

Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Temple of Sugar Maple Lane celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary quietly on Tuesday. Mrs. Temple is president of the YCHA.

Richmond Hill United celebrated the 170th anniversary of the founding of the congregation Sunday, and as a point of interest, Rev. Robert Smith asked people who had been with the church for 50 years or more to stand. Five members fell into this category: Mrs. Herbert Sanderson, Albert Hill, Mrs. Hardy Hill, James Grainger and Mrs. Margaret Glass. Special speaker of the day was Donald Deacon M.L.A. York Centre, a prominent United Church layman. Many of the congregation indicated by raising their hands that they had been with the church for 25 years or more.

Senior Citizens Richmond Hill's 100th Birthday Homecoming Week celebration has come and gone, and one of the busiest hives of industry was the Senior Citizens Club Room where a wonderful display of antiques and heirlooms took many back in memory many years.

The hostesses looked charming in gowns of the 1870 period, and Club Chairman Norman Stephenson looking uncollared like Sir William Mullock, was also smartly attired in period costume.

The quilters were working under supervision of Mrs. Ann Dewsbury and a beautiful variety of their handiwork was on display, plus the prizes for the lucky draw. The old fashioned tearoom with tastefully decorated tables was well patronized, and Mrs. Mary Reid and her assistants were kept busy all through the week serving delicious home-made goodies. The approximate daily consumption of sandwiches called for eight loaves of bread, three pounds of butter, six tins of salmon, one dozen eggs, two pounds of ham and one pound of old cheese plus all the donations of cookies, cupcakes, biscuits, assorted pies, tarts and cheese cakes.

On three days during the week the seniors had visits from pupils of Walter Scott Public School accompanied by their teachers and parents — a return visit after the seniors had all been entertained by the students at their Grandparents' Tea June 6. They were extremely interested in the workings and use of various antiques, and enjoyed cookies and pop before returning to school.

The seniors also entertained a number of residents from Country Place Nursing Home. On Friday evening many members attended the judging of the beard growing contest at the Lions Hall and were delighted when their own "Mr. Centennial", Norman Stephenson, was declared a winner.

On Saturday the draw for the Centennial quilt and four other prizes took place at the club room. Conveners of the various activities were introduced — Mrs. Mary Reid, Mrs. Dorothy Price, Mrs. Ann Dewsbury, Mrs. May Hunt for Mrs. Vi Clarke who was absent, Joe Horne and Mrs. May Stephenson, the chairman's right hand.

Guests were asked to make the draw for the five prizes. Mayor William Lazenby drew the first ticket for the Centennial quilt which was won by T. V. Thompson, 223 Palmer Avenue, ticket 2643. William Andrews drew the second ticket for another lovely quilt which was won by Dianne Bone, 34 Elizabeth Street, ticket 3096. Councilor Charles Stewart drew the third — a tapestry which was won by Mrs. C. Hodgins, 133 Palmer Avenue, ticket 2308. Mrs. Ann Dewsbury drew the fourth, a hand-made stole which was won by D. Herron, 190 Dudley Avenue, Thornhill, ticket 318. The fifth was drawn by Mrs. Hart — dinner for two at the Black Hawk Inn, which was won by Mrs. R. Watson, 316 Boisdeau Avenue, ticket 3927.

The senior citizens Centennial committee would like to thank all those who loaned their valuable antiques and heirlooms to make such an interesting and varied display, also those who devoted time helping to take care of the precious exhibits. They also want to remind everyone of the Centennial celebrations at the CNE on August 21 and hope that many residents of the Hill will join the seniors in celebrating Richmond Hill Day at the CNE.

Fourteen members of the Richmond Hill Kinsmen Club recently returned from their District Eight convention in Haliburton where they joined 950 other Kinsmen and Kinettes for a tremendous time. Haliburton may never be the same again.

The highlight of the convention was the fact that District Eight clubs have raised $56,000 to aid in the search for a cure for cystic fibrosis. Anyone who would like to join this young men's service club, to meet new friends as well as getting involved in the community is asked to call Tom Hetherington, 884-2535 or Jim Wessels, 889-1082.

Now that school is out, where do all the children go? Many of the lucky ones will be going to Park Y Day Camp '73 at Mill Pond Park. The camp is jointly sponsored by Richmond Hill YWCA and the Richmond Hill Parks and Recreation Committee.

Open to boys and girls 5 to 13, the camp will have three two-week sessions, July 2 to July 13; July 16 to 27; and July 30 to August 10. The campers are divided into small groups, with separate programs for junior and senior campers, and all sessions are staffed with highly qualified leaders, specially trained in working with children.

For further information drop in at the YWCA office at 25 Yonge Street North or telephone 884-4811. And a note to working mothers — camp fees may now be tax deductible.

Save those newspapers! Students of Richmond Hill High School were afraid that, with school out, people in their area (Vaughan Road to Trayborn Drive, Yonge Street west to Pleasantville) would get out of the habit of saving their papers for the monthly pickup and recycling. However, thanks to the co-operation of the town, papers will be picked up on the Second Monday of July, August and September by town employees. They will start collecting at 1 pm on each of these days. (The first Monday in each of these months is a holiday).

Residents are asked to follow the usual procedure, tying their papers securely in bundles and putting them out at the end of the driveway. To wind up the '72-'73 season, the Brownies, Guides and Rangers of Richmond Hill East District, together with their leaders and a few interested parents, joined in a Spring Thanksgiving Service June 14 at St. Gabriel's Anglican. Under direction of Captain Olive Verico, Deputy District Commissioner, the girls paraded into the church followed by a march of color parties. Rev. David Sproule led in an inspirational half hour service. At the organ was Ranger Jane Limpert.

Following the service, those girls who had received All Round cords during the season were presented by their captains to District Commissioner Mrs. Sylvia Limpert and Deputy Division Commissioner Mrs. Shirley Morehouse who congratulated them and presented them with charms.

The girls so honored were Donna Joblin and Helen Pennyfather of the 8th Company and Louise Griffin, Nancy Limpert, Laurie Lucas, Pamela Major, Alice Merkelbach and Sandra Stewart of the 7th Company. Missing were Sandra Marshall of the 10th Company who had received her All Round Cord and Lisa Henderson, also of the 10th, who received her Canada Cord.

Warrant pins were presented to Mrs. Wilma Merkelbach and Mrs. Betty Charge. Mrs. Doris Crouch, who is leaving, was presented with an Owl Doorknocker. The 3rd Richmond Hill Rangers presented Mrs. Molly Mandeville, who is also leaving, with a sterling silver teaspoon. Mention was also made of Diane Fulton, Lorraine Pappas and Barbara Bourne who were absent but who had earned their warrant pins, and thanks to Mrs. Ruth Swann and Mrs. Marg Mus, who is taking a short leave of absence.

New leaders in the fall will be Mrs. Pauline Bjerrland, Mrs. Pat Ivany and Mrs. Joan Sainovic. Mrs. Betty Charge and Mrs. Ruth Church then led in 20 minutes of action songs. The evening finished off with refreshments.

Duplicate Bridge On June 18 duplicate bridge club winners were Omar Khamissa and George Newton in first place and Peter and Willie Molevelt second.

On June 22 Terry Dunn and Bill Gordon were first with Ross and Sandy Jenkinson second. The last game of the season will be on June 29.

Duplicate bridge will resume early in September. For information call Marie Cole, 773-4280.

Involvement in the community around it has resulted in expansion of parish staff at St. Mary's Anglican. Rev. Bernard Barrett is senior priest, and Assistant Priest John Coneybearre divides his time between St. Mary's and Emmanuel Anglican in Richvale, working especially in pastoral visiting and financial stewardship.

Rev. Fred Jackson, honorary assistant priest continues to concentrate on hospital visits, visits to shut-ins and the Richmond Hill marriage school.

Donald Downer has completed his theological training and will be working full time in the parish as an intern. He will share in all phases of parish life, but will concentrate chiefly on Christian Education, youth and worship development.

Sister Shanley of the Sisters of St. John the Divine is assisting part time in education planning and training, and a number of students from Trinity College are sharing in various aspects of parish life and work.

Dennis Stainer is music director, and Audrey Armstrong is in the office while Geoff and May West-Gaul supervise care and maintenance of church buildings. This may seem like a large staff, but, says the church's monthly "Messenger", "this kind of staff only begins to provide the resources we need."

In July and August St. Mary's Anglican and Richmond Hill United will be sharing services. For the month of July the two congregations will meet at 10:30 am in St. Mary's. Care for young children will be provided.

In August services will take place in Richmond Hill United at the same hour. In addition there will be services in St. Mary's at 10 am Wednesday and 7 pm Thursday during the summer months as well as the 8 am Sunday Eucharist.

Clergy from St. Mary's will also assist with summer services at Emmanuel Anglican, Richvale at 9 am Sunday and at 9:30 am at St. Gabriel's Anglican on Crosby Avenue.

Rev. Bernard Barrett and Rev. Fred Jackson of St. Mary's and Rev. Rowan Binney of Richmond Hill United will be on duty in July and Rev. John Coneybearre of St. Mary's, Rev. David Sproule of St. Gabriel's and Rev. Robert Smith of Richmond Hill United will be on duty in August. They will be assisted by Rev. Regina Horden of Holy Trinity Anglican in Thornhill and Don Downer of St. Mary's.

Horticultural Society At the rose and peony show of horticultural society at the Lions Hall June 19 the display of roses was not as large as usual since many roses are not yet in bloom, but the peonies are at their best and the exhibits were good.

The program included a panel of two — Bob Keith and Bob Little — who discussed the judging of popular flowers, such as roses, peonies, iris, lilies and delphinium, with suggestions of the "do's" and "don'ts" for exhibitors.

Judges at last week's show were Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. Bailey of the North Toronto Society, who chose as the arrangement for the court of honor an attractive entry featuring yellow roses and submitted by Mrs. Jack Runney, who also had the high points for arrangements, with Mrs. George Barker in second place.

Also in the court of honor (in the specimen classes) were a rose exhibited by Bob Keith and a mixed bouquet of flowers in honor of Richmond Hill's Centennial by Bob Little. The high points in specimens were won by Bill Risebrough, Bob Little and Otto Connor, in that order. Ted Watts won the trophy for the best red rose in the show. A number of members are attending the convention of the Ontario Horticultural Association being held at Guelph University this week.

Baptized at the Sunday morning service at St. Matthew's United was Cynthia Christian May LaTour, daughter of John and Pat LaTour.

The congregation is invited to join in a camping weekend at Paint Lake near Bracebridge Friday to Monday. For information call Lorraine Willecock, 884-7559.

Members of the Mary and Martha Guild of Richmond Hill Presbyterian Church enjoyed a garden party and barbecue at the home of Jean Mirreles, Lawrence Avenue last Wednesday evening before dispersing for the summer holidays.

In a short business session gratifying reports were received of activities earlier this month, including catering for a wedding reception, participation in the successful Heirloom Tea and a complete sellout of the Centennial Cook Book.

Maie Hepburn read an inspirational article and Win Gray led in prayer in a short devotional service with President Betty Hazell in the chair.

The annual pot luck supper of St. Mary's ACW was held recently in Wrixon Hall with approximately 95 ladies present. After a social hour followed by a delicious supper, Rev. Bern Barrett spoke to the gathering.

A brief business meeting followed chaired by President Anna Little, at which time the new by-laws were presented to the membership and the proposed constitution and purpose were presented and passed.

Mrs. Gail Johnston reported on her trip to the final gathering of the National ACW in Ottawa. There were some very interesting displays of the work of the various ACW committees, and Pakistani embroideries were displayed by Mrs. Johnstone, the deary representative.

In honor of Richmond Hill's Centennial, the Bank of Nova Scotia at Yonge and Arnold Streets is currently displaying a number of antique Canadian furniture pieces and carvings supplied by Kinghorn Antiques Limited. Included in the display are a chair of bird's eye and tiger maple dating back to 1830, an 1850 Quebec pine stretcher table and an 1860 Quebec pine cupboard.

There are also some very interesting carvings, including a white swan from the Annapolis Valley, N.S., and a cowboy and Indian on horseback by Nathaniel Bird of Richvale.

The employees at the bank who are dressing in pioneer costumes for the Centennial, also made a huge birthday cake with 100 candles for the display.

Red Maple Lasting Birthday Gift

Richmond Hill Horticultural Society's birthday present to the town this year was a beautiful red maple tree. This was planted in front of the public library building on Wright Street.

Edmunds, Regional Councillor Lois Hancey, Chief Librarian Pat Hart (also a member of the town's Centennial Committee) and Mayor William Lazenby.

The rose garden, now coming into full profusion of beautiful bloom, in front of the municipal building was last year's gift to the town from the society.

Kathy Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy, 48 Elmwood Avenue, Richmond Hill, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Mario Catenaro, 209 Church Street South on June 15. Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Churcher and Mrs. Catenaro. Many long-standing friends and neighbors of the Kennedy's attended. The wedding will take place Saturday in Beth Am Synagogue in Metro.

Kyle-Cox Overseas Guests Come For Wedding In Hill

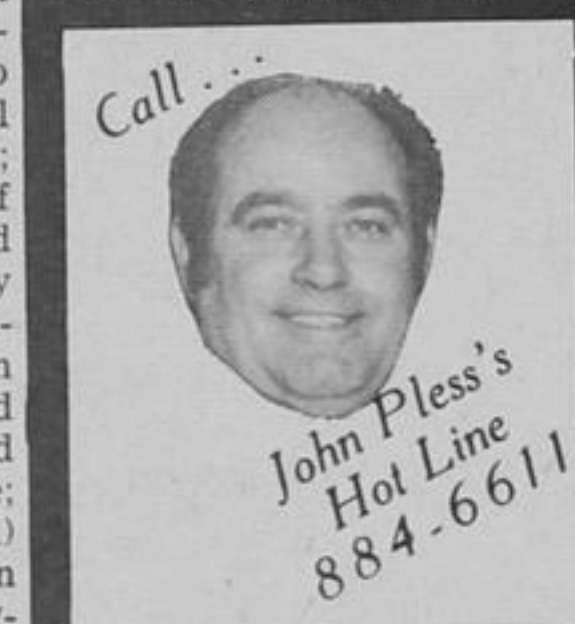

A trip to Barbados followed the June 15 wedding of Angela Marie Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kitchener Cox of Hall Street, Richmond Hill, and Andrew Stewart Kyle of Toronto, son of Mrs. Elizabeth and the late Andrew Kyle of Glasgow, Scotland.

The ceremony took place in Richmond Hill Presbyterian Church against a background of gladioli, mums and carnations, with Rev. William Wallace officiating. Traditional wedding music was played by the church Organist Mrs. Victoria Fraser.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Frank Cox, the bride wore a full length white gown with mother-of-pearl adorning the centre panel. Her short veil was secured with a clasp of mother-of-pearl. She carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink carnations and white stephanotis.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Yvonne Chittenden, who wore a peasant-style gown of blue chiffon with white lace bodice and a white lace hat. Thirty-five guests were present for dinner at the Honey Pot Ski Lodge in Maple. A reception followed at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chittenden, Essex Avenue. To receive, the bride's mother wore a gown of blue polyester velvet with gold and silver beads around neck and cuffs.
