Dining Out

Having been out of town on business a great deal this summer, I felt it my (duty?) on a recent trip home to eat out after a bit of shopping.

Driving up Yonge Street, we noticed the Trio Steak House Tavern in Aurora and decided to eat there. We didn't want anything too fancy or expensive, but just a good meal for the six of us.

I ordered a hot chicken sandwich at $2.75 and one of my daughters ordered the same from the children's menu at $1.75. When the meal came, both hot chicken sandwiches were exactly the same with no more in the adult portion than in the child's. I felt the price rather stiff for a few slices of chicken on bread with a scoop of mashed potatoes and corn, covered with gravy. But the final blow came when I was charged extra for a rice pudding dessert and for our tea. Actually the desserts (jello for the children) and drinks were all extra with none being included in the meal price.

The fact that our waitress was extremely pleasant and friendly was one point in the restaurant's favor.

Hire Ron Patchell Interim Engineer

King Township Council has approved the hiring of Ron Patchell of the firm of Totten, Sims & Hubicki to act as interim consultant engineer.

Mr. Patchell will be appointed until such time a permanent appointment has been made to replace former engineer Wayne Bando. His salary terms will be negotiable. Mr. Bando has taken a position with the Region of York.

It was pointed out that Mr. Bando had agreed to continue to give assistance regarding certain outstanding projects in the municipality.

Council also agreed that Mr. Patchell should provide overall supervision of the road construction on "Concession" and that a representative of the firm of Totten, Sims Hubicki act as an onsite supervisor for the construction project.

In other business, council agreed to request York Region Engineer Department to provide comments on how the Dufferin Street and King City Sideroad could be improved from a safety standpoint.

Requested its roads foreman to install the necessary school crossing signs and lines on the roads opposite the schools in the marsh area.

The request for such signs had been made by Councillor Jack Van Luyk who specified the area in front of the Christian School and the school on the Graham Sideroad.

studies. Details can be easily obtained by calling the admissions office at 884-9901.

A variety of programs, for and about families, is a feature of Seneca's King Campus Continuing Education Program this Fall.

Families who want to learn together can involve themselves in two ways: by enrolling in (at the special family rate) in such subjects as Family Camping, Naturalist Program, and Play the Recorder OR participating in the new Saturday Semester. There's something for everyone Saturday mornings at Seneca King: from Pre-ski Calisthenics to Ceramics to Car Care for the homeowner.

With the rising cost of food and increasing concern for nutrition, subjects entitled Eat Better—Spend Less and Nutrition for Today's Families are expected to be popular. Decisions in Dressmaking and Nursing Care in the Home will meet other family needs. Those who wish to reflect on the role of the family today will be interested in such subjects as Reflections: Images of Women and Dynamics of Living.

Corrections

In our column of "Information on King City" which appeared September 13, we regretfully made a few errors. First, Linda Jeppeson is the president of the Figure Skating Association not the chairman.

The King City Development Centre which was a drop-in centre for teens is no longer in existence due to the lack of adult volunteer support.

And last of all, Kingcraft House membership is by inquiry. This group is attempting to banish the image that membership is only for the elite and skilled. Not so! Anyone interested in joining the group need only write to Box 133, King City. President is Mrs. Teen Chalk.

Although errors are upsetting, both to the person or group concerned, and to ourselves, we would much rather be given the opportunity of

$500 United Appeal Request Questioned By King Council

The Region of York United Appeal received a $2,400 grant from regional council but would like each of the municipalities to contribute an additional $500 or a grant based on per capita or on assessment basis.

This latter request didn't sit to well with King Township Mayor Margaret Britnell at a council meeting Monday afternoon of last week.

"I was under the impression that the $2,400 was all the Appeal was asking for its funds from the municipalities," she said. "I'm surprised they're here asking for more money from us."

It was aerecent committee meeting that the Appeal Committee was reported to have announced that a budget of $6,000 was needed for the next 12 months and $2,400 of this had been granted by the Region of York and $500 by the Town of Vaughan.

Representatives of each of the municipalities on the committee were asked to approach their municipal grants for a grant of $500 or a grant based on per capita or on assessment basis.

King's representative, Len Osin, later appeared before council's committee.

It was at this time that Mayor Britnell pointed out that she thought that the $2,400 granted by the region was the full amount needed by the United Appeal Committee.

Council agreed to defer the matter until Mayor Britnell had an opportunity to ascertain if the grant submitted by the region was understood to be the total amount of the United Appeal Committee's needs for the next 12 months.

Who Wants A Gravel Pit? Not King's Marg Britnell

King Township Council Mayor Margaret Britnell tended to bristle slightly Monday night of last week when the subjects of gravel pits came up in council.

"It's the same old story," she told "The Liberal." "Everyone has got to have gravel pits when it's been proven in other things that it isn't always necessarily so. It's just more convenient."

Her comments came in the wake of an application by Gormley Sand and Gravel to operate a 300-acre tract in the Glenville area of the municipality.

The company has purchased the area from York Sand and Gravel operations which already contains existing sand pits.

Gormley Sand Gravel is making application to the Ministry of Natural Resources for licences to operate and expand the existing sand pits.

It was pointed out at an earlier committee meeting that under the provisions of the township's Official Plan the pits are legal non-conforming and technically legal.

This didn't satisfy Mayor Britnell who has visions of gravel pits suddenly sprouting all over the municipality.

Councillor Murray Sheardown noted the operation would be legal adding that there was a scarcity of such gravel pits which are needed in the construction of roads.

Mayor Britnell stated there are "other ways of building roads if there is enough interest shown in finding out the ways."

She suggested that one way might be "found by using ground glass for road material."

This seemed to surprise Mr. Sheardown who recovered quickly to observe that "glass is made from sand which really amounts to the same thing."

"Well, let's start recycling glass," countered Mayor Britnell.

Councillor Jack Van Luyk observed somewhat facetiously that King's road would be "shining affairs" if they were made out of glass.

Council agreed to discuss the matter further with a spokesman for Gormley Sand and Gravel at its next committee meeting.

Married 40 Years At Home To Friends

Forty years of happy marriage were celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson recently. They were "at home" to approximately 100 relatives and friends who enjoyed the informal occasions at Wesley United Church, Vandorf.

The Richardsons were married by Rev. Garnet Lynd of the Temperanceville Charge, at the Ruben Street manse in Aurora, September 9, 1933.

Mr. Richardson served several years on the council and as reeve of Whitechurch Township.
