Why we are running on a common platform for Vaughan Council:

- Because we believe the old council has lost touch with the people.
- Because we believe the new council needs fresh ideas from independent minds.
- Because we want to maintain a green belt lifestyle.
- Because we oppose unplanned high-rise development.
- Because we don't want Vaughan to become a Metro garbage dump.
- Because we do want a better public transportation system.

FOR COUNCIL

MIKE BEVAN

JAMES CAMERON

CLAIRE COATES

Mike Bevan, high school administrator, and former television producer, is Vaughan's representative at the nation-wide 1972 conference on Man and His Resources. A resident of Kleinburg for 16 years he has served as District Commissioner for the Boy Scouts, president of the Kleinburg Rotary Club and Secretary of the Binder Twine Festival. At present, he is vice-president of the Rotary Committee on the Environment for District 407. He is 52, is married and has four children.

James Cameron, professor of geography at York University, has been active in the Maple Ratepayers' Association. His expertise lies in the field of regional planning and he has been active in developing a Citizens Plan for Maple. Because his family has lived in the area for more than 100 years Dr. Cameron has been interested in studying the history of early settlement in Vaughan. He is 30 years old is married and has two children.

Claire Coates, social worker and housewife, has been working with people since she graduated with honors from Queen's. A past president of the Kitchener Waterloo Chapter of the Consumers Association of Canada and Parliamentarian for the Canadian Federation of University Women, she was instrumental in helping form the Vaughan Branch of the University Women's Club, of which she is president. She is married to a nuclear engineer and lives in Woodbridge. The Coates' have one daughter.

BILL KING FOR REGIONAL COUNCILLOR

We need a tough minded man at the regional level. Bill King, the man who founded the Maple Ratepayers' Association and has kept constant pressure on council since that time for community improvement, is a candidate of determination and experience. A former master carpenter he rose quickly to become Toronto manager of the largest independent cash register company in the nation. Like many others, Mr. King came to Vaughan seven years ago to get away from the city. Like many others he wants to keep things that way. With his executive abilities and independence of mind he is the ideal man to represent us at the regional level. He is 39, and is married with five children.
