

Region Rule Means Higher Phone Bills

Bell Canada says Ontario's system of new regional governments will cost its customers millions of dollars until telephone areas coincide with new municipal boundaries.

In a brief to provincial and municipal officials the utility warns it may be several years before residents can obtain toll free phone service within the new municipalities.

The company makes no special mention of rate increases but says subscribers will ultimately have to pay the cost of the changes—estimated at $1,600 each for 700 Burlington customers alone.

J. W. M. Smith, Bell's director of provincial government relations, says in the brief that conversion for this area now within Halton Regional Government will not be completed until 1975.

The brief notes that some provincial and municipal officials have consistently opposed Bell's applications for rate increases, while asking for new directories and new calling boundaries.

Mr. Smith says 85 percent of Bell's $330-million capital investment in Ontario in 1973 was to serve new subscribers. Funds for boundary realignment will have to come second to new service which is Bell's priority, he adds.

Some residents in the new Durham Region will have to call long distance to deal with their municipal government.

Seniors Programs At N.Y. Libraries

Growth in contact with the community at large has been one of North York Library's major achievements. Included in this development has been the awareness of the need for senior citizens' activities throughout the Borough.

The Shut-in and Mobile Outreach Services take books, films, crafts, music and a variety of other programs to those people unable to come to the library, designed to enrich the lives of people who previously have not been able to share in these experiences.

But for the active seniors in North York, the library offers a wide variety of drop-in programs and film shows. The Willowdale Library at 5126 Yonge Street holds a film showing every Friday afternoon where the senior citizens have a cup of tea, view a film or two and chat with their neighbors and friends. A steady group of about 40 people gather in the auditorium at 2:00 pm for this "Tea, Travel and Talks" program.

Senior citizens in the Fairview area meet at their library on Thursday evenings for an informal social evening. The content alternates from films one week to card games another week from 6:30 to 8:30 pm at 5 Fairview Mall Dr.

The "Over Sixty Crowd" has been meeting in the Brookbanks Library (210 Brookbanks Drive) for a number of years. Card games and convivial talk begin at 1:30 pm every Friday afternoon.

Film shows are featured weekly at Amesbury Park Library, 1565 Lawrence Avenue West at 1:30 pm and at the Black Creek Library, 2141 Jane Street on Thursdays beginning at 1:30 pm.

Whatever the need may be, the library is there to provide the facilities and, of course, there is no charge. In addition to films, card games and crafts, the senior can get acquainted with the services available at their library and find out what's happening in the community.
