York School Board Holding "Mirror" Up To Its Employees

York County Board of Education is figuratively holding up a mirror to its school staff and hoping they will find a reflection of themselves and their effectiveness.

The plan, known as "The Double Mirror Operation" has been underway since the beginning of the year and was outlined to a meeting of the board December 18, as a result of William Armstrong Public School, Markham, requesting permission to hold a Professional Development Day March 9, 1973.

The program will centre around the results of the Double Mirror Operation, which has set February 28 as the date for its completion.

The complete purpose of the operation, as set out by the report, is as follows: provide for improvement and instruction, and to raise the standards of pupil performance by giving school staff an opportunity to see a reflection of themselves and their effectiveness; to give the school an opportunity to reflect the effectiveness of the administrative and support services in that particular situation; to give trustees information which will enable them to assess the effectiveness of existing policies and which will give them information for the formulation of new policies.

Objectives of the operation are to observe the schools in action and to evaluate their programs in everything from academic services to maintenance.

Making up the Mirror teams are staff members down the line from principal to the director of education.

No dark of the night operation, during the experimental stages an invitation must be issued by a school staff to the superintendent of the area. Following that, a group of supervisory officials will meet with the school staff to establish specific objectives and to develop a specific plan to observe and collect data for the Mirror team.

The latter will in turn report its observations and discuss the accumulated data with the staff and supervisory officials.

In The Spotlight

Lynne the cast and wives, husbands and guests made merry at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jones in their attractive country estate on 19th Avenue.

Dennis Stainer (that arch villain of EL) read an 'Ode to the Play' (the usual custom) to the assorted boos, hisses, applause and much hilarity from his avid listeners.

East Lynne's cast was "terrific"; the costumes and sets were excellent... and we'd just like to add that one beautiful blonde sacrificed her 'looks' in a marvelous small part — all for the sake of Art.

Another premiere performance took place in the pre-Christmas atmosphere, when Louise Robertson, a former Richmond Hill High School student (now affiliated with York University) produced and directed her own play (complete with her own musical scores). Louise was assisted in direction by Dramatist David Phillips of Richmond Hill. Two local actors, David Smith and Adrian Truss, who are studying at Ryerson, took notable lead parts in the one act play, "What If He Came Tonight".

The play itself was a conception of the behind-the-scenes struggles and bigotry displayed by those presenting the Christmas Story. Adrian Truss as David, proved that "outward appearances" were by no means a judge of one's potential "worth".

Vicki Small, as Sue, showed great strength in her role; as did Dave Smith and Rick Makonhoniuk (York University). CGIT members were delightful in their three roles — The Nativity Scene; The Huron Carol, illustrated, and a modern conception of the Nativity, if He came now.

The supporting cast enacted various "scenes" off centre, while the adult cast held their discussion on stage. A capacity audience applauded the Greenborough Players, at the community church, Keele Street.

East and west did meet when Pleasantville Public School Choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. Wales and Bayview Secondary School Band, conducted by Gordon Fleming put on their annual "Sounds Of Christmas". Tell you about that next time.

RING IN THE NEW

Two events herald Richmond Hill's Centennial Year (1973).

At 11:30 pm New Year's Eve, plan to attend the ceremony at the Municipal Hall, Yonge Street, when the Centennial Flame will be lit... ushering in the 100th year of Richmond Hill's history.

On New Year's Day Mayor William Lazenby will hold the Mayor's Levee, in the Town Council Chambers from 2 to 5 pm.
