"Damned embarrassing," was the way a CNR spokesman summed it up, after the only train it had on the tracks in Canada this week, was involved in a level-crossing collision at Maple, August 27.

The train, which had been given permission to operate during the national railroad strike, was carrying a potentially-explosive chemical from Barrie to the Dow Chemical Company plant at Sarnia when it clipped the end of a gravel truck on a private road leading to the Crawford-Ontario Sand and Gravel Company pit. Michael Cassano, 32, of Toronto, was treated for cuts at York Central Hospital and released.

The train, which was being operated by supervisors, who normally instruct engineers in driving them, was made up of a tank car loaded with ethylene oxide and several empties.

A CN spokesman said there was no danger of an explosion.

SHARON: East Gwillimbury Council's enthusiasm for a nine-acre furniture mart building at the corner of Green Lane and Yonge Street overshadowed a few objections at a recent public hearing on a required amendment to the town's Official Plan. The 35.5 acre property is currently designated as rural holding and will have to get provincial approval for a change to commercial to permit the store. If the amendment to the Official Plan is approved by the province, a zoning bylaw will have to be passed and circulated to all landowners within 400 ft.

91 Years Amidst Headford Fields

Fields of corn surround the Headford United Church, picturesquely situated on Concession 3 (Leslie Street), Richmond Hill. The church, which was built in 1882, is 91 years old, and still in operation. The present pastor, James Bewell, is a student minister, in his third year of studies.

Richmond Hill's Big Day At CNE

10,000 Roses Warm People's Hearts

By MARY DAWSON

More than 10,000 roses, Centennial Flags, 24 packed buses and hundreds of cars, a win by Dynes in an exhibition game, an outstanding program of music by Richmond Hill talent, a parade of vintage cars, fire trucks and floats, were unforgettable features of Richmond Hill Day at the CNE, Thursday of last week.

The charming pioneer-costumed hostesses may have had trouble getting people to accept the roses they were giving free to the first 10,000 women coming through the gates, but the rose-bedecked float provided by H. J. Mills Co. Ltd. must have met a different crowd as it was stripped of every bloom by early evening.

Wherever you looked in the grounds throughout the day there were clusters of Richmond Hill hats identifying those celebrating their day at the largest annual exhibition in the world.

CAVALCADE

The cavalcade was somewhat late in arriving at the Princes' Gates where they were awaited by CNE President Doug Palmer, a former Richmond Hill resident, the Richvale Lions Majorettes and the Pipes and Drums of the 4th Gurkha Regiment, those stout-hearted, courageous, short-statured warriors from Nepal. Each member of the band was presented with a Richmond Hill Centennial Medalion.

CITY HALL

On the way the ancient vehicles were the target for cameras, particularly at Toronto City Hall where a pause was made while the members of council, led by Mayor William Lazenby, and joined by MP Barney Danson of North York and MLA William Hodgson of North York were greeted and went upstairs to sign the guest book, and the mayor was presented with a set of Toronto cufflinks.

As the parade wound its way through the midway and past the grandstand on its way to the Princess Margaret Fountain and the Queen Elizabeth Building one young lad, taking in the straw boaters worn by "who in the parade asked, "Who do you think you are? Colonel Saunders?"

Mr. Gilbert continued with his third point, which was that married women should not greet their husbands at the door with a report of all the day's tribulations. "No wonder some men stay downtown for dinner," he said. He suggested that women take an active part in the community and then they would be able to have enjoyable conversations with their husbands.

In summing up he urged women to fight for stimulation of intellect, to fight together for the rights of all women and particularly to fight for freedom of choice, respecting the rights of all women to make a choice between being a homemaker, a mother and a wife or of being a career woman.

During the afternoon many Richmond Hill people visited the president's suite where members of council served as hosts.

Mayor Lazenby also participated in the 6:30 show of the Fiji Island fire dancers. No, he didn't walk on the hot stones but he did drink the potent kava. By this time the temperature had dropped bylow 60 degrees and the Fijians were shivering in the unaccustomed cold weather before entering the firepit. It was evident that they and the audience at that end of the site appreciated the warmth from the heated stones.

All through the day and evening, Richmond Hillites were easily identified by their hats as they visited the many new and old attractions at the "Ex" — the Aquarama, the Calgary Corral, the Russian display, the Coliseum and its Shoppers' Market, the Midway and the Armed Forces Display. They were particularly noticeable at the musical programs presented from 2 am to 9 pm with the Richmond Hill Concert Band, the York Chorale, the York Chorale, the Thornhill Barbershoppers and the Nostalgia Band receiving applause and compliments from the large crowds.

The Richmond Hill Rotarians and their ladies enjoyed dinner in the Queen Elizabeth Building in the evening.

Former Minister At Gormley Now Serves Kitchener Church

Rev. Lloyd Sider who served the Gormley Missionary Church as minister for several years in the mid-sixties is now pastor of Evangelical Missionary Church, Spadina Road West, Kitchener, which was featured recently in an article in the Kitchener-Waterloo Record.

This church, opened in 1950 is described as an evangelical, conservative church trying to meet the spiritual needs of its members. Mr. Sider said Evangelical also considers itself a neighborhood church even though many members and adherents come from every direction in the Twin City area.

In describing the church as evangelical, he said what is meant is accepting the Bible as the inerrant word of God — "The only source of revelation of Jesus Christ and of God and that through Christ alone man comes to the knowledge of God and eternal salvation."

The congregation and the denomination are strong in the support of missions, giving more than $4,800 last year for this purpose. Music plays a large part in the services with emphasis on participation by the congregation.

The Women's Missionary Society raises money to support mission work and organizes many activities including devotional programs and social functions.

Youth fellowship activities are basically devotional but include suitable social activities. The After-School Bible Club is popular with elementary school children.

Mr. Sider said the church takes a strong interest in the whole needs of the people with special emphasis on the spiritual. Emphasis is given to the corruption of man's nature by the fall, to the redemption and regeneration of man through Christ and to free and unmerited grace.

Stouffville area youths face multiple charges after a York Regional Police officer was jumped and beaten while on foot patrol near the local secondary school, Constable Cal Mayo suffered scrapes, bruises and lacerations. The five accused were later arrested and face charges of assaulting police, assisting escape from custody, having liquor, being drunk in a public place and one charge of minor consumption of alcohol.
