All Are Invited To Lloydtown Rebellion Day

Lloydtown Rebellion Day, October 13, is planned to serve a dual purpose—to entertain the public and to raise funds for the King Township Historical Society to use in restoring and preserving historical sites in the community founded more than 150 years ago.

An impressive program has been arranged, with events that will appeal to young and old alike, with adventurous and exciting entertainment and displays of arts and crafts that sustained the early settlers in the area.

The military will be represented by the Queen's York Rangers (1st American) under command of Lieutenant Colonel Michael Stevenson, and the Fort York Guard. The Queen's York Rangers are the oldest regiment in Canada. Established as a British regiment in what is now the United States, the Rangers came north with other Loyalists following the successful American Revolution of 1776.

Also participating in the day's festivities will be the Tecumseh Ridge Runners, a pioneer group with members from several municipalities in the area. They will be demonstrating antique musketry, tomahawk and knife throwing.

A local antique furniture buff, Basil Self will display hand carved furniture, and Ron Finchem, who had to move his harness shop to Nobleton when his land in the Town of Markham was expropriated for the new airport, will display saddlery and harness making. Other interesting displays will show antique cars, an antique steam engine, an art show and children's crafts and school work.

There will be an antique auction and sale of pioneer foods.

The public will be invited to take part in the pioneer children's games and period costume parade.

There are many more events planned for the day, says historical society Secretary Mrs. Penny Raniowski, and there will be plenty of off-road parking available along the 191 Side-road (Lloydtown Road). Admission is $1 for people over 12. Those under 12 and those wearing period costume will be admitted free.

With proceeds from the event the historical society hopes to start work on restoring the old Indian Carrying Trail and sites of historical significance along the way, says Mrs. Raniowski. The Carrying Trail from the Humber River to Lake Simcoe was, the society believes, the first road built in Canada. The native people and early settlers travelled along waterways, by rivers, lakes and portage.

The history of Lloydtown has been pretty consistently ignored until recently, as has been the case in most early Canadian communities. It was not until this past year that the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board saw fit to commemorate the founder of the hamlet southeast as Schomberg in King Township and to erect a commemorative plaque near the site of the grist mill built by Jesse Lloyd, who came to Upper Canada from Pennsylvania in 1812. Other settlers quickly followed and with the erection of a saw mill and woolen mill the community grew. In 1831 a post office was established with the official name of Lloydtown.

Even if he had not founded Lloydtown, Jesse Lloyd is deserving of a place in Canadian history. He was one of four lieutenants of William Lyon Mackenzie, who led the abortive rebellion against the Family Compact that controlled Upper Canada in 1837.

Frustrated at the failure of the legislature to make any attempt to gain a greater degree of independence from Britain for the people of Upper Canada, rural settlers were willing followers of Mackenzie in his attempt to overthrow the established heads of the colony.

Business and professional people throughout York County and beyond were also instrumental in protesting the stranglehold the Family Compact had on the legislature, and on December 6, 1837 they set forth to make their attack on the seat of government.

Lloyd and his friends were joined by Samuel Lount, also a Pennsylvania Quaker, who had settled in Holland Landing in 1811 and was for a time a member of the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada.

The two led a march of 50 men armed with ancient muskets and pike staves down Yonge Street.

They were joined by David Gibson, a surveyor and member of the legislature, who had recruited sympathizers from the southerly parts of the county, and by a group led by Silas

Fletcher of Pickering.

Word of the impending attack reached government forces and the rebels were met at Montgomery's Tavern further down Yonge Street by the Queen's York Rangers and quickly routed.

Lount was captured and executed on April 12, 1838, but Lloyd, Gibson and Mackenzie fled to the U.S. Lloyd died in exile a year later at the age of 53, leaving his wife and 11 children in Lloydtown. A few years later the others were pardoned. Mackenzie returned and was elected first Mayor of Toronto (formerly York) and Gibson became the first postmaster of Willowdale, following an appeal to Ottawa and suggesting a name for the rapidly growing community. His home behind the present Willowdale Post Office is now a pioneer museum.

Although the attack on York was abortive, the rebellion did lead to many of the reforms the rebels were asking for.

And so on October 13, the descendants of Jesse Lloyd and his neighbors will be joined by their ancient enemies, the Queen's York Rangers, in celebrating Lloydtown Rebellion Day. The historical society hope to make the event an annual affair which will stimulate interest in the history of the community and aid them in their efforts to preserve and restore what remains of the early settlement.

For further information contact Mrs. Raniowski, 939-2195, or Miss Marion Ilihan, recreation co-ordinator for King Township at 833-5321.

Church Notes

Work is progressing nicely on the new building at the church, with the roof now on, and much of the outside work being done. Hopes are to have it finished in time for the anniversary service on October 14 at 11:00 am.

Guest speaker for the service will be Rev. Gordon Winch of Toronto, formerly of St. Paul's United, Lake Wilcox who now works with the Distress Centre. Music will be provided by The Harmonies of Gormley. Following the service, there will be a coffee hour, and all members, friends and former residents are invited to attend.

The Afternoon Unit of the UCW met at the home of Mrs. Ray Jennings on September 27, with Unit Leader Mrs. Gordon Hampton in charge of the meeting. Devotions were led by Mrs. Everett Phillips with the theme "Light Of The World". Rev. Arthur Thomson was present, and continued the theme as it concerns our daily life, at home, in the church, the Presbytery and on to the national level.

The upcoming October 24 Turkey Dinner was discussed, and tickets will be available in the very near future from members. The date for the Fall Rally of York Presbytery was announced for November 6, at Nobleton.

Sunday school sessions are held each Sunday during the hour of church service, and junior choir rehearsals are held each Thursday evening at 7:00 pm. Any children interested in either or both of these times will be most welcome.

Neighbors and friends met at the church on September 26, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wells, who are moving at the end of this week to their new home near Milverton. After a few games of euchre, Mr. and Mrs. Wells were presented with a bridge set, (table and chairs). Wilbert Jennings gave the address, and the gift was presented by Everett Phillips and Charles Henshaw. Mrs. Ray Jennings presented, on behalf of the Afternoon Unit of the UCW a small remembrance of the many years of service to our group. Mr. and Mrs. Wells both thanked the group very sincerely. Rev. Arthur Thomson spoke briefly, wishing them well in their new surroundings. Rev. and Mrs. Thomson entertained with a short musical program. Prize winners in the euchre games were ladies, first Doreen Mitchell, second Ann Hutchinson, third Evelyn Jennings. Gentlemen, first Bill Mitchell, second James Gillham, and third Wilfred James. Travelling prize was won by Everett Phillips. The evening was convoked by Ann Phillips and Grace Jennings.

Members of the Rumble, Davis and Aitchison Families met on September 23 to honor Dan Davis and Cheryl Aitchison, who will be married on October 27, with a picnic lunch and shower. Due to the weather, the party had to be held indoors, and was moved from the Humber Trails Conservation Area to the school room at the church. Best wishes to this happy couple.

Friends were deeply shocked when it was learned that the Alex Bishop of Maple had passed away suddenly on Monday evening September 24. Our sincere sympathy to his wife and family in their loss.

Miss Catharine James spent the weekend with Miss Susan Law near Peterboro.

Mrs. Ray Jennings accompanied laides from the Aurora and Snowball Womens' Institute on a bus trip to Stoney Creek and the Hamilton area on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Phillips had their grandchildren, Stephanie and Stephen Sears of Whitby for the weekend, and all their family for dinner on Sunday evening.

Community Life In King City Area

Showbiz

Theatre Aurora held a late summer BBQ on September 22 at the Kingcross home of Anne and Strath Wilson. A head count was difficult as people came, went and roamed throughout the evening, but I'd say about 45 guests attended.

The crackling logs in the family room fireplace became a choice spot to warm up for those who found the night air breezes of the Wilson's patio too much.

Salads, rolls, etc. were prepared by Edie Henry and some of the other women members, providing side dishes for everyone's steak, sausages or hamburger.

The party gave everyone a chance to say hello after the summer, to discuss one's vacations and to ponder the upcoming productions of Theatre Aurora.

Many people say that "silence is golden", and if so, the MASK Dance held at All Saints Anglican Church on September 21 must have been 24 carat. In short, the band never showed up.

The Men of All Saints, King (MASK) presented "September Swing" with a decorated hall and a lot of guests (at $4.50 each), were embarrassed when George Cowie's Orchestra never appeared. By ten o'clock it became evident that someone would have to hum, sing or play a harmonica if anyone was going to dance. The lack of a stage microphone made any announcements to explain the situation quite difficult for Hugo Walker and Al Rollinson to do. Mr. Walker offered a full refund for those who wished to leave, although he pointed out that the dance was one of a series being held to raise $5,000.

I think that a great many guests didn't know whether to cry, get angry, or laugh, but finally the music, compliments of John Ball and his tape deck, began to fill the auditorium.

In good spirits, most people had a good time, and although some grumbled, and the ladies said "if they had managed it etc. etc.", the dance went on.

The buffet was delicious; one of the best that we've ever enjoyed at a function of this sort. The caterers were Leesons of 769 St. Clair Avenue, and the maitre d' of the MASK Dance was John Logue.

Travelaugh

As many of our King readers know, your correspondent spends much of the week on business in Northern Ontario and it is only through the talents of my wife, Donna, that this column has been "where it's at" all summer.

One thing that I've noticed in the small towns up north is that per capita, there is an absence of men with long hair. The first thing that strikes me in my travels is all the ears, sticking awkwardly out on both sides of men's heads, sometimes supporting eyeglasses. Women, for years, have predominantly covered ears with their coiffures, and men's new hair styles in our big cities likewise covers these odd hearing devices.

But elsewhere, in our Northern Ontario towns, barbers are still cutting hair short, and ears are sticking out in their nakedness. I had almost forgotten what they looked like, what with their ripples and folds, and question mark shape.

The only other ears I've seen this summer are those growing on stalks in the farmers' fields and this "Travelaugh" is almost as corny.

I usually stay in one of Sudbury's dens of iniquity where half naked hostesses serve fire water in a darkened atmosphere. Hidden away, as usual, in my hotel room several steps away is the Gideon Bible which haunts my room nightly. To offset the worldly temptations of the cocktail lounge, the promoters of rightful doings have stepped up their crusade. A book entitled "Touched By The Fire" published by the Canadian Bible Society, has now joined my drawer along with the Gideon Bible, an Air Canada schedule, writing paper, and a dead moth.

Donna's Bits & Pieces

Taking a roundabout way to my favorite discount store to purchase odds and ends, I drove through the new BAIF Subdivision of new homes situated southwest of Richmond Hill off Yonge Street. Horrors!

Is this typical of housing of the future? The houses are reminiscent of wartime housing on a grander scale. The lots seem to be particularly narrow, and the building material is dull-toned aluminum siding, some with brick trim. What I assumed was the cheaper ($45-$50,000) model had a single car garage tacked on the front. The front door entrance had less stature than most back doors.

These are only my impressions of this subdivision. Obviously some people are willing to buy these homes as some, are occupied. I'd be interested in hearing other people's impressions. In my opinion, it makes the new houses being built in King look palatial.

Help needed! A young student from Maple—in a wheelchair—with a government grant, is looking for transportation to George Brown College on Bathurst and College. Anyone going his way? Please call Flo Urry at 833-6890.

Get well wishes are sent to Mrs. Clifford Marsh and Mrs. Harold Wood.

Congratulations to Mrs. Genevieve Chornenki of RR3,

King on winning the $10 food voucher donated by Safeway Stores in the Liberal Recipe Contest.

Mrs. Chornenki won with her recipe for Good Cookies. Her recipe for Trout Meuniere was also published.

Mrs. Alex Knight had recipes for Apple Chutney, Walnut Fudge, Red Devil's Food Cake, and Bakewell Tart published.

Mayor Margaret Britnell's Applesauce Cake with Brown Butter Frosting was also included in the publication.

Coming up is the Good Morning Group Rummage Sale on October 20. Please remember them when you do your fall cleaning and sort out the children's toys in readiness for Christmas. Call 832-1579 and a pick-up can be arranged.

October's big social event in King is the cancer society's second annual Pub Night, held at King Valley Ski Centre on Jane Street. Featured are "The Peaches" (a shapely trio) with Art Sneider and Socialist Pat Riccio. A lovely buffet is included in your ticket and the ladies of the cancer society have been busy baking to ensure a tempting array of goodies. Tickets are $10 a couple and available from members or Beth Tedford at 833-6875 and Shirley Ormsby at 833-6327.

CWL meeting on October 9, 8 pm at Sacred Heart School. Everyone welcome. A film featuring Bishop Fulton Sheen will be shown.

Women's Institute meeting on October 9.

GMG meeting Wednesday morning, October 10 with Mr. Charles Labarge of Bell Canada as guest speaker.

King City United—"Soup and Bible" Class will begin in October for all high schoolers interested in being confirmed. Although this is primarily a confirmation class, anyone in high school may attend. The meetings will be held at the supper hour on a night agreeable to the young people, so as not to conflict with other meetings or homework.

The King-Teston-Laskay OATS hold their meeting tonight. Guest speaker is Dr. Douglas Pimlott of Richmond Hill, a well-known naturalist.

Good Morning Group

On Wednesday morning, Regional Police Constables Hawthorne and Young visited the GMG to talk about Law Enforcement Work and Safety in Schools.

Constable Hawthorne discussed what the police can do for you and what you can do for the police.

He then showed a film entitled "Every Hour - Every Day" with narration by TV and film star Danny Thomas. Although an American film, it was very good and touched briefly upon Canadian Law Enforcement showing the RCMP and a few scenes of Canada.

After the film Constable Hawthorne answered questions most of which were concerned with safety regulations regarding children, school buses and regulations and bicycle riding.

He recommended that a child be 9 to 10 years of age before being allowed to take a bike into traffic.

A child can, in theory, be given a summons for improper handling of his vehicle (bike) and not following the rules of the road, although in reality an officer would hesitate to do this as the child then has to be charged under the Juvenile Delinquents Act and not as a simple traffic offence. Perhaps this law should be revised.

This year, in York Region there have been so far 48 accidents involving children on bikes, including four fatalities.

Bike safety is taught in schools from grades 4 to 6. The safety bureau staff has recently been increased from two to six so that now the officers can visit the classrooms three times a year and enlarge their scope to include kindergarten to grade 8.

President Chris Newland thanked the constables.

Your correspondent was recently corrected for having included the King Coalition in our list of groups in the area. We're told that the group has been disbanded for almost two years. (Strangely enough, the MASK Dance tickets of September 21 still list the Coalition as one of the community groups.)

Music

The Chamber Players of Toronto, sponsored by St. Andrew's College and friends of music, invite you to a concert on October 12 at 8:30 pm at the Kenneth Ketchum Auditorium, St. Andrew's College, Aurora.

The Chamber Players of Toronto Orchestra, now in their sixth eminently successful season. The 15 players themselves are all professional musicians, most of them teachers at the Faculty of Music, U. of T., or the Royal Conservatory of Music, or in the music departments of the Metro Toronto school systems. They are all members of the Musicians' Union.

Above all, the players and their director Victor Martin reflect their enthusiasm and sensitivity for chamber music by creating the authentic sound of great music. Directed, not from the podium, but from the first chair by Victor

Martin, the group achieves the true sense of ensemble which is so necessary for the proper interpretation of chamber music.

The program will include Vivaldi - Concerto in sol maggiore, H. I. Franz Biber - Ballalaia, J. S. Bach - Violin Concerto No. 2 in E major, Soloist Victor Martin Turina - La Oracion del totero, Elgar - Serenade op. 20, MacMillan - Two Sketches, Bartok - Rumanian Folk Dances.

There are 450 seats available; do not delay in getting your tickets; the two series in Toronto have already been completely sold out. Tickets: Adults—$2.00. Students with cards—$1.00. Available from the Music Shack and Baldwin's Pharmacy in Aurora.

Lount Honored

A plaque to commemorate Samuel Lount, who was hanged for high treason in 1838 was unveiled September 22 at Holland Landing. Officiating at the ceremony at Holland Landing Conservation area was Justice Dalton Wells, chief justice of the High Court of Ontario, whose great-grandmother was a sister of Lount.

A blacksmith and member of the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada, Lount was one of the leaders of the rebellion organized by William Lyon Mackenzie in 1837 in opposition to the tyrannical rule of the Family Compact, an elitist group that at the time headed the government of Upper Canada.

Lount made the pikes carried by many of the farmer-rebels on their march down Yonge Street and at the time of his trial and death was described by neighbors as "a kind and friendly man".
