church, 333 Crosby Avenue, Richmond Hill, by all York Presbyterian United Church Women September 26. The large gathering of women from all over York Region will be called "Banner Day", with each organization's banner being described briefly.
 Theme for the day will be "LISTEN — We Are Alive — Well and HERE!" and theme speaker will be the church's super salesman, Bob Plant. An added feature of the day will be a presentation by St. Matthew's Players. Richmond Hill UCW members will present the worship service.
 The day's program starts at 9:30 am and those attending are asked to bring a sandwich for lunch. Dessert and beverages will be provided.
 The theme for the day is also the theme for "Church Week" October 15-21; and the program is designed as a prelude to that event.

3 Die, Kleinburg Girl On Hay Ride

Three persons died due to accidents here in Southern York Region during the past week.
 Sandra Love, 10, of Highway 27, Kleinburg, was dead on arrival at York Finch Hospital after she fell off a wagon during a hay ride at about 10 pm Saturday.
 York Region Police said she suffered head and internal injuries in the fall. There were about 20 people on the hay ride being held at the Love residence.
 The girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Love, York Region Police Constable John Hope is the investigating officer. A local coroner will be appointed by the provincial coroner's office.
 Just about an hour after the Mendicino accident, a man fell downstairs at a Markham tavern and died of injuries about two hours later in Centenary Hospital, Scarborough.
 Dead is Frederick Roper, 65, of 27 Sherwood Forest Drive, Markham. The accident was at the Golden Lamb Tavern, 103 Wellington Street West, according to YRP.

UCW "Banner Day" Next Tuesday

Banners which are symbolic of the group's place in the community will be displayed at St. Matthew's United Church, 333 Crosby Avenue, Richmond Hill, by all York Presbyterian United Church Women September 26. The large gathering of women from all over York Region will be called "Banner Day", with each organization's banner being described briefly.
 Theme for the day will be "LISTEN — We Are Alive — Well and HERE!" and theme speaker will be the church's super salesman, Bob Plant. An added feature of the day will be a presentation by St. Matthew's Players. Richmond Hill UCW members will present the worship service.
