

Youth Drank, Shot, Nearly Killed

"I know I could have killed someone. We just drank ourselves into a stupor," a Markham youth already on probation told Richmond Hill Court here Thursday of last week as he admitted shooting up a friend's car with a semi-automatic 22-calibre rifle.

Carman Stiver, 19, of Wembley Avenue, Unionville was remanded by Judge Russell Pearce until November 2 for sentence and pre-sentence report. He was told to leave drink and guns alone, and to report every Wednesday night to the York Regional Police Station in Buttonville.

DRINK NO EXCUSE
"Drink and drugs are one of the greatest crutch excuses used and are wearing thin. They're no excuse," said Judge Pearce. "After over 20 years sitting on the bench in such cases it is a very difficult pill to swallow, to be asked just for a fine," he said.

Crown Attorney John Kerr said the July 23 offense took place at the Stiver home after an alcoholic party. Four shots were fired at a car occupied by James Parkinson and Andrew Kessel as the two Unionville teenage friends of the accused were driving away.

Stiver said he just did it for kicks and was aiming at the car tires. But bullets hit the car fender and door, while one went in the open front window, hit the dash and the windshield, passing out the open window on the other side. It was a foolish prank, albeit it could have been a deadly one," said the Crown Attorney Kerr.

and moved to Toronto before getting into trouble. Due to his crime he now was without a job but had returned to his parents and was living at home, the court was told.

YRP Detective Arthur Haney testified Barnes went to the school, broke a window four feet by 10 inches, entered and stole a small chest of tools valued at about $200 and took $168.90 from the gymnasium office.

Police were tipped off and were virtually waiting for him outside. The money and tools were recovered and he confessed to police.

PEOPLE AFRAID
"This is a very serious crime for which you can get 14 years in jail, or jail for life if it's a house. Things are getting so bad in this area people are afraid to leave their home unattended. . . youth are inflicting heavy damage on schools," said Judge Pearce as he entered a conviction on the court record.

Bryan Camping Industries Limited of 70 Newkirk Road, Richmond Hill, a company its president said is now closed, admitted June and July charges of failing to file Sales Tax Returns under the Excise Tax Act. The company was fined $20 and five dollars costs, to be collected by distress warrant if necessary.

Roger Colton, 19, of 16 Wallace Street, Woodbridge, admitted an April 29 Vaughan marijuana possession charge. He was remanded to November 9 for a pre-sentence report, Judge Pearce refusing to grant year's probation and warned not to get involved with drugs again.

Bruce Bailey, 22, of 197 Sixteenth Avenue, Richmond Hill and his brother Phillip Bailey, 20, of 38 Benson Avenue, Richmond Hill, both pleaded guilty to charges.

The Crown then withdrew August 28 charges of car theft and possession involving a 1972 demonstrator car taken from Neill Datsun Limited, Yonge Street North, and abandoned.

A sign on the car said "Take Me For A Drive", the court was told.

Bruce was fined $20 or four days jail for being intoxicated August 30 at 1:30 am on Church Street at Roseview Avenue.

SWEARING AT NURSES
Phillip was fined $50 or 10 days jail for creating a disturbance by swearing at York Central Hospital emergency at 4 am August 28. He was swearing at the nurses, doctor and then at police when they came. So he was taken away and charged, the court was told.

His lawyer explained Phillip took a friend to hospital with a head injury. His father recently died of a head injury and he was afraid the friend wasn't getting immediate treatment. He also was drinking, the defense attorney said.

Charles Robson, 57, of 150 Colbourne Avenue, Apartment 308, Richmond Hill, a caretaker, admitted driving while impaired October 18 at 1:10 am.

Police saw him going east on Church Street and south on Dufferin Street and south on Church Street, swerving across the roadway almost into the ditch. He was stopped at Church and Markham Road, Crown Attorney Kerr said. Robson was convicted, fined $100 or 30 days and a breathalyzer test refusal charge was withdrawn. His conviction carries with it an automatic driver's license suspension for three months.

the absolute discharge recommended by the federal prosecutor.

STRONG ODOR
Colton was seen by police at 11:20 pm at the Woodbridge Memorial smoking something with a strong odor. He was searched and two marijuana cigarettes weighing 1.7 grams were found. He'd been on his present job for 10 months and had no previous conviction, the court was told.

Caught on Highway 7 between Richmond Hill and Thornhill with 2½ pounds of freshly picked marijuana, still moist, Gordon Reid, 22, of 903 Mohawk Road East, Apartment 314, Hamilton refused to admit having hashish for the purposes of trafficking.

MARIJUANA GROWING
But he admitted the lesser and included offense of marijuana possession, saying he was carrying it for a friend. The arrest was at 11:10 pm July 23. He co-operated by showing police where the marijuana was growing, the court was told.

Reid was convicted and fined $50 or 30 days, with two weeks to pay. He was put on one

YOUTH HAS RECORD
He read Stiver's record to the court. It included a 1971 break-in conviction for which he was put on 18 months probation September 30, 1971 and a 1971 common assault conviction which earned him a $50 fine.

Two of Stiver's employers appeared in court to testify to his good work habits and reliability, while his father testified as to his behavior changing markedly for the good after the seriousness of the offense was realized.

Gordon Barnes, 17, of 29 Riverside Boulevard, Thornhill, pleaded guilty to an October 4 charge of break-in and theft at Thornlea Secondary School. He was remanded to November 9 for sentence and told to report to York Regional Police every Wednesday night until then. Three other charges were withdrawn.

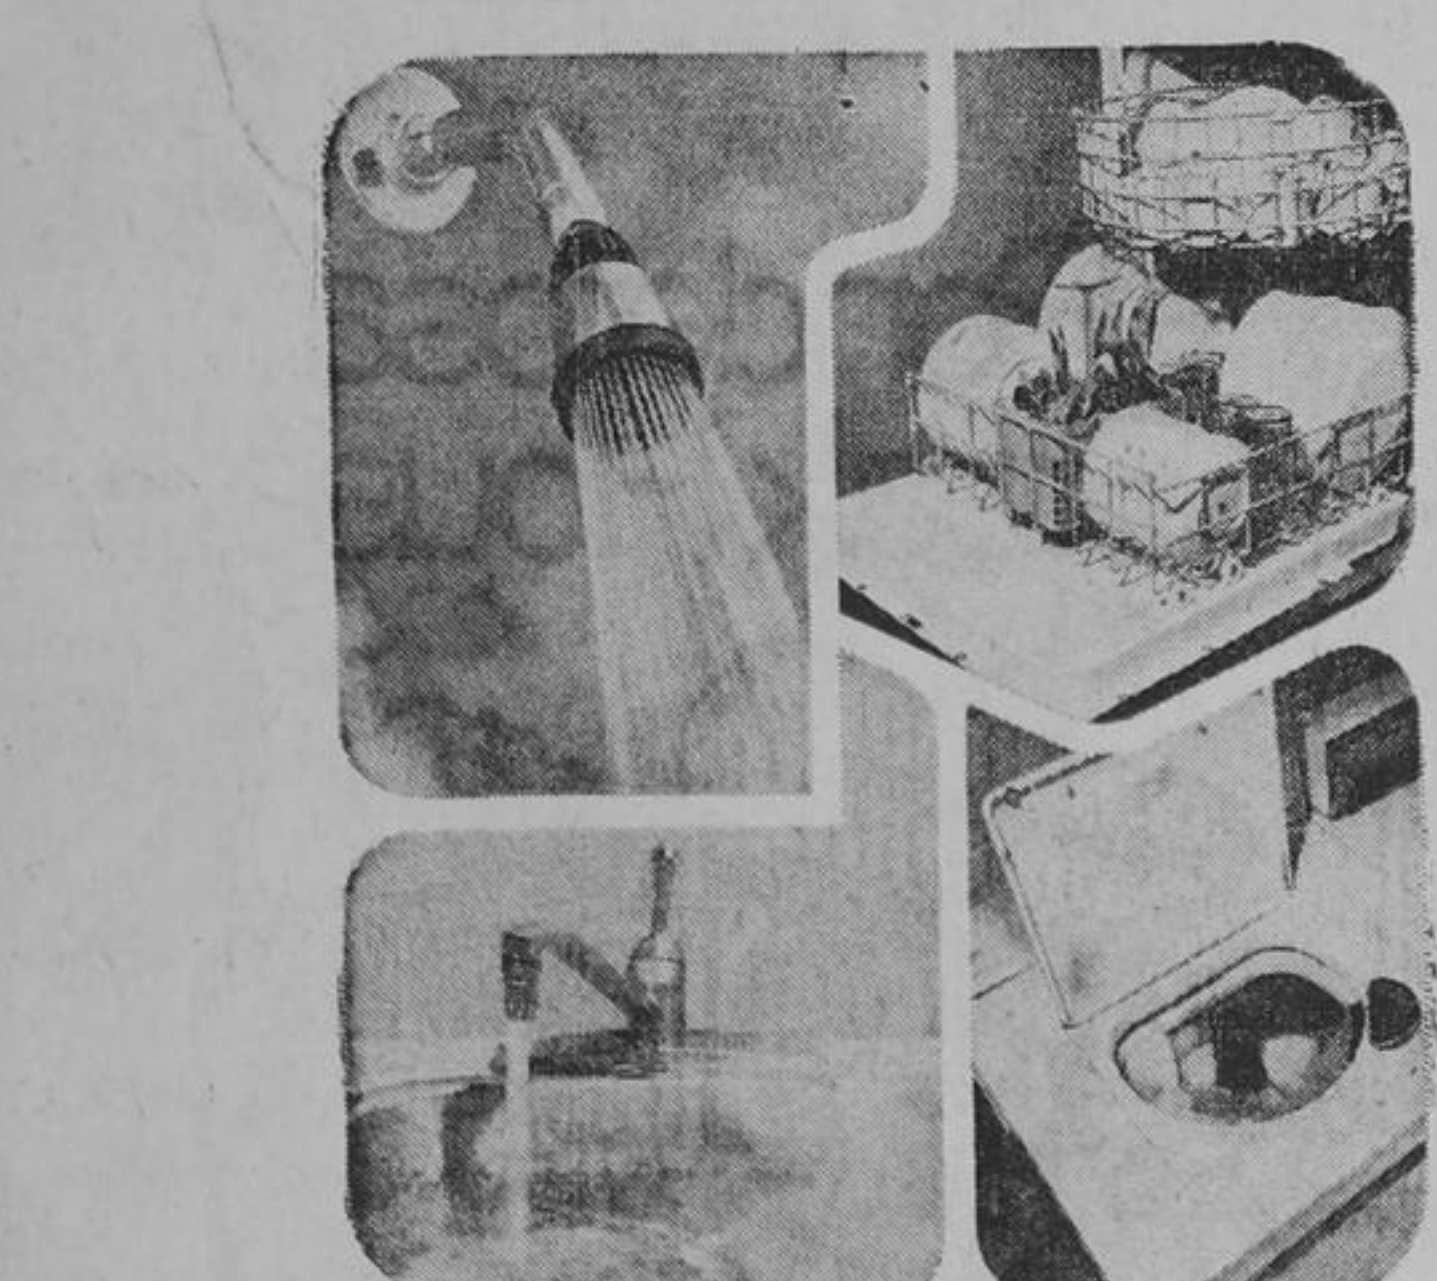

Two alleged accomplices of Barnes didn't admit their charges and were remanded to October 26 for a trial date to be set. They were Glen Sonier, 16 and Gordon Munro, 16, both of Metro.
