40 Acre Outdoor Skate

Wobbly beginners and seasoned skaters take heart—Heart Lake, that is. If you haven't tried lake skating, it's a perfect change of pace for passing a puck or trying your hand at a spin or tracing figure eights. Right now, all 40 acres of ice are skateable. Five acres of ice are cleared regularly—equivalent to four football fields. At last report, ice conditions were near-perfect with a mirror smooth surface and a 12" base. There is a convenient indoor change area.

Take a break from skating, try sampling some hot chocolate or coffee, or munch on a hotdog or hamburger at the indoor refreshment stand. If skating isn't your thing, there are limited tobogganing facilities when conditions permit.

Open seven days a week, from 10:00 am to sundown, the Heart Lake Conservation Area is located east of Brampton, approximately four miles north of Highway 7 on the Heart Lake Road. It is one of 15 conservation areas operated by Metro Conservation and nine of these are open for winter-time recreation.

For the latest reports on conditions, phone Metro Conservation, 630-9780.

SINCLAIR STEVENS REPORTS

Shelter Costs Highlight Soaring Inflation

The debate on the Speech From The Throne continues. It is likely there will be a final, quite predictable, vote ending the debate on Wednesday night.

We in the Progressive Conservative Caucus have attempted to adjourn this debate so that the government may bring in their pending legislation without delay. With unemployment and inflation worsening, we believe it is urgent that steps be taken to help right the economy immediately. The government in consort with the NDP, appears to be in no rush. So they have allowed eight days of needless debate to consume precious time in Parliament.

When the government indicated they would not adjourn the debate, Mr. Stanfield indicated that at least the debate could be adjourned to allow the government to put legislation through to assist old age pensioners. This motion was defeated on Tuesday last week when the government, with the assistance again of the NDP Members of Parliament, defeated the PC motion. This move was a surprise to the PC Caucus who fully expected the government, and certainly the NDP Members, to willingly help old age pensioners as quickly as possible.

To vote for such an adjournment would not have brought down the government. Such a vote to adjourn a debate would not have been a vote of no confidence in the government.

David Lewis, Leader of the NDP may have dropped a secret the following day when he indicated that there was no purpose in adjourning the debate because the government did not have old age pension legislation ready anyway. But this is odd. In the Throne Speech it was stated, "Certain immediate steps will be taken by the government" . . . "including legislation . . . to improve the economic situation of old age pensioners."

It is unfortunate that our senior citizens are being put in this position with respect to pensions. To date they have had only nominal increases and in my opinion, a sizeable increase is long overdue to allow the recipients to better cope with Canada's runaway inflation.

The inflation trends in Canada were highlighted last Friday when the Consumer Price Index for Canada rose another point. The government has proposed setting up a committee of Parliament to enquire into rising food price trends in Canada. This may or may not be helpful. I feel it is unfortunate, however, that the Trudeau Government is highlighting the increase in food prices and yet it is not proposing that the same committee review the rise in shelter costs which is a larger component in our Consumer Price Index, than food. Shelter in the last month jumped 1.2 points and is up almost 10 points over last year. With this in mind, on Friday I
