Unknown Thief Tried To Enter Bayview Bank

Richmond Hill nearly closed out 1973 with its first bank robbery of the year, but fortunately it came to nought.

According to York Regional Police, someone tried to break into the Imperial Bank of Commerce, 441 Bayview Avenue, sometime between December 25 and 26 by removing the lock cylinder from the front door.

George Richardson of Brinks Security, discovered the lock on the ground and notified police.

No entry was gained to the building.

Attending Christmas Eve Service at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Richmond Hill, proved costly to Rev. Robert Smith, 21 Centre Street East.

Mr. Smith discovered $60 missing from his wallet, which he had left in his coat on entering the church.

Suffering a similar fate was an employee with Thornhill Post Office, 7757 Yonge Street, who accidentally left $108 in cash on a shelf at the main counter December 22.

When he returned shortly afterwards the money was gone.

Three other residents of Thornhill, who all live in the same apartment block at 20 Clark Avenue, found that it wasn't only Santa Claus who had been in their neighborhood in the past week.

Most prominently visited was Raymond Craber, whose storage locker was broken into and golf clubs and an aquarium worth $200 were taken.

Marion Palmer, No. 414, had $140 damage inflicted on her car, which was parked on a lot at the Clark Avenue address.

Two floors up, Katherine Lessik, had her locker broken into. Stolen were eight regulation hockey sticks, a three-foot toy tiger, a 3-foot toy dog, and a 2 1/2-foot toy mouse.

"There is a bomb in your house," was the anonymous warning received by Andrew Funston, 86 Hillside Drive, Richmond Hill, December 30, about 5:45.

The caller hung up immediately and police were called. However, a check of both the house and grounds proved negative.

Christmas week was also rough on local policemen.

Both Police Constable Rick Metcalfe and Detective Douglas Strong were kicked after apprehending a man seen smashing a window in one of the units at Summit Motel, Yonge Street North in Richmond Hill also December 28.

The man also made a dive out of the police cruiser, but was immediately recaptured.

Arrested and facing charges of malicious damage, assaulting police, escaping custody, common assault and an earlier charge of false pretences, was Raymond Wirtanen, no-fixed abode.

Also assaulted was Police Constable Alexander Ryrie, who was kicked in the elbow by a man he was taking to the cells December 30, about 3:10 pm.

Arrested and facing charges of theft and possession under $200, and assaulting police, was Wayne King, 22, of 8187 Yonge Street.

Appeal Court Okays Browndale Homes In Residential Areas

The right of emotionally disturbed children receiving treatment in therapeutic family homes in residential areas zoned for single family dwellings has been upheld by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

In a judgment handed down December 7, the court dismissed an appeal by the City of Barrie against an earlier Ontario Supreme Court judgment which had sought and been denied an injunction against Browndale, an organization providing treatment for emotionally disturbed children in home-like surroundings in Southern Ontario.

The appeal court Judge J. A. Dubin in upholding Browndale's right to buy and rent houses in areas zoned R2 and R3, said "It is important of (Browndale's) program for the social rehabilitation of emotionally disturbed children that the children be assisted by living in a family atmosphere in a residential area."

Children receiving treatment at Browndale live in groups of four or five boys and girls of varying ages in homes indistinguishable from others in the area, including a house in the south Oak Ridges area.

They are cared for by young male and female therapeutic parenting staff trained by Browndale. Available to these staff at all times for consultation and help is a Browndale resource bank of experts in child care treatment.

An evaluation study by clinical psychologist Dr. Otto Weininger published in 1972 showed a success rate of 89 percent in such a setting. The basic concept of the treatment method is in assisting the children to learn to adapt to a normal family life style.

In summing up, Judge Dubin said, "It is therefore clear to me that the premises under consideration in this appeal falls squarely within the relevant permitted use in these zones . . .

"The premises are being used for the care and upbringing of these children in the same manner as if they were being used by parents with special expertise to deal with their children who had similar emotional problems.

"The resource group is composed of experts to whom such parents would themselves turn for help when needed," said Judge Dubin. "Although the persons on the premises are unrelated, they fall within the definition of "Family" in section 3.28 of the by-law. It follows therefore, that the plaintiff (the city of Barrie) has failed to show that the premises are being used for a use not permitted by the by-law and the action fails."

WHEN IS THE BEST TIME TO TALK ABOUT MONEY?

Harry Sadler, F.R.I.
The sooner the better.

Unless a home buyer can work out the money angle, all other considerations become so much confusion.

Buyers should bear in mind that complete frankness in revealing their financial capabilities to their Realtor is the best form of self protection from getting in over their heads.

What is the realistic amount that your family can carry comfortably in mortgage payments? The figure should be calculated after deducting all of the family's living expenses and should include the taxes, maintenance and new furnishings, if required, of their proposed new home.

The sooner that a family knows this figure and has discussed it frankly with an experienced and reputable Realtor, the less likely they are to blunder into buying more house than they can handle.

Buy a house to live richer. A good, comfortable house can enhance your life, your sense of family achievement, your security and well being.

But if you overspend to buy it — even unintentionally, you may lose these benefits. You could wind up with fewer satisfactions and a lower living standard. You could be house poor.

See you next week.

NURSERY SCHOOL DAY CARE TEACHERS

An on-campus day care centre will become operational at the King Campus of Seneca College early in the new year. It will serve as a field placement setting for students in the Early Childhood Education program as well as provide a day care facility for the community.

Applications are therefore invited from persons who have completed a two-year diploma course in Early Childhood Education or its equivalent, and have had experience in pre-school and/or infant and toddler settings. Successful candidates will be responsible for a group of children, for planning curricula suitable for individuals as well as for the group, and for incorporating students-in-training in their overall program. Ability and willingness to teach part-time within the diploma course framework would be an additional asset.

Persons interested in these challenging positions at the college's King Campus should apply in writing to the President.

BAIF Centre Starts Sept.

Confirmation of the $500,000 low-cost, long-term loan for construction of a community recreation centre and library in the BAIF educational-recreational complex, has been received this week from Barney Danson MP, York North.

Mr. Danson reports the approximate size of the proposed buildings is 75,000 square feet and will include a 30,000-square-foot arena, a 10,400-square-foot swimming pool, a 5,000-square-foot library, along with meeting and game rooms.

The loan is under the Liberal Winter Capital Projects Fund and all labor costs on the construction site incurred between December 1 and May 31 are deducted from the loan as well as 50% of the labor costs during the remaining six months of the year.

According to Mr. Danson's construction is due to commence in September 1974.
