

Markham Members Muldrew, Adams Rap Royal Orchard Auto Bottleneck

There was a sharp exchange over a Thornhill traffic bottleneck at Royal Orchard Boulevard and Bayview Avenue during a recent meeting of Markham Town Council.

Thornhill Councillors Roy Muldrew and Robert Adams introduced a motion asking for a policeman to direct traffic at that intersection at times of peak traffic.

Adams and Muldrew noted it has become almost impossible to enter or leave Royal Orchard at the Bayview end in the morning and evening. The new traffic light at John Street and Bayview Avenue relieved the problem there but it just moved on to Royal Orchard, they said.

"We're very surprised York Region isn't doing something faster," they said.

Mayor Anthony Roman, chairman of the region council's engineering committee, obviously felt the criticism was directed in his direction.

"The problem is the availability of federal funds for a railway-road separation near Royal Orchard," he replied.

This wasn't enough for Thornhill Councillor Muldrew and he continued his arguments calling for action.

"I've done everything possible to have that grade separation constructed. I can only do so much. If anybody thinks they can do more, let them go ahead," retorted Mayor Roman, pointing out that surveys, plans and estimates had to be prepared and processed for a complicated railway crossing separation and widening of Bayview Avenue to four lanes. The regional engineer had to have time to prepare a complete report, he said, adding that the present Royal Orchard entrance is improperly built in an unauthorized location.

"We want you, as our regional representatives, to put some real pressure on up there and not wait," said Muldrew, putting on the spot the mayor and the two Markham regional councillors, Harold Lawrie and Jim Jongeneel.

"I don't want to put on so much pressure that we'll get back a negative report," said the mayor.

"When we ask for a report here in Markham we get it. It shouldn't be any different at the region. We (in Markham) pay 30% of the region's taxes yet we get only 12% of the region's roads budget this year. I've got figures to prove that," said Muldrew. He promised he would attend the next regional council meeting in Newmarket to see if Markham's representatives did anything about the Royal Orchard Boulevard traffic problem.

No Fines For Overdue Books In NY This Week

The North York Library has issued a plea, "Sinners—the library forgives you. Please come home and bring your overdue books with you!"

They have declared a forgiveness week, beginning Monday, for borrowers with overdue books from libraries and bookmobiles in the boroughs of North York, Scarborough and York.

During that week, patrons are assured that there will be no fines, recriminations nor embarrassment about returning books, records, films and other materials that are overdue.

A press release from the library urges householders to take a last look around for library materials before closing summer cottages for the season.

Children in particular are apt to be remiss in returning books promptly, so search dens, recreation rooms, storage cupboards, book shelves and, especially, children's bedrooms.

"Remember," says the news release, "if you drop the books, we will drop the charges!"

SHARON—Father G. E. Saive of the staff at St. John's Chrysostom parish in Newmarket has been named administrator of the church of Our Lady of Good Counsel here.

A first ribbon for "Rilan", the lovely Arabian horse ridden by Jane Wilson, 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilson of 8 Scott Drive, Jane rides for the Golden Stables on the Golden Stables Farm, Keswick. Her instructor, Mrs. Nickschwander selected her to ride in the Markham Fair on September 30. She took first in the western pleasure horse—open class, competing against adults, a third in English pleasure—a third in English pleasure, aged 18 and under. This is Jane's first year of riding and this is a great accomplishment for so young a horsewoman. Indeed a tribute to her teacher!

"Guide Lines"

The Ranger program got into full swing for the 1st Richmond Ranger Company which met in September for the first time this season. With the three new members, the company's count is now fifteen and their meetings take place every first and third Wednesday of the month at the library of Charles Howitt School at 7:30 pm. At the beginning of the summer holidays the girls spent a week backpacking along the Bruce Trail, and so naturally their first meeting was largely spent reminiscing about the fun they shared together on the Trail.

One of the Rangers, Brenda Hills, spent two weeks of her summer at Operation Outlook. It took place in the city of Hamilton where a group of fourteen Rangers took part in a program involving underprivileged or handicapped children who have been referred by the Hamilton Children's Aid Society. The experience of these two weeks gave fourteen Rangers the opportunity to live the fourth Guide law—"A Guide is a friend to all."

At the September meeting plans were made for attending the area hobby show to be held next April 14 by entering a group project, the ideas for which are still a deep secret!

Guide calendars are going on sale this week and are a terrific bargain at 50c each. The girls are also running a revolving babysitting service, and anyone needing a sitter please call Cathy Mats at 889-5131.

Tuesday, the Rangers saw a double feature film The Trojan Women and Lion In Winter presented at the Ontario Institute For Studies In Education.

Langstaff wins again! scoring 33-0 points against Thornhill. The football team is in great shape. Keep it up!

A general meeting of the Roselawn Association was held at the school on October 2, for the purpose of "meeting the teachers". Approximately 180 parents attended which included reports from President Al Evelyn and Treasurer Kay McAvan, Jim Albery, a teacher, gave a brief talk regarding the plans for recreation night in the current school year, and principal Dave Painter explained the organization of the school. The meeting broke up into groups so that parents could visit the teachers in their classrooms.

Some 28 people attended a general meeting of the recreation committee to discuss plans for the opening of recreation night during the 72-73 school year. The committee is under the joint chairmanship of Ron Williams and Arthur Lea, assisted by Secretary-Treasurer Barbara Davis. As in past years, the committee is fortunate in having the assistance of students from the recreation course at Humber College. Activities are planned to start on the evening of October 17, continuing until December 13. Recreation night, which is open to only Roselawn students includes such activities as: table tennis, volleyball, basketball, copper and pottery work, games, dancing, gymnastics, films, cooking and sewing.

A further group camping trip is to be held on the weekend of October 20 at Killbear Provincial Park, near Parry Sound. Approximately 15 grade 9 Roselawn girls, accompanied by eight teachers will take part in a program of canoeing, hiking, natural history, fishing and sketching. Such trips have been held in the past three years, and have been found to be of great value to both students and teachers.

Under the expert guidance of Iain Craig, a regular nohour program of trampolining has been carried out in the gymnasium during the past four weeks. The trampoline is presently on loan to the school from Langstaff Secondary and is being put to good use as an adjunct to the physical education program.

As a result of fund raising carried out by the Roselawn Association during the 1971-72 school year, money was appropriated and spent on the purchase of musical instruments. Doug Black now has the pleasant task of teaching groups of students to play a large assortment of steel drums. The drums were purchased second hand; thus a larger quantity and variety could be purchased. Mr. Black hopes to be able to produce a concert before the end of the present term.

Several classes have been scheduled for visits to the Ontario Science Centre. The students visit the Centre as a supplement to the school's science courses. They spend the day examining many of the exhibits at the Centre, finding information and using it for the purpose of further study on their return to school.

Expansion In Thornhill Softball Necessitates Early Election Call

The unprecedented growth of Thornhill Softball to 850 participants in the 1972 season, has made it necessary to elect a new executive for next season immediately. A general meeting and election of officers will be held Tuesday October 17 at Royal Orchard School, Royal Orchard Boulevard, Thornhill at 8:30 pm. All coaches, scorekeepers and parents are requested to attend.

Many topics must be submitted to the new executive for decisions before the 1973 season commences. The lack of diamonds in north Thornhill will precipitate the use of Thornhill diamonds not in the players' immediate neighborhood.

EXAMINE FUTURE

The success of all-star teams must be examined in the light of further expansion or curtailment. The bantam girls' all-stars had great success in the Vaughan league. The peeewe OASA boys have improved each season. A bantam boys' team trounced all competition in the Richmond Hill Tourney.

More regular umpires are needed. Training and perhaps remuneration may be the answer.
