

Thornhill Hockey At Peak 230 New Players Sign

An unexpected 230 new skaters registered in the Thornhill Church Hockey League, resulting in many changes in schedules, and the need for many extra coaches. All age groups from 8 year old squirts to 12 year old peewees were enlarged from four to six teams. Only one exhibition game was played by each team October 14, and the following write-ups is the first game of the regular season, October 21.

The 10 top scorers in each age group are once again being calculated. That starts with the October 21 regular games, and will NOT include the October 14 exhibition games. Coaches—please do not change players numbers as someone among the 750 skaters might get lost track of.

Coaches and managers would improve this weekly article if they always show both first and last names. It is not the policy of "The Liberal" to show initials, or leave out the boys' first names, or even worse, call them solely by a number.

Cancer Society
George Meek, campaign chairman of the Thornhill Branch of the cancer society reports this year the campaign was the most successful ever with the $9,000 objective being exceeded by more than $2,500. The district is divided into some 35 to 40 areas with a team captain for each and involves between 350 to 400 canvassers.

Thornlea Secondary School operated a walkathon in support of the campaign last April. Mr. Meek pays tribute to the many hard-working men and women who gave so freely of their time. "The people of Thornhill can be proud of themselves and we hope that next week will be even better."

Wanted—Community Support
Thornhill District Lions are presenting Ellis McClintock and the Thornlea production of "Checkmate" at Seneca College Auditorium October 28 at 8 pm and October 29 at 7 pm.

This is a topnotch show presented earlier this year by Thornlea and praised by those who saw it as a show of professional calibre and a production that should not be missed which merits being seen for a second time.

The Lions hope the community will get behind this venture and support the students and at the same time help the Lions build funds for the proposed arena complex in this area.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and are available from Lions, Thornlea Secondary, or by phoning 889-6016.

Recommend Thornhill 42 Home Subdivision

The subdivision as approved will have only one lot having road access and fronting on John Street. The rest of the lots will front on interior streets. Markham Planner Bill Power said one lot with access wouldn't seriously affect traffic on John Street.

The subdivision won't have any street connection at Thornlea Road but will connect to Thornlea Court. Registration of the subdivision is subject to provision of new water supplies by York Region. The recommendation of the planning committee must still be approved by council.

Approval by council is subject to discussions on increasing lot frontages to 60 feet on the south side and on providing a walkway to the western valley lands from a cul de sac, as the parks and recreation committee requested.

Troop who are trying for their gold stage first aid badge. This is a Scout award, not a St. John.

The local troop is making plans to attend the annual brotherhood camp sponsored by York Summit District at Heart Lake, near Brampton, on the November 17 weekend.

They meet at the Bayview Glen Public School and Mrs. Goodfield succeeds Mrs. Gillespie.

School News
News from the local public schools is a bit lean this week as all the principals were out of town last Friday at a conference.

Best wishes are extended to Mrs. Molly Broadfoot, secretary at Woodland Senior School, who is recuperating at her home in Markham, following a stay in North York General Hospital.

The E. J. Sand School commenced their elective programs last Friday. Among the many non-academic subjects available in this setup are making a newspaper, drama and crocheting. The program will continue until Christmas.

SCHOOL NEWS
Open house for the fall term was held at St. Luke's Roman Catholic School, October 19. This evening gave parents and teachers an opportunity to meet and establish a rapport that will continue throughout the school year.

Miss Barbara MacRae's grade 1 class recently held an animals on parade pageant. The girls and boys brought pets such as turtles, rabbits, birds and cats, to school. Those who did not bring a live animal net brought their favorite stuffed animal toy. This event marked the climax to a theme in religious education considering God's creation in the things around us.

Miss Chelle Todesco's grade 2 and 3 class visited Kensington Market on a recent excursion. The girls and boys had been working on a harvest theme and the visit to the market gave them an opportunity to see the fruits and vegetables grown in the local area. One startling observation made by the children after the market visit was that the displays were in sharp contrast with the supermarket displays they see weekly.

The Artario 1972 display has been acquired as an addition to the learning resource center. The displays were made ready for the open house evening by Mrs. Elaine Darby, school librarian.

Federal Candidates
The local ratepayers associations sponsored an all-candidates' night in the York North Federal Riding October 20 at Henderson Avenue Public School. An attentive audience including a large number of young people had the opportunity to meet and hear Conservative Stephen Roman, Liberal Barney Danson and NDP Jim Reid outline their respective parties' programs and personal philosophies. The audience then participated in a lively question and answer period.

The PC standard bearer, Roman, expressed strong views on productivity, cost of living and the need for incentives and profit sharing to revitalize the Canadian economy and national goals. For his part Liberal Danson amplified on the performance of the Trudeau Government for the past four and a half years.

NDP Candidate Jim Reid scored the Trudeau regime for its mismanagement of the Canadian economy, misrule as exemplified by defections in the Liberal ranks, its record of high unemployment, galloping inflation and the vulnerability of people—especially senior citizens living on fixed incomes. Foreign control of Canada's resources and Canadian independence were also stressed by Reid with positive alternatives proposed by his party.

Other highlights repeated by several speakers centred on abuses within the welfare schemes which resulted in unbearable taxation, violation of the country's immigration laws by criminals and many undesirable while the immigration minister repeated old refrains.

Both Danson and Reid were questioned closely to explain their apparent support for abortion on demand.

It was an orderly and stimulating meeting with Chairman Jack Stone fully in charge and impartial at all times.

The session concluded on a humorous note as one lady, mother of seven children quipped, "Let everyone do his or her thing. It is the family that counts; we need less government and less bureaucracy NOT more."
