Mrs. Earl Lowe, unit leader, conducted the business part of the meeting and plans were discussed for the coming year.

King's Rebels
Ever since the King Township Historical Society erected a cairn in Lloydtown (September 24, 1972), much has been said about Jesse Lloyd's part in the Rebellion of 1837. But who were the others from King Township who followed this rebel supporter of William Lyon Mackenzie?

Well, in checking some of the old records, we found that in the proclamation of October 22, 1838 (which offered amnesty to the participants in the rebellion) three names are named: Joseph Borden, Edmond Quirk and Thomas Storrow Brown.

Information on these "shapers of history" is sparse but we were able to obtain some insight into the men's backgrounds. Joseph Borden was an emigrant from the United States in the year 1800 and purchased property on Concession 8, King Township. He and his wife raised a family of three, remaining on that property until his death in 1868. His son, Thomas, bought land on Lot 25, Concession 6, which he cultivated until 1883 (at which time he retired to a new residence in Lloydtown). Thomas married Jane Dale of King in 1857 and together they had eight children.

Thomas Brown is mentioned by name in several records but the only information available about a participant in the Rebellion is about a man named John R. Brown. The latter came to Canada in 1830 from Ireland and was eventually arrested for complicity in the rebellion. He was imprisoned for eight months and afterwards banished from the country. After two years he returned and purchased Lot 26 on Concession 8 of King for which he paid the princely sum of $8 per acre. In 1840 he married Mary Price, a native of Pennsylvania and had 11 children.

Chappel Orlin was born in New York State in 1810, came to Canada and settled on Lot 26, Concession 3, which was all bush. In 1837 he married Melinda Heacock by whom he had three children. During the Mackenzie Revolt he was arrested and confined for one week by a Captain Guthrie. On one of the old maps of King Township, we notice that his first name is spelled Chappell.

John Fleury was the son of Joseph Fleury who purchased Lot 69 on Concession 1 in 1815. John was born in 1818 and in 1837 took up arms in support of the Rebellion. He was taken prisoner and suffered confinement for a short period. In 1840 he married Esther Harman and had 16 children (10 of whom lived to adulthood).

Naturally, not everyone in King was in favor of the uprising and one such person was Richard Perry of Lot 24, Concession 7, Born in Ireland in 1797, he settled in King in 1831 and was described in one journal as "young, vigorous and active". Perry had a genuine attachment for old-fashioned political ideas and had a dislike for the Reform element which culminated in the 1837 Rebellion. At the commencement of the war, he saw the rebels with their pikes painted red and heard them uttering treasonable, menacing words. Perry and his son spent all night preparing 65 rounds of ball cartridges and before dawn, reported to Colonel Dusen at Bend Head prepared to meet the insurgents.

Recreation Head
Miss Marian Iliohan has recently been appointed full-time recreation co-ordinator for King Township.

This appointment was made by the recreation committee with the approval of council.

Miss Iliohan is a native of King, at present living in Schomberg. She graduated from King City Secondary School and then took a two-year Recreation Certificate Course at Humber College.

Her immediate plans include a report on a recent random survey taken in King Township focusing on the recreational needs of King residents. The replies the survey received showed a high request for tennis courts and a swimming pool. She would like to see the arena (KCCC) used for indoor tennis courts during the summer months.

Government grants are available to township groups and it is Miss Iliohan's job to ascertain their needs. This year, grants were given to the local Brownies, Girl Guides and Scouts.

She hopes to set up a variety of recreation programs on a trial basis to find out what the citizens really want and what they will support.

When time permits she enjoys playing tennis and skiing and working with the youngsters in the summer playground programs.

Miss Iliohan is to be wed in April and will take up residence in Nobleton.

Her office is located in the basement of the township offices on King Sideroad where she is available to assist and advise on the recreation of King Township.

Natalie Wood played the part of a very prim and composed Mary in the Christmas Pageant presented at the King City Co-operative Nursery School Christmas Concert. Here the delightful costumes and tiny figures were a highlight of the occasion.

Nursery School Pageant At King City

By DONNA MATTHEWS
The King City Co-operative Nursery School held its Christmas Concert on the morning of December 19 in the hall of King City United Church.

Christine VanDen Huel welcomed the parents and guests and said that the pageant was the children's gift to the audience. Several proud fathers and grandparents were also present.

Mary (Natalie Warner) and Joseph (Charley Van Gorder) came onstage and took their places. Joseph was very shy and sat with his back to the audience most of the time. Mary was a model of composure and sat with her hands carefully folded.

CAST OF ANGELS
The angels entered one by one in their white gowns trimmed with silver. One wee angel placed the baby Jesus in his manger. The cast of angels included Caroline Stevens, Heather Ann MacDonald, Lynn Busby, Julie Newton, Tracy James, Jennifer Ladell, Annie Murray, Nichole Jeppeson, Tanya Lary, Harriet Noel-Smith.

Nicole Sweezy, Kristi Kanitz, Rebecca and Rachel Greenspan, Lisa Lariviere, Sian Davies, Karen Beaumont, Lorraine Morris, and Andrea Smith. Linda Lariviere was away sick.

The halos were obviously a novelty as they floated about on the head, over the wrist, over one ear, etc.

SHEPHERD'S ARRIVE

Close on the angels' heels came the shepherds David Haggit, Justin Kanitz, Todd Nichol, Marcus Kaselle, Bryan Reeds, Kevin Macey, Eric Rocks, Geoffrey Kirby, Kevin Anderson, Cris Pepperton, Stephen Beaumont, Brian Penney, Brydon Roe and Mark McIntyre, Kelly Swan and Archie McCowan were away sick.

The three Kings were David Di Cecco, Jack Steadman and Peter VanNostrand.

While Mrs. Van Gorder played the piano the children sang Away In A Manger, and the Little Drummer Boy.

AROUND YULE TREE

Assistants helped to remove their costumes and the children gathered about a Christmas tree to sing Decorate The Tree. Mrs. Catherine Fagerstrom accompanied them on the guitar. The finale was the children encircling the tree and singing and laughing and falling down as they walked.

Mrs. Janet Van Nostrand and Mrs. Christine Van Den Huel distributed gifts to all the children including the younger brothers and sisters in the audience. Everyone enjoyed refreshments afterwards.
