Neighborhood Notes
1973 is a momentous year for Maureen Martin.

She received her degree from the University of Toronto Law School earlier this summer; spent some weeks articling with a law firm in London, England, and now has returned home to prepare for her marriage to Gareth Davies of Swansea, Wales, which takes place at Brown's Corners United Church September 1.

Maureen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Martin, and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gwyn Davies of Skewen, Wales. They met last year when both were studying law in London.

The Martins expect members of the Davies family to visit a week before the wedding.

Wedding

HARTWICK-JONES

A beautiful summer wedding took place at Brown's Corners United Church July 28, when Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones of Buttonville and Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartwick, Senior, of Keswick, were married.

Rev. Allen Hallett conducted the ceremony and Miss Sharon Buchanan played the wedding music, with "O Perfect Love" as the processional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a bridal gown of white dotted Swiss with long fitted torso, and bouffant skirt falling to a chapel train. A large white picture of daisies completed her gift from the groom, and as a hat and a cascade of white tulle. Her necklace was a link with the past she wore a ring which had belonged to her great grandmother McQuay, and carried a handkerchief from her grandmother, Mrs. James McQuay of Unionville.

Kathy Jones and Carol Hartwick, sisters of the bride and groom, who were bridesmaids, and Helen Winning of Unionville, maid of honor, wore similar long empire gowns of figured orange ice georgette with daisies in their hair and carried swag bouquets of gold and bronze baby 'mums. The best man was Robert Doucette of Toronto, and ushers were the bride's brother Jim Jones and Bill Couperthwaite of Unionville.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Heintzman House, Thornhill, where Mrs. Jones received guests in a formal pink gown with mauve elegance corsage.

Mrs. Hartwick assisted in pink figured sheer. For a honeymoon camping trip north, Linda donned a white pant suit with red accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartwick are living in Don Mills where the groom is an industrial engineer with Underwood-Olivetti.
