Police Chief 'Under Gun' At Thornhill Traffic Control 'Nil' Henderson, Proctor

If York Regional Police Chief Bruce Crawford wasn't previously aware of any traffic problems on Henderson and Proctor Avenues in South Thornhill he certainly is now.

Motorists beware. Chief Crawford was under the gun, albeit friendly, October 1 at the South Thornhill Ratepayers' Association meeting at Henderson Public School.

The chief was on hand to participate in a public discussion regarding "traffic abuses" on the above-named avenues.

Maurice Sanders, a Proctor Avenue resident, led off proceedings by complaining about speeding cars on Proctor, heavy truck traffic in violation of a bylaw forbidding same.

"This is a very serious problem and the police just don't seem to be able to do anything about it," he said. "Do we have to wait until some child is killed before we get any action?"

Mr. Sanders said that ratepayers had petitioned for a 25mile-per-hour speed limit on Proctor and "when we got it the police gave us good protection for the first six months.

Now we never see them.' He said a similar situation applied to heavy trucks which "the police stopped consistently for awhile but never seem to bother with anymore."

Mr. Sanders illustrated the speeding problem by saying that the street "further aggravating the problem." Mr. Sanders asserted that "if the police are unable to give us the proper protection council should allow Proctor and Henderson Avenues to go back to their original status as dead-end

This brought an outburst of applause from the audience.

Mr. Sanders also railed about the lack of sidewalks on Proctor (which is not a police responsibility).

"There are a lot of children, small children, walking these roads and it's only a matter of time before someone gets killed."

Mr. Sanders made several suggestions including an increase in unmarked police cars in the area and ask that consideration be given toward turning the two avenues into one-way streets.

"I just don't think the police will be able to control traffic in this area in another year the way it's building up," he said. * * *

Nick Belak of Henderson Avenue had similar complaints regarding the truck travel, congested traffic, and public buses using the roads.

Chief Crawford told the audience that he was "quite appreciative of your concern in the area and I realize it's a very serious concern and I sympathize with you."

He disagreed with one comment regarding the poorer police protection since it was recognized.

"If anything raises the hackles on my back is for someone to say we're not getting the police protection we had a few years ago.

South Thornhill Ratepayers' Association Chairman Jack Galbraith said later that the association "is very appreciative at the way Chief Crawford reacted to our complaints and the attention he gave them. He has contacted several ratepayers personally on the matter to indicate his interest in our problem."

The discussion on traffic abuses was one of a number held at the meeting and which involved high density development, taxes, etc.

Councillors Bob Adams, Gary Kay and Roy Muldrew were on hand via invitations. Invited but absent was Regional Councillor Harry Crisp.

Mr. Galbraith said Mayor Anthony Roman had not been officially invited to attend that meeting but had expressed his interest in the problems facing the ratepayers.
